Marshall Out; Eisenhower Is Chief

ADM. KING ALSO TO QUIT; NIMITZ WILL REPLACE HIM

Truman Announces Army and Navy Shakeups

BY WALTER TROHAN
(Chicago Tribune Press Service)

Washington, D. C., Nov. 20—President Truman late this afternoon announced a shakeup in the top command of the army and navy.

Effective almost immediately, Gen. Eisenhower will replace Gen. Marshall as chief of staff of the army. The allied supreme commander in western Europe will be succeeded as commander of the United States forces in Europe and of the American occupation army in Germany by Lt. Gen. McNarney. The Eisenhower nomination was sent to the senate today and will be effective upon confirmation by that body.

Adm. Nimitz [left], Lt. Gen. McNarney, and Adm. Spruance [right].

Changes in Navy

Effective some time after Christmas, Adm. Nimitz, commander in chief of the Pacific fleet, will replace Adm. King as chief of naval operations and commander in chief of the United States fleet. Nimitz will take a brief vacation, and be succeeded as head of the Pacific fleet by Adm. Spruance.

The retirements of Adm. King and Gen. Marshall have been expected for weeks. Both officers signified their intention of early retirement after the victory over Japan. Both are past the retirement age of 64.

Others Want Out

Gen. Arnold, chief of the army air forces, and Gen. Somervell, chief of the army service forces, have also asked to be retired. Gen. Somervell asked for his retirement to be effective with the resignation of Gen. Marshall.

The President, who said he was loath to grant the retirement of Marshall and King, said that he had not yet accepted the retirement pleas of Arnold and Somervell. It is expected that these officers will be permitted to retire shortly.

"Greatest in History"

At his news conference, President Truman said that he believed that Marshall is the greatest general in American history, praising him for the building and direction of the victorious armies. This praise was in line with his previous expressions that the general carried out the greatest assignment of any military leader in history.

On the King shift, he said that Adm. Nimitz will come here to confer with King on the shift and then go back to the Pacific to arrange for the succession of Spruance to his command. After a few weeks' vacation, probably after Christmas, he will take over King's duties.

Pending senate confirmation of his nomination, Gen. Eisenhower will be acting chief of staff. It is expected that the senate will waive rules for the general and confirm his appointment by a unanimous vote tomorrow.

GEN. EISENHOWER BACKS MERGER, YEAR'S SERVICE

BY THOMAS MORROW
(Pictures on pages 4 and 5 and back page)

Gen. Eisenhower, the army's new acting chief of staff who led the allies to victory over Germany, told the American Legion last night that Americans must have a minimum of a year's military training and called for a unified top command of all American fighting forces.

He spoke at the Legion banquet in the Palmer House, climaxing the third day of the Legion's 27th national convention. He previously announced that the address would be the most important of his career.

Training Takes Time

Gen. Eisenhower said soldiers and veterans are convinced that strength springs from unity, stamina, teamwork, and perfected technique. These, he said, are the result of training, and training requires time.

"The minimum is a year," he said.

This brought the first cheer of applause from the persons who had jammed the ballroom to hear him. His audience also shouted approval when he said, "No other country fears a strong America, no decent preparations of our own will be regarded suspiciously by others, because we are trusted."

The audience also cheered his statement that "every consideration of efficiency, economy, and progress in research demands the closest possible unity among all our fighting forces from bottom to top. This great and necessary purpose," the speaker said, "can be best achieved by unified control at the top."

National Commander Edward N. Scheiberling of the Legion, in introducing Eisenhower, said that history, usually, is slow in estimating the quality of men. On Eisenhower, however, he said, the accolade had been bestowed at the height of the general's career.

A Rousing Welcome

To be strong, America must be trained and integrated, Eisenhower said, with the closest possible unity among all fighting forces, from bottom to top.

Gen. Eisenhower threw an indirect retort at critics of universal military training who say the army generals favor it because it will provide jobs for officers who otherwise would be retired.

He said that "no consideration of rank, renown, regard, or personal advancement" has the slightest weight with any officer of his acquaintance as compared with his country's welfare.

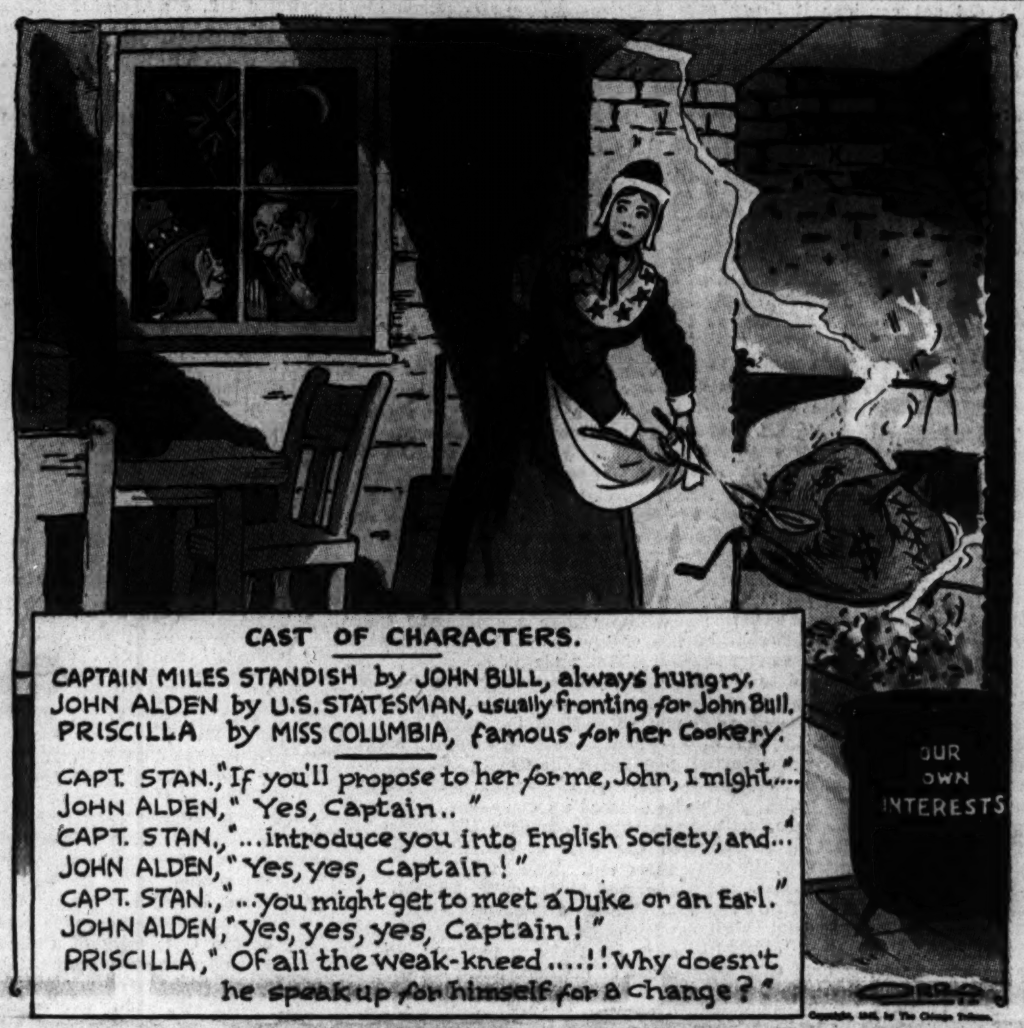
AN OLD ROMANCE



Hitler Crude Lover, Eva's Diary Reveals

FRANKFURT, Germany, Nov. 20 (AP)—Eva Braun wrote in her diary that she was "mistress of Germany's and the world's greatest man," and threatened to kill herself when Hitler found a "fat-legged" substitute for her.

She confided to the diary that Hitler was rather crude in love making, never kept his promises, and sometimes gave her an envelope with money without saying a word.

Entries in the book, found in Eva's treasure chest, covered the four month period from February to May, 1935, and were translated by United States intelligence officers. They gave the first intimate details of Hitler, the lover.

"The weather is gorgeous and I, mistress of Germany's and the world's greatest man, have to sit at home and look at it thru a window," read an entry dated May 10.

A "Fat Legged" Walkure

Upon learning of "the fat legged" Walkure, whom a friend had told her was a substitute for her, Eva wrote that "it is mean of him not to tell me."

Jealously, she wrote "her name is Walkure and she looks it, including her legs. But these things are shapes that appeal to him. If that is true he will have her till she gets slim, unless she has Charlie's talent for thriving on worries."

Neither Walkure nor Charlie nor another woman in Hitler's life named only as "Ondra" were identified further.

On May 28, when Eva, a sleeping pill addict, had not seen Hitler for three months, she sent an ultimatum "that is decisive for me. If I don't get an answer by 10 tonight I'll take my 25 pills and lie down peacefully. . . .

"I'm afraid I won't get an answer today. If only some one would help me—everything is so hopeless. Maybe my letter reached him at an inopportune time, or maybe I shouldn't have written at all."

"Love Not on His Program"

Eva made several references to an apparent love nest Hitler had promised, saying once that "the house is ready but I can't go to visit him. 'Love' does not seem to be on his program at present."

The occasions when he silently gave her money peeved her.

"If only he had at least added greetings or a kind word I would have been so happy but he never thinks of such things like that," the diary said.

British intelligence reports have indicated that the dictator and Eva finally were married last spring in the chancellery beneath the ruins of Berlin and that both committed suicide the following day.

"He is only using me for very definite purposes," she wrote. "When he loves me he takes it about as seriously as his promises which he never keeps. Why does he torture me so much instead of just putting an end to the whole thing?"

The self-styled mistress described the bleakness of her 23d birthday on Feb. 6, 1935, when she pined for a dachshund but never got it.

"No Dog and No Cupboard"

"He was just here, but no dog and no cupboard," the diary read. "He didn't even ask me whether I had a birthday wish. So now I bought myself some jewelry—a necklace with earrings and ring to match. Everything very pretty. I hope he likes it. If not, he may buy me something himself."

Once when Hitler left without saying good-by, after Eva said they had "spent a few wonderful hours" together, she wrote:

"I only wish I were seriously ill for at least eight days and to hear nothing of him. Why doesn't something happen to me? Why do I have to suffer like this? I wish I had never seen him. I am desperate and I'm going to buy some more sleeping tablets and at least then I'll be half dazed and won't think about him so much. Why doesn't the devil come and get me? I'm sure it's nicer there than here."

At another time Eva wrote that she stood for three hours outside the Carlton—a hotel—and "had to watch while Hitler brought flowers for Ondra and invited her for supper."

Chicago Plane on Hop Back from Britain

BY WARD WALKER
(Chicago Tribune Press Service)

LONDON, Nov. 20—The Flagship Chicago was on its way back to Chicago tonight. The take-off at Hurn airport in England was at 6:55 p. m. [12:55 p. m. Chicago time], just 2 hours and 50 minutes after the Chicago settled on the fog shrouded Hurn runway.

[The Chicago is carrying 15 passengers and a crew of seven on the return flight. It is scheduled to arrive in Chicago at 6:15 p. m. today.]

The great circle airway route from Chicago to Europe was opened at 4:05 p. m. [10:05 a. m. Chicago time], with the historic landing at Hurn. But for the crew of the giant four motored airplane, the flight from Chicago in 10 minutes less than 24 hours had been almost routine—smooth air, plenty of gasoline, constant communication over a route that was flown thousands of times during the war—a route that was pioneered by Charles A. Lindbergh 18 years ago.

Signals New Trade Era

For the middle west and Europe this voyage was deeply significant. For Chicagoland it dropped the shackles forged by a thousand miles of land separating it from the sea coasts and opened the world's most productive area to direct trade with the capitals of Europe.

For Europe, the flight meant direct access to the factories, production methods and warehouses of the world's most developed economy.

Twenty-three hours and 50 minutes of flight—a figure that the American Overseas air lines plans to lower to 11 hours—went rapidly.

Chicago to London

First Chicago airport, with the last minute confusion, passport inspection, check of flying weight. . . Abrupt change of plans and landing field in bleak, snowbound Goose bay, Labrador. . . . Long and slightly tedious night flight over clouds above the North Atlantic. . . Early sunrise [2 a. m. Chicago time], for the Chicago was racing into the sun, and then the startling green of Ireland, landing at Rineanna beside the River Shannon in County Clare. . . A short trip above the clouds to Hurn, 115 miles southwest of London. . . Fog and a train ride to London.

Mayor Kelly, who headed the passenger list with his 19 year old son, Joseph, spent most of the waking hours of the voyage from Chicago playing gin rummy with his son and planning his campaign in London.

100 PLANTS HIT IN 20 STATES BY UAW ORDER

325,000 to Be Idle; Blow to Business

Report Ward Strike

Denver, Colo., Nov. 20 (AP)—A strike by 2,000 employes of Montgomery Ward & Co. retail and wholesale stores will be effective next Monday, M. Cleo Frazier, international representative of the CIO United Department Store Employes' union, said today. The Denver employes will leave their jobs at the same time union members in company stores in Albany, Chicago, Detroit, St. Paul, and Kansas City go on strike, union officials said.

In Chicago last night Leonard Levy, international vice president of the union, disclaimed any knowledge of a threatened strike in Chicago. Likewise, Sewell Avery, chairman of the board of Montgomery Ward & Co., said he had heard of no such action.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 20 (AP)—Authoritative sources close to high ranking officers of the CIO United Auto Workers said tonight that a general strike of 325,000 General Motors corporation employes is to begin at 11 a. m. tomorrow.

The strategy of the union, it was learned, presumably would be to make no announcement in advance of the actual walkouts, but that an official statement would be issued once the strike was "in effect."

R. J. Thomas, UAW president, and other top officials of the union consulted into late hours tonight formulating the strategy to be used in the nation-wide walkout.

All General Motors units—100 in 20 states—from the biggest auto plants to the smallest feeder units, are to be struck simultaneously, the usually reliable source said.

Thomas Issues Strike Call

The strike call was issued late today by Thomas after a closed meeting of the strike strategy committee of the union.

In Los Angeles, Cal., Eugene Judd, local UAW official, said tonight that approximately 1,200 employes in the General Motors plant in suburban South Gate would strike at the appointed hour tomorrow, on the advice of a phone call from a local union member attending the union meeting in Detroit.

The men will report to work as usual at 7 a. m., pick up their tools and other equipment, and walk out an hour later, Judd said.

Meanwhile, the CIO United Electric, Radio and Machine workers, with 30,000 workers in the electric division of G. M., requested immediate resumption of negotiations with the company on their demands for a $2 a day wage increase.

Alerted for Action

Neil Brant, international representative of UE-CIO who sat in on the G. M. conference, said he had been invited to attend by UAW officials. He said he had informed these officials that the UE locals are alerted for any action that may be necessary.

Brant emphasized, however, the UE would not go on strike in concert with the G. M. locals. He added that the UE-CIO "is not a party to the UAW proposal to arbitrate the wage dispute."

Thomas' announcement climaxed a succession of rapidly moving events which began earlier today when General Motors said it would reply on or before Friday to a union demand that wage issues be submitted to arbitration.

The UAW had set 4 p. m. today as a deadline for the company to reply to the proposal.

Kidnaped, Say Dutch Sailors in Canada Jail

BY FRANK HUGHES

The fate of the 19 man crew of the Dutch motorship Prins Willem III., which lay off downtown Chicago at the outer breakwater in Lake Michigan for three months in 1940, was disclosed last night.

Three of its members have been held in a Canadian prison for five years, without trial, hearing, or presentation of charges, they have informed relatives and friends here in letters. They reported they had committed no crime, unless it was to refuse, as Netherlands citizens, to sign English sailing articles when the ship left the port of Chicago.

English Conditions Rejected

The facts as the crew members stated them are:

1. Seventeen of the 19 men of the motor freighter, which had carried a cargo of seeds and twine from Rotterdam, Holland, to Chicago in May, 1940, refused to set out for England with a Canadian cargo under the conditions presented to them. They said they were unwilling to face the war perils of the Atlantic under English articles which provided no war risk insurance for their families.

2. On Oct. 7, 1940, a British empire "prize" crew, consisting of 14 men recruited in Montreal, Que., arrived here from Canada, boarded the ship, and sailed her out of Chicago with 17 of the Dutchmen confined to quarters in the hold. The men said they were "kidnaped." Ten private detectives went aboard with the Canadian crew.

Dutch Sailors Put in Irons

3. Five days later the Prins Willem III. put in at the Canadian port of Goderich, Ont., where 16 of the Dutch sailors were taken off in irons. They were held in jail for a few days and taken over by the Canadian royal mounted police, who transferred them to Bordeaux jail in Montreal. From there they were shipped to Halifax, N. S. Three of them said they have been in the city prison there ever since—more than five years.

4. They asserted the captain of the ship, W. P. C. Helsdingen, never ordered them to sail from Chicago, because "the captain himself didn't want to sail," and therefore they disobeyed no orders. Capt. Helsdingen said in an interview while in port here that he did not consider the men guilty either of mutiny or of a sit-down strike.

Mystery Finally Solved

It was not until the end of the war and the reestablishment of postal service to Holland that the mystery of the Prins Willem III., which sailed out of Chicago's harbor like a ghost ship, was solved.

When mail service to the Nether-

F. D. R. BOOKS SELL 10 TO 1 IN BRITAIN OVER DEMAND IN U. S.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service)

LONDON, Nov. 20 — Britain bought 10 times more volumes of collected addresses and messages of the late President Roosevelt than were sold in his own native United States, it was disclosed today by William G. Hall, financial secretary to the British treasury.

Hall spoke at a ceremony in his majesty's stationery office inaugurating the sale of United States government documents in this country. United States Ambassador Winant told the crowd that the new service demonstrated the continuing interest of the British in the ideals and objectives of America.

"His majesty's stationery office by removing one of the barriers to free circulation of ideas thru government documents is removing an obstacle in the way of common action and mutual interest," he said. United States government publications and periodicals printed by the public printer in the United States for the British will bear King George's coat of arms instead of the American eagle, it was proudly announced by Norman Scorgie, controler of the stationery office. They will be purchased with dollars in the United States and sold here for British pounds sterling.

During the war the British reprinted 1,060,000 copies of American government documents and all except 60,000 were sold. There were 14 documents reprinted, including Mr. Roosevelt's speeches. Under the new arrangement the British still retain the right and privilege to reprint any government document available thru publication here rather than importing from America.

CHARGES F. D. R. PLANNED JAP BLOCKADE IN '40

Richardson Bares 'Patrol' Idea

BY WILLARD EDWARDS
(Chicago Tribune Press Service)

Washington, D. C., Nov. 20—The late President Roosevelt was contemplating in October, 1940, the flinging of a line of American warships across the Pacific to stop Japanese shipping, a course certain to plunge the United States into war, Adm. J. O. Richardson [retired], informed the Pearl Harbor investigating committee today.

The former commander in chief of the United States fleet produced this disclosure as the climax to an afternoon of startling testimony which left the committee and audience gasping.

Aimed to Bluff Japan

The admiral's latest disclosure supplemented his previous testimony that Mr. Roosevelt had overruled him and kept the fleet in Pearl Harbor where it was a sitting target for Jap bombs on Dec. 7, 1941. The high authorities in Washington, Adm. Richardson said, appeared to be making their warlike moves in the belief that "Japan could be bluffed."

"On Oct. 10, 1940," Richardson testified, reading from a memorandum which he said he had prepared several weeks ago in preparation for his appearance as a witness, "about 5 p. m., Col. Knox, secretary of the navy, sent for me and Adm. Stark [chief of naval operations] to come to his office.

Had Talked with F. D. R.

"We met with the secretary together, with my war plans aide, Comdr. Vincent R. Murphy, and Adm. Royal E. Ingersoll and Capt. C. M. Cook who accompanied Adm. Stark.

"The secretary stated that he had important information bearing on the employment of the fleet. He stated that he had just talked to the President and that the President was concerned as to the Japanese reaction to the British on the reopening of the Burma road scheduled for Oct. 17.

"In the event of drastic Japanese action," Knox said, "the President was considering shutting off all trade between Japan and the Americas by establishing a patrol of light ships in two lines, one from Hawaii west to the Philippines and the other from Samoa to the Dutch East Indies.

Would Be Act of War

"The question was raised whether this included stopping Jap ships as well as others. The view was expressed that this would be an act of war. I asked if the President was considering a declaration of war. The secretary said the President hadn't said.

"'All I know is what I've been told,' the secretary said. I was amazed at the proposal. I said the fleet was not prepared to put such a plan into effect and war would be the certain result of such a course of action. I said we would be certain to lose many ships.

"There was further discussion that such a line of ships would disperse the units and leave them exposed to destruction. It was said that the best way to control shipping would be to control the source of the trade by control of the relatively few ports involved. I, in particular, protested.

Asked for Alternate Plan

"The secretary appeared displeased at the general reaction and mine in particular and said, 'I am not a strategist; if you don't like the President's plan draw up one of your own to accomplish the purpose.' The conference ended with Adm. Stark and I agreeing to draw up a tentative plan of operations in conjunction with the reopening of the Burma road."

Stark and Richardson drew up a plan, the latter told the committee, which provided for the transfer to the Pacific of an airplane carrier, planes, and destroyers, and one or two cruisers.

"Adm. Stark was not prepared to approve the plan," the witness said. He said he would talk with the President and let me know later. When the plan was completed, both Secretary Knox and the President were away from Washington. All I ever heard of the plan after that was a directive from Adm. Stark to send a copy of it to Adm. Hart, commander of the Asiatic squadron."

During '40 Campaign

The time of the contemplated "patrol line" plan was just a month before the national elections in 1940 in which Mr. Roosevelt was a candidate for a third term, committee members noted.

The Knox conference, Richardson noted, was two days after Mr. Roosevelt in a White House luncheon had overruled objections of the admiral to keeping the fleet in Pearl Harbor. That the President then had the "patrol line" in mind was indicated, he said, by a reference to the availability of oil supplies in Samoa.

"I am fairly certain nothing I said had anything to do with creating such a patrol," said Richardson.

Audience Amazed

The gruff, pipe smoking admiral was continually eliciting mumurs of amazement from the audience during his afternoon testimony. He accused Dr. Stanley Hornbeck, former adviser to the state department on far east relations, of "exercising greater influence over the disposition of the Pacific fleet than I was."

This charge came after Richardson said he received the impression from Washington authorities that they thought "Japan could be bluffed." After he testified former State Secretary Hull was not one of those sharing this opinion, he was asked who gave him this impression.

"Whether wrong or not," Richardson replied, "after talking with Dr. Hornbeck I was distinctly of the impression that he was exercising greater influence over the disposition of the fleet than I was. In my note book at the time, I wrote my impression that he was 'the strong man on the far east and the cause of our staying in Hawaii where he will hold us as long as he can.'

Completely Wrong

"He was, however, unwilling to accept the responsibility for the retention of the fleet in Hawaii. I told him he was completely wrong even tho he was the state department's adviser on foreign affairs and had written many books on the subject."

Strong sarcasm tinged the admiral's voice as he made the foregoing observation.

Rep. Gearhart [R., Cal.], questioned Richardson about the time required for the fleet to prepare itself for war if left at Pearl Harbor, in comparison with the time required for such preparation if it was based on the Pacific coast. The admiral said it was a difference of many weeks. The fleet would have to return to the Pacific coast, he said, to strip for action, and that trip alone would take a week.

Attack on U. S. Possible!

By having the fleet in Pearl Harbor we were 2,000 miles closer to the enemy for possible attack," remarked Gearhart. Richardson again made the crowd murmur when he declared:

"In my opinion, if the Jap fleet could cross most of the Pacific ocean, undiscovered, and deliver an attack on Pearl Harbor, it is quite likely it could have delivered the same attack, undetected, on Puget Sound!"

"Was the fleet in Pearl Harbor a restraining influence on Japan as the President contended?" asked Gearhart.

"I didn't think so when I was talking to him and I haven't changed my mind!" boomed the admiral.

Japs Knew Weaknesses

"Did the Japs know the deficiencies of our navy?"

"I never had any doubt that they did," said Richardson. "The secretary of the navy told me the Japs knew more about our fleet than I did!"

"Was the Jap fleet superior to ours?"

"Our knowledge of the Jap fleet was not complete but to my knowledge and belief it was either equal to or superior to that part of the fleet I had in the Pacific."

Sen. Ferguson [R., Mich.] asked the witness if any definite order was issued to keep the fleet in Pearl Harbor after it arrived there from fleet maneuvers in May, 1940.

"The Boss" Was F. D. R.

"There was never a definite order," was the reply. "We just gradually drifted into staying."

"Who was 'the boss' referred to so frequently by Adm. Stark in his correspondence with you?"

"The President of the United States, known by the Constitution [sic] as the commander in chief of the army and navy!"

"After your argument with the President in October, 1940, over the basing of the fleet, when did you next hear from him?"

"I never," said the admiral, "heard from him again. I never saw him again."

Rep. Murphy [D., Pa.] in lengthy questioning sought to make Richardson admit that Adm. Stark never agreed with him that the fleet should be stationed on the Pacific coast rather than in Pearl Harbor. Richardson read extracts from Stark's letters to prove his contention that Stark was in sympathy with his stand.

"I was never in any doubt about Adm. Stark's position," Richardson said.

The navy's so-called "orange" plan for attacking Japan had "no relation to reality" in its conception of the time element necessary for the capture of Truk, the Jap's main Pacific base, Richardson declared.

Adm. Richardson was still in the witness chair when the hearing adjourned until tomorrow. Adm. William D. Leahy, who was present at the White House luncheon when President Roosevelt predicted that the Japs would "sooner or later make a mistake" that would bring on war with the United States, will be the next witness, it was announced.

U. S. RELIED ON BLUFFING

Richardson told the committee earlier in his testimony he received the distinct impression on his visit to Washington in October, 1940, that high authorities felt "Japan could be bluffed."

Describing an hour long conference with the then State Secretary Hull and Undersecretary Welles, the admiral said "Hull gave a very comprehensive statement of his views regarding the relationship between Japan and the United States."

"Mr. Hull felt we should take a very strong position in regard to Japan," Richardson testified. "And he felt that the retention of the American fleet in Hawaii reflected that strong attitude.

"I cannot say just where I got the impression—I do not believe it was from Hull—but I got the distinct impression in Washington that it was felt Japan could be bluffed."

Talked with Marshall

In addition to President Roosevelt, Hull, and Welles, Richardson said he talked, during his Washington visit, with Sen. Byrnes [D., N. C.], now secretary of state; Gen. Marshall, army chief of staff, and Dr. Hornbeck.

The witness was asked why he apparently was alone in demanding that the fleet be based on the Pacific coast instead of at Pearl Harbor.

"It is my belief," he said firmly, "that had Adm. Stark been uninfluenced by other considerations, he'd have agreed wholeheartedly with me on that point. His letters show that in many instances, when I was given permission to return one-third of the fleet at a time to the Pacific coast for replenishment of supplies and obtaining of additional men, Adm. Stark said he gave the order 'with great pleasure.'"

F. D. R.'s Words Recalled

Richardson began his testimony at the morning session by reading into the record an official navy memorandum he had prepared following his Oct. 8 conversation with Mr. Roosevelt. This covered some points not mentioned in his direct testimony concerning the President's views.

The President said, according to the memo, that "The British believe the Germans will attempt to occupy Dakar from Spain overland thru Africa." He also remarked that the British ambassador felt British officers should be permitted to attend American navy staff conferences on the situation in the Pacific.

Opposed Navy Increase

"The President indicated," the memo continued, "that he might approve sending a division of old light cruisers to visit Mindanao as a gesture. He did not appear favorably disposed toward sending a stronger force."

Startled expressions appeared on the faces of committee members as they heard from Richardson that Roosevelt, noted as a "big navy" man, had opposed an increase in the power of the navy in July, 1940.

On a visit to Washington three months prior to his October visit, Richardson had lunch with Roosevelt on July 8 and talked to him for two or three hours, he told the committee.

"My mission was primarily to find out what was back of our intentions in the Pacific and to ascertain the duration of the stay of the fleet in Pearl Harbor," he testified. "I also stressed to the President the necessity for increasing the number of men in the navy.

"We were building a very large navy but had approximately only 85 per cent of the men necessary. You can build a destroyer quicker than you can train the men to operate it. I was strongly of the opinion that the ships should have all the men they could carry. I also desired the retention of fleet officers without the normal change of duty.

Quick Inductions Favored.

"The President was rather loath to increase the number of men in the navy because he felt that men mechanically trained in civilian life could be inducted quickly and made into sailor men."

Chairman Barkley cross-examined Richardson briefly. He asked if Adm. Kimmel, who succeeded Richardson on Feb. 1, 1941, was "next in seniority or down the line."

"He was pretty far down the line," answered Richardson. He explained there was a full admiral and some vice admirals who exceeded Kimmel in rank who were passed over by President Roosevelt in selecting Kimmel.

Kimmel was commander of the cruiser squadron in the Pacific when appointed commander in chief of the fleet.

Naval vs. Diplomatic Uses

"You continually emphasized in your letters that you wanted the fleet on the Pacific coast, not at Pearl Harbor," remarked Barkley. "That was solely from a naval point of view? But the President, Adm. Stark, and the secretary of the navy were impressed with diplomatic or psychological reasons for basing the fleet at Hawaii?"

"O, absolutely," said Richardson.

Sen. Lucas [D., Ill.] asked if the possibility of a hostile air attack had been one of the reasons why Richardson did not want the fleet at Pearl Harbor.

"I did not consider it likely at that time, in 1940," was the answer.

Lucas noted that Richardson on May 13, 1940, had written in a letter to Stark that "South America is the greatest prize yet remaining to be grabbed."

"Who was going to grab it?" asked Sen. Lucas.

Richardson looked puzzled, then barked: "I didn't want anybody to grab South America!"

The answer evoked the first laughter at the hearing.

INDIA WILL SURPASS 'THIRD RATE BRITAIN,' NEHRU TELLS NATIVES

LAHORE, India, Nov. 20 [Reuters]—Britain is now reduced to a third class power altho still trying to retain her imperialist hold in India and elsewhere, Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru, Indian Congress party leader, said here today in an election speech. There are only two first class powers, America and Russia, and in the world of tomorrow they will be joined by China and India, Nehru added.

"The whole of Asia is now in ferment," he said "A new spirit of revolt against all types of imperialism is sweeping the continent. Domination by the British for 150 years has become intolerable. Indians will not wait for more declarations and more promises from New Delhi and London but will solve the issue of their freedom themselves."

UPHOLD RULING ON BUCKINGHAM MEMORIAL FUND

The Appellate court, in a 23 page decision, yesterday upheld a 1943 ruling by Judge Benjamin P. Epstein in Circuit court in favor of the trustees of a million dollar memorial fund left by Kate Sturges Buckingham for the erection of a memorial to Alexander Hamilton.

Judge Epstein had dismissed a suit brought by Thomas J. Courtney, then state's attorney, which charged that a conspiracy existed among the trustees to allow the fund to revert to the Art institute instead of erecting the memorial. The Circuit court held, and was upheld by the Appellate court, that the trustees acted in good faith and had not breached their trust in not building the memorial to date and were justified in holding the project in abeyance pending the termination of the war.

The court also denied Courtney's request to dismiss Trustees Chauncey McCormick and Walter Smith because they were officers of the Art institute. It held they were officers of the institute when named trustees by Miss Buckingham, who died Dec. 14, 1937, at the age of 79. Other trustees named in the suit were John P. Wilson, Albert A. Sprague, and Earl Kribben. Miss Buckingham had stipulated that the million dollar fund revert to the Art institute if the memorial had not been erected within 10 years of her death.

OPA RECEIVES PROTESTS OVER ORANGE PRICES

The office of price administration yesterday received protests from housewives, grocers, and wholesalers against the sudden rise in the price of oranges. Many restaurant operators wanted to know how they could sell orange juice for 10 cents a glass when the price "should be" almost double that.

Price ceilings on citrus fruits were suspended thruout the nation by OPA Monday until Jan. 13, 1946, with the warning that the controls would be restored if inflationary price increases developed and continued.

Wholesale prices yesterday stayed high. Large California oranges, which went $9.95 a case on Monday, had settled to $8.20 per case, compared with the suspended ceiling of $5.28. Small oranges were 10 cents above the former $5.20 ceiling, and Texas grapefruit sold for $6.05 per case, compared with an old ceiling of $4.03.

ARMY IN HAWAII ALERTED IN '40, BUT NOT NAVY

Richardson Changes His Testimony at Hearing

BY PHILIP DODD
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 20—The question of why the army had ordered a wartime alert in the Hawaiian islands in June, 1940, when no such orders were given the navy remained unanswered today as the congressional Pearl Harbor investigating committee ended its fifth day of public hearings.

The alert mystery was brought up by Adm. J. O. Richardson, commander of the United States fleet from January, 1940, to February, 1941. He said he had returned from sea June 22, 1940, and was informed the army had been placed on the alert, manning all installations, issuing live ammunition, but taking steps to avoid alarming the population.

At the morning session, Richardson said he had radioed Adm. Harold R. Stark, then chief of naval operations, for an explanation. He stated he had received no reply.

Changes Testimony

At the end of today's session, however, Richardsan told the committee he was "humiliated" to ask that his testimony be changed, but said he had learned he was mistaken and that he had received a reply from Stark.

The reply, Richardson said, stated the army had been given orders for a Hawaiian alert after the war department had conferred with the state and navy departments. It also asked Richardson to coöperate with army authorities.

Richardson said he had changed his testimony after being shown a portion of Adm. H. K. Hewitt's report on the Pearl Harbor disaster which contained a copy of Stark's reply. Hewitt, a member of the navy general board, was ordered to study the Pearl Harbor case last summer after the special naval court of inquiry had made its report. His report has not been made public.

Can't Comprehend Action

"Adm. Stark's message would indicate, would it not, that this alert was more than a practice?" asked Sen. Ferguson [R., Mich.]. Richardson said it "might."

"How do you account for the fact," asked Ferguson, "that the army was alerted and not the navy?"

"That is past my comprehension," declared Richardson.

Earlier, Richardson had testified he ordered an extension of navy air searches to cover a 180 degree arc to the west of Pearl Harbor, 300 miles out. The planes used were unarmed rescue craft, he said.

Feared Fanatical Attack

Richardson ordered the patrol, he said, for training purposes and because of his knowledge of the Japanese which led him to believe some "fanatical" Japanese commander of a minor war vessel might take it upon himself to attack an American vessel.

Richardson told the committee, despite fears among high navy officials of a surprise Japanese attack in the Pacific, defenses against an air attack on Pearl Harbor were pitifully inadequate less than a year before the base was hit. He described navy efforts to have the army strengthen its defenses.

The army was charged with the protection of the Pearl Harbor base with anti-aircraft guns. Yet early in 1941 the total army anti-aircraft equipment in Hawaii was only 26 fixed 3 inch guns, 44 mobile 3 inch guns, and 109 .50 calibre machine guns.

Aircraft Obsolescent

In a memorandum to Adm. Stark, dated Dec. 30, 1940, and introduced in evidence today, Rear Adm. C. C. Bloch, 14th naval district commander in Hawaii, said at least 500 3-inch guns were needed for adequate defense of Pearl Harbor and other installations on the island of Oahu. In addition, 37 millimeter weapons and more machine guns would be needed, Bloch said.

Richardson had also called Stark's attention to "the small number and obsolescent condition" of land-based aircraft, and the lack of suitable local defense vessels, which necessitated detaching fleet units for local patrols.

The late Navy Secretary Knox also called attention to the lack of army anti-aircraft defense in a letter to War Secretary Stimson dated Jan. 24, 1941. Introduced in evidence today, the letter urged Stimson to give highest priority to pursuit planes, anti-aircraft guns, and air raid warning equipment for Hawaii.

On Feb. 7 Stimson replied to Knox, telling him additional equipment was being sent to Hawaii, including warning devices,

Blast Tunnell for Attack on G. O. P. Hawaii Probers

BY WILLIAM MOORE
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 20—A rebuke of such fury as has seldom been heard in the senate was visited upon the Democrats late today after Sen. Tunnell [D., Del.] had attacked the Republicans of the Pearl Harbor investigating committee.

Sen. Tunnell

Reflecting, senators said, the Democratic consternation over the investigation revelations of the last two days, the white haired Tunnell took the floor as darkness was falling to defend the late President Roosevelt with an attack on the Republicans.

Tunnell charged that partisanship has gone so far as to provide an apology for Japan as he lashed at the Republicans and said:

"In their desperation, Mr. Roosevelt's opponents have in effect put on Japanese kimonos and said, 'Honorable Roosevelt and Honorable Hull teased us into attacking'."

Saltonstall Answers

Altho senate custom calls for notifying a senator to be attacked of the impending assault, Senators Brewster [R., Me.], and Ferguson [R., Mich.] reached the senate floor after Tunnell had departed. They are the Republican senatorial members of the committee.

But towering, soft spoken Sen. Saltonstall [R., Mass.] had already sprung to his feet to begin the devastating reply.

"Sen. Tunnell's speech," he said, "would seem to indicate that the senator from Delaware is questioning the integrity of members of the committee. . . . I cannot believe any man on the committee is making apologies for Japan or being disrespectful of the late President."

Violation of Rules

Minority Leader White [R., Me.], ordinarily more gentle of voice than Saltonstall, shouted:

"I regret the speech which has just been made by the senator from Delaware. I regret it because it was an attack upon members of the senate who were not present. I regret it also because clearly it violated the rules of the senate in that it spoke with disrespect of members of this body."

Brewster himself then took the floor to tell the Democrats:

"I was called to the chamber and told the senator from Delaware was indulging in somewhat personal vituperation of members of the committee. My understanding is that it is the inviolable practice to notify in advance members who are to be attacked personally . . .

Defends Inquiry

"Now that the senator from Delaware has delivered his attack and promptly left the chamber, I gather he has questioned our actions . . .

"The committee is taking a course calculated to prevent another Pearl Harbor in the future. If the Japs were the sole persons responsible for Pearl Harbor, what is this investigation all about? If there were no responsibility to be inquired into in the executive department or the state department, then there is no need for this investigation which the majority leader [Sen. Barkley, D., Ky.] himself proposed."

Ferguson said he was sorry he had been denied the privilege of hearing Tunnell's speech.

SCIENTISTS FORM OWN BRANCH OF CITIZENS' GROUP

Organization of a science division of the midwest division of the Independent Citizens' Committee of Arts, Sciences, and Professions was decided upon last night at a meeting in the University of Chicago's graduate education hall at 5835 Kimbark av. Dr. Samuel K. Allison, director of the Institute of Nuclear Study at the University of Chicago, presided.

David Stotter, 232 E. Pearson st., an advertising man, explained that the citizens' committee, organized last summer in New York, listed among its members Frank Sinatra, Danny Kaye, James Cagney, Fredric March, Jo Davidson, Paul Robeson, Norman Corwin, Hazel Scott, Vera Zorina, and Canada Lee. He said the purposes of the committee were to work for world coöperation in international affairs, to seek full employment for Americans, and to eliminate discrimination on the basis of race, creed, or color.

Dr. Reuben Gustavson, vice president of the University of Chicago and vice chairman of the committee's midwest division, observed that other civilizations have crumbled because all people did not share their benefits. "Our problem," he said, "is to organize our civilization so all the people can participate in its benefits."

A committee including Dr. Allison, Dr. Gustavson, Dr. A. C. Ivy, head of the department of physiology at Northwestern university, and Dr. Isaac Schour, head of the department of histology of the University of Illinois school of dentistry, was named to work out details of forming a science division.

New York, Nov. 20 (AP)—Frank Sinatra lost his voice today and was ordered by his doctor to close his mouth for 24 hours to avoid serious damage to his much swooned-at vocal chords. DECLARES THIRD WAR ON WAY; U.S. POLICY BLAMED

Chicagoan Finds Hatred, Chaos in Germany

BY LEWIS HUNT

"If hatred, revenge, starvation, economic chaos, international misunderstanding, and friction are the road to war, then we are already well on the road to World War III."

This, in essence, is the view of American and allied efforts to deal with conquered Germany brought home by Robert V. Jones, 1324 Forest av., Evanston, after a period of service with the United States group, Control Council for Germany. The United States group, which includes civilian and military personnel, is Gen. Eisenhower's staff in his capacity as military governor and as a member of the four power control council.

Jones, a Chicago attorney, went to Berlin early last summer hopeful that he could contribute to making the peace. He has returned "disheartened" by what he observed of the attempt to enforce a program which he believes is opposed to the best interests of America and the world and incitive to further war if continued.

Agents Without Authority

"I left for Europe believing that our program would prove to be one of economic and social rehabilitation," he said. "Instead, it is one which can only result in economic impoverishment for all western Europe, with the inevitable accompaniment of human despair and desperation—the conditions which always in the past have produced war."

United States occupation policy, Jones said, is entirely determined in Washington and Americans in Berlin have no authority or opportunity to influence it except in minor detail. No substantial modification can be effected except by the pressure of public opinion upon Washington.

Believing that such modification is imperative, Jones requested permission to resign and return to the United States at his own expense, which he did, making the trip by frater.

"Losing the Peace"

"Thus far we are losing the peace," he said. "We have undertaken a program which is not working and which cannot work. More and more we are producing serious frictions with our allies, particularly Russia, frictions which a wiser policy would avoid. And it is increasing our enemies at a time when the atomic bomb and the rocket projectile should be inducing us to take thought of our future need for friends.

"One result of our winning the war should have been added security for continuance of our American kind of democracy. Instead, we have either actually initiated or actively supported step after step which has had the practical effect—whatever we may like to think to the contrary—of making the authoritarian mode of government dominant thruout all eastern Europe. There is going to be little of our kind of democracy east of the Elbe river for a long time to come.

"It is not inevitable that we continue to the end of the road on which we are now traveling. But dispassionate study will clearly demonstrate that World War III. is the probable end of that road and that we shall sooner or later reach it if we do not change our course."

Public Ignorance Surprises

Since his return, Jones said he had been astonished that Americans know so little of the United States program and organization in Germany.

"I had supposed that in the half a year since V-E day the American people would have been advised of our occupation policy," he said. "But I find very little understanding of what is actually happening in central Europe.

"Most people with whom I have talked, for example, say they are much surprised to learn that our ecnomic policy for Germany is the Morgenthau plan, which they thought had been discarded. Yet, as every one on the occupation government in Berlin is aware, our economic program, with but slight modifications, is the plan devised by the former secretary of the treasury to de-industrialize Germany and to attempt to make it an isolated nation of peasants."

Application of the Morgenthau idea, when Americans generally had thought it shelved, is an instance of the "secretiveness" with which the whole program has been developed and made effective, said Jones.

Secretiveness Major Error.

Terming secretiveness a major error in the American occupation, he pointed out that until recently everything connected with policy development was known only to a few men in the state and war departments.

Contents of the document known as JCS-1067 [the directive bearing that number issued by the joint chiefs of staff] were not revealed to the public until Oct. 17, altho it was transmitted to Gen. Eisenhower last April. This instrument is the basic document on occupation policy. It contains detailed military orders to Gen. Eisenhower on demilitarization, denazification, economic controls, foreign trade, German courts, education, de-industrialization, and general economic policy.

"JCS-1067, together with the Potsdam agreement, definitively sets the pattern of our occupation of Germany," said Jones. "Th Potsdam agreement was made public on Aug. 2, but it cannot properly be understood without a knowledge of the terms of JCS-1067. Consequently, neither the American press nor the public has had the material necessary for an informed viewpoint until the last few weeks.

Potsdam Pact Inoperative

"The delayed release of JCS-1067, moreover, has tended to obscure its significance. But it has become particularly important because the Potsdam agreement is largely inoperative at the present time and is, I venture to predict, going to remain so because of the inability of the four powers to agree on its application to Germany as a whole."

The American program, Jones explained, falls into four general divisions:

[1] Police measures, more or less temporary, such as public health and safety, treatment of displaced persons and similar matters; [2] demilitarization, including denazification; [3] the economic program, which is the Morgenthau plan, and [4] the policy of collaboration in control of Germany with Russia, Great Britain, and France.

The police job has been well done, Jones said, adding, "This is the type of technical work we Americans are proficient at handling." The demilitarization program also deserves approval, he said.

Criticizes Economic Program

"But however wisely the policing and disarming may be carried out, in the long run it is the economic policy which is important to peace," he said. "Our economic program—Mr. Morgenthau's plan—aims directly at the impoverishment of Germany and indirectly at the impoverishment of all western continental Europe.

"By curbing imports, it prevents the Germans from providing their own food supply and consequently confronts the American people with the dilemma of either themselves feeding the Germans or letting them starve to death.

"Some 40 to 50 millions live in Germany west of the Russian zone in an area somewhat smaller than the states of Minnesota and Iowa. They cannot possibly produce their own food requirements, no matter how intensively they farm. Last summer they turned their lawns and yards into gardens. But there will be large scale starvation this winter.

Oppose Morgenthau Plans

"I do not believe the American people will stand for either alternative which the Morgenthau plan presents. We do not wish to be burdened with feeding some millions of Germans nor do we wish to emulate German methods by adopting mass starvation as a means of punishment.

"Hundreds of thousands of Germans would starve this winter in any event, regardless of our policy, because Germany is terribly damaged. In succeeding years, however, the Germans can feed themselves without our help, if we will permit them to import food and pay for it. If we do not, there will be more starvation and the moral responsibility will be ours.

"The German people must be punished and punished severely for wantonly starting the war and ruthlessly pursuing it, but the form of punishment must be something wiser and better than mass starvation. It must be of a character to produce peace, not war."

BOWLES SHOWN SOME ODDITIES IN OPA PRICES

Washington, D. C., Nov. 20 (AP)—The house caucus room was lined today with merchandise, all the way from women's panties to children's scooters, and Price Administrator Bowles was called in to take a look and do some explaining. There were two of everything.

One pair of panties was at a low price and the other at a higher price, with a tag saying the low price item was made by an old established manufacturer and the high price "inferior" panties were the product of a manufacturer newly entered into the field. Tags on the scooters and other items said the same thing.

The house committee investigating whether government agencies are exceeding their authority wanted the OPA to explain.

Bowles said the exhibits "tend to give an exaggerated impression." He told the committee that without knowing the source of the various items he could not tell whether the high priced items were being sold above ceilings, whether the old manufacturer had applied for an increase in the ceiling, or whether the OPA has erred.

SUPER-HIGHWAY BONDS PROPOSED BY COOK COUNTY

BY ROBERT HOWARD

A resolution favoring a Cook county bond issue to help finance super-highway construction will be presented to the county board of commissioners today, Chairman Daniel A. Ryan of the finance committee said yesterday. Other officials also approved the financing plan and the suggestion was made that the city of Chicago also should float a super-highway bond issue.

Part of the funds would be used to push construction of the northwest super-highway, which will connect with the big air terminal to be built on the Douglas airport site.

A conference of county, city, state, and federal officials agreed that the northwest expressway should be built as soon as possible on a route west of the Chicago river's north branch.

Seek April Referendum

Ryan said members of the county board wanted to rush action on the bond issue so that it could be submitted for referendum approval at the primary election April 9, 1946.

Ald. Kells [28th], chairman of the council committee on traffic and safety, said it might be advisable for the city also to pledge future motor fuel tax funds so that purchase of right of way and paving of limited access super-highways would not be delayed.

"In view of the immense job before us, specific plans for super-highway financing should not be delayed," said Robert Kingery, general manager of the Chicago Regional Planning association.

Northwest Route Approved

Kingery spoke at the meeting in the office of Maj. George A. Quinlan, county highway superintendent. There it was agreed that, subject to an immediate review by engineers, the northwest super-highway should follow the line proposed by the city council.

West of the river it will run in the vicinity of Elston av. and the Wisconsin division tracks of the Chicago and North Western railway to Foster av., there swinging westward to the Higgins rd. route past the Douglas airport. Near Cicero av. the Edens parkway branch will lead past the north shore suburbs.

Congress St. Connection

At Union av. the northwest super-highway will connect with Congress st. and proposed routes beyond, including the Illinois and Michigan canal expressway. Engineers said plans also call for adequate connections with the near north side.

Also attending the conference were President Clayton F. Smith and Commissioner William Busse of the county board; Commissioner V. E. Gunlock of the city department of subways and super-highways; H. E. Surman, state engineer of highway design; Fred Johnson, federal public roads administration; William J. Mortimer and Duncan M. Campbell, county highway department, and H. Evert Kincaid, executive secretary, Chicago Plan commission.

FINNS PLAN TO REVALUE CASH; CURB INFLATION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

HELSINKI, Finland, Nov. 20—The Finnish government today decided to submit to parliament a bill reforming the national currency. Its aim is to combat inflation by trapping money hoarders and tax dodgers, by removing excess cash from circulation, and to restore public confidence in the currency.

The bill empowers the government to revalue the Finnish markka and force the public to exchange all cash for the new monetary unit. All money not exchanged within a stipulated period will be canceled. The government is entitled to retain a maximum of 50 per cent of the exchanged currency as a forced loan until the end of 1949. The public also is obliged to report all stocks, bonds, and other valuable papers under penalty of confiscation.

The cost of living index has risen 93 per cent since January, while money in circulation is eight times higher than in 1938.

U. S. Population Reported Past 140 Million Mark

Washington, D. C., Nov. 20 (AP)—The census bureau announced today that the population of the United States passed the 140 million mark about Oct. 1. Director J. C. Capp said that on this basis the population has increased by 8,330,725 since the 1940 census. This compares with an increase of 8,894,299 during the 10 years between 1930 and 1940.

$100,000 LIBEL SUIT OF ROBNETT GOES TO JURY

Claims Accusations in Book Untrue

A jury in the federal District court began deliberating late yesterday in the $100,000 libel suit brought by George Washington Robnett, executive secretary of the Church League of America, against E. P. Dutton & Co., publishers of the book "Under Cover," by an author who used the name John Roy Carlson.

On the witness stand during the trial, the author admitted his real name is Avedis Arthur Derounian and that he has used at least five aliases in recent years. He was born in Greece and came to the United States when he was 12 years old.

Judge Walter J. La Buy, who presided over the trial, instructed the six men and six women on the jury that if they found the defendants guilty of libel, they could assess exemplary damages or nominal damages, as they thought the evidence warranted.

The jury was locked up for the night after deliberating almost eight hours.

OWNERS UNITE TO FIGHT TAXES ON NIGHT CLUBS

The nation's night club owners yesterday banded into a national organization at a meeting in the La Salle hotel and announced an immediate threefold program—elimination of the 20 per cent night club tax, correction of office of price administration price inequities, and fighting the prohibition movement.

Ross Miller of Chicago was named president of the new organization, which will be known as the National Association of Theater Restaurants and Cafes. Other officers are R. E. Shaffer, Columbus, O., vice president; Michael Chiado, Detroit, 2d vice president; Jack Grood, Buffalo, N. Y., 3d vice president; Thomas Rosenberg, Chicago, secretary; James Pappas, Chicago, treasurer, and Ben Rafalo, Cincinnati, sergeant at arms.

Most pressing issue facing the organization, Rosenberg said, is the price freeze by the OPA. Shows cost three times as much to produce as they did in 1943, but prices charged by the night clubs remain the same, he said.

RED CARPET OF HIROHITO LAID FOR U.S. GENERAL

TOKYO, Nov. 21 [Wednesday]—(AP)—Emperor Hirohito's red carpet and all of the plush associated with him were rolled out in Tokyo station today for the arrival of Gen. Walter Krueger, commander of the United States 6th army.

American occupation forces which control the station rolled out the red carpet for Krueger to walk on and had Japanese hang blue silk curtains to hide wreckage around the station from his view.

Americans said they believed it was the first time all of the plush was used for a foreigner. Krueger came to Tokyo to confer with Gen. MacArthur.

Enlistment periods are for 1½, 2, or 3 years, with one year enlistments permitted for men with six months service. Recruits on three year enlistments will be given their choice of branch of service and of overseas theaters.

LEGION SPEECH BY EISENHOWER: KEEP U.S. STRONG

Praises Allies for Help in Great Victory

Gen. Eisenhower in his speech at the Legion banquet last night paid high tribute to Marshal of the Royal Air Force Arthur Tedder of Great Britain as a gallant leader and one of the finest airmen of the world and to Gen. Koenig of the French army. He also complimented the Red army for its work and also the allied forces in Italy for their contribution to final victory.

He told the Legionnaires that they understood more than others the teamwork required on the battlefield and the priceless battlefield value of training.

He said that in the new scientific age the time may come when virtues of physical and moral stamina, courage, patriotism, and readiness for self-sacrifice will be meaningless to national preservation; should that day come, the world's only hope will be complete spiritual regeneration.

Violence Man's Weapon Still

Recorded history proves, however, that the day of international order or complete spiritual regeneration will not come suddenly, and man has not yet been able to resolve political and economic issues without recourse to violence, Gen. Eisenhower said.

We dwell in a world where possibility of destruction is so great as to terrify peoples everywhere, yet we must still acknowledge human weakness in ourselves and others, the war commander stated.

He said he saw no incompatibility between international coöperation and effort to make certain that our country shall not become the victim of predatory force; the attack on Pearl Harbor should have dispelled the delusion that America never can be endangered.

National Strength Vital

Reasonable preparation to care for ourselves should not cause unwarranted suspicion of our friends, he continued; to be strong nationally is not a sin, it is a necessity; we must be strong for self defense and to give dignity and influence to the words of our leaders attempting to perfect machinery for settling the world's difficulties legally and peaceably.

"A weakling, particularly a rich and opulent weakling, seeking peaceable solution of a difficulty, is apt to invite contempt; but the same plea from the strong is listened to most respectfully," he said.

"We, as soldiers and veterans, bear the conviction that, given the latest and plentiful equipment, strength still springs from unity, from stamina, from teamwork, and from perfected technique. These result from training. And training requires time. The minimum is a year!

Calls Training a Boon

"With your knowledge of the difference between trained and untrained men in battle, what greater boon, what greater privilege could be given to all our young men than a degree of training which in emergency will allow them quickly to be integrated into the forces that may have to stand between our country and a thousand Buchenwalds? Tho we should become the victims of sudden and devastating raids, does any one imagine that America would abjectly sue for peace at the price of surrendering the traditions of free life that have made her great?

"Moreover, does any one imagine that, even under these conditions, trained and disciplined men, ready to fight the conflagrations, to rescue the wounded and to rally instantly behind their leaders, would not be more valuable than an equal number of equally brave and courageous men that had no modicum of training?

Would Give Nation Confidence

"A reasonable period of peace time experience in teamwork, in the development of mutual confidence, in perfected technique of weapons, and in coming to comprehend the leadership and organization that are inherent in intelligent military instruction would provide for our young men an opportunity they deserve, and would do much to give our nation justified confidence in the matter of national security.

"We are still congratulating ourselves and giving thanks to the Almighty for the great victories that this year have crowned our efforts in both hemispheres. Yet let us not forget the circumstances of the early months of that war. From Dec. 7, 1941, it was eight months before we made our first relatively small counter-move, in the bitter Guadalcanal campaign of the western Pacific. It was 11 months before we attacked with our first few divisions in North Africa, and these, because of the circumstances of that year, were only sketchily trained.

America Unprepared at Start

"It was almost exactly two and one-half years from the day the Japs treacherously attacked us before we made our decisive move in Europe to cross the channel. And it was several months more before we became strong enough in the Pacific to move definitely against the Philippines.

"The time we needed was gained for us by the courage of the British empire, the sacrifices of Russia, and by the vastness of the Pacific ocean and the selfless devotion of the initially few American soldiers, sailors, marines, and airmen in the Pacific theater. Thus in two world wars we have been dependent upon friends to protect us while we, over a period of many months, devoted feverish attention to repairing the woeful state of unpreparedness in which the outbreak of hostilities found us.

"Let us now resolve to be reasonably forehanded in this matter, so far as it is possible for a peaceful citizenry to be.

International Feeling as to U. S.

"There is another aspect to this question that deserves attention. Based upon numberless contacts with many people of other nations, I hold the conviction that no other country fears a strong America; no decent preparations of our own will be regarded suspiciously by others, because we are trusted.

"Indeed, I am convinced that others would interpret any return of ours to our former levels of unpreparedness as an intention to return to what we thought was isolation. They view with concern what they regard as our unseemly haste in disintegration of the mighty forces that did so much to bring Hitler, Mussolini, and Hirohito to their deaths or to their knees. A respectably strong America means to others a willingness on our part to bear our full share of the burdens of preserving peace—not an intention to resort to force for our own enrichment or advantage.

"I know of no more sincere pacifists than American soldiers and veterans. No one could wish more passionately than they for the assurance that no longer need we devote any of our time and treasure to the maintenance of organizations, whose very purpose is negative, rather than to constructive development of our country. No consideration of rank, reknown, regard, or personal advancement has the slightest weight with any officer of my acquaintance, as compared to his concern for peace and his country's welfare. Moreover, this problem does not primarily belong to the active soldier, except in an advisory capacity.

Citizens' Responsibilities Great

"The fighting forces of this country belong to you, our nation's citizens and voters. Your responsibilities are great—and the broader and deeper your knowledge of the requirements of security, the more it devolves upon you to give to others that same understanding of the issue here involved.

"I am told that the purpose of training all our youth, for their own good and for that of the country, is opposed by many of those to whom we have a right to look for spiritual and educational leadership. If this is true, I feel that it must arise from a reluctance to face realities, to study our own history, a history that amply proves the futility of chronic weakness and lack of training in preserving the peace.

"There appears to be a failure to understand that if we trust our own motives, then our strength can never be that of the bully, but of the peacemaker. If we sincerely believe, as I believe, that the America of the future will be true to our traditions of the past, that we will respect the rights of others and be considerate of the weak; that we will work to increase the fruitfulness of the earth, but will not steal from others to satisfy a desire of our own; that so far as it is given for mortals to do, we will act in the international field in the spirit of the golden rule—if we have faith in these things, then we and the world will be advantaged by our strength.

Derides Militaristic Thinking

"This country can never be militaristic in its thinking—and to pretend that a year of training will develop such a national philosophy can but be answered by yourselves. You—all of you—have military training—do you feel militaristic? Do you feel inclined to urge one country to adhere to a policy of aggressive war? I am perfectly satisfied—I leave that answer to you.

"So why should not we give our sons opportunity in time of peace so to prepare themselves that in the event of war they may, at minimum risk to themselves, serve their nation as brilliantly, effectively, and successfully, but with less delay, than you of World Wars I. and II. have already done? For in the event of another war it could well be that we would be the first rather than the last to be attacked.

"With this great arsenal of democracy destroyed or defeated, while it was still unready and therefore weak, the aggressive assaults on other peace loving nations would be less hazardous. But if we are strong there will be given this hypothetical Hitler of the future no advantage in singling us out first for attack, and so he may be deterred by the lessons of two world wars from attempting any resort to force.

Unity of Forces

"A strong America is a trained and an integrated America. Nowhere is that integration more necessary than in our armed forces. We must not think, primarily, in terms of ground forces, naval forces, air forces. We must think in terms of coördinated action. Every consideration of efficiency, economy, and progress in research demands the closest possible unity among all our fighting forces, all the way from bottom to top. This great and necessary purpose, I believe, can be best achieved by unified control at the top.

"And now, once more, may I say that the American and allied forces that I had the high privilege to lead in Europe join with you and with me in the devout hope that never again will the children of America be summoned from their peaceful pursuits to face the purgatory of battle.

"You, here, can be an effective force in assuring realization of that hope."

Gen. Eisenhower Visits Chicago and American Legion Convention

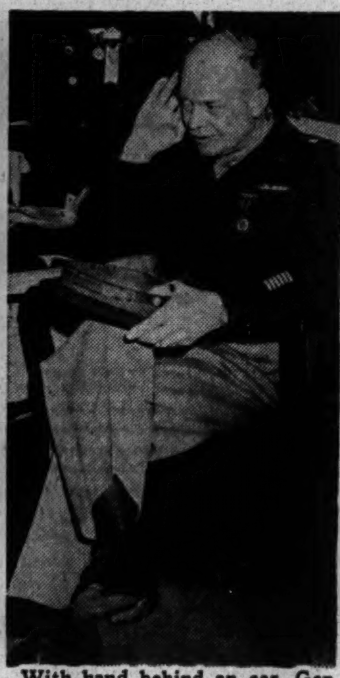
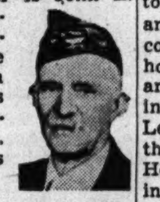
Gen. Ike waves a greeting to throng of Legionnaires at the Coliseum.



With hand behind an ear, Gen. Eisenhower tries to hear a speaker at the convention above the hubbub of the throng.

Sidelights on Legion Convention



The oldest Legionnaire found at the convention so far is John E. Newcomb, 84, of Augusta, Hancock county. He enlisted in the 33d [Prairie] division when he was 58 years old and served overseas in World War I. He guards the colors during the sessions.

Gen. Eisenhower turned to the Bible to explain the importance of preachments by Lutheran pastors in Germany regarding German war guilt. He said, "The fear of the Lord is the beginning of all wisdom." The general's deep religious sense frequently was revealed during his press conference and the brief speech accepting a Legion medal.

Gen. Eisenhower's greeting for a Blackstone hotel chef was a warm one. The chef, Henry G. Fontagneres, who served for 31 months in England and France under Eisenhower, was a staff sergeant in the 65th fighter wing of the 8th air force. He served also in World War I. with the French forces.

WAC Corp. Margaret Hastings, Owego, N. Y., the only woman to survive the crash of an American army plane in Hidden Valley, New Guinea, was a guest on the speakers' platform when the American Legion convened yesterday in the Coliseum.

Sgt. Jimmy Hendrix, 20, of Lepanto, Ark., yesterday became the first and only winner of the cogressional medal of honor to reënlist in the army. He was sworn in before the American Legion convention in the Coliseum. Sgt. Hendrix, who fought in the battle of the bulge on the western front last December, was wounded three times. He said yesterday, "I just like the army."

Among those in Gen. Eisenhower's party was Chief Warrant Officer Nana Rae, his secretary. She is the only woman in the party who served with him overseas.

More or less worn out by the honors heaped upon them, only 21 medal of honor winners showed up in the Drake hotel to weld themselves into the Congressional Medal of Honor society. John Davis, 68, of Newport, R. I., who won the medal in the Spanish-American war, was elected president; Capt. Joseph J. McCarthy, 34, fighting Chicago fireman who served with the marines in the Pacific, was named vice president, and Maynard Smith, 34, of Washington, D. C., was elected secretary and treasurer. Smith won the medal for bravery on his first mission in a Flying Fortress over Europe.

EISENHOWER THANKS TRUMAN FOR NAMING HIM CHIEF OF STAFF

Gen. Eisenhower had no comment yesterday afternoon on his nomination by President Truman to be chief of staff. The general was in bed in his fifth floor suite at the Blackstone hotel on orders of his physicians, because of an attack of what was described as "speakers' throat."

His aide, Lt. Col. James Stack, said that Gen. Eisenhower, after being notified of the nomination, transmitted to President Truman, thru the war department, a message expressing his appreciation of the confidence the President reposed in him.

RETURN OF VET SURPRISES WIFE, RIVAL, POLICE

The homecoming of Corp. Harry Abrams, 35, who was discharged Monday from the 33d division after serving overseas, provided surprises, it developed yesterday before Judge Leon Edelman in Town Hall court.

He was surprised to find himself unable to get into his home at 1248 Elmdale av. at 4 a. m. yesterday when he wanted to surprise his wife, Summerdale police testified. They were called after Corp. Abrams rang the doorbell for two hours.

Mrs. Abrams was surprised, she admitted, and so was William Stillwell, 36, of 4425 Magnolia av. Police said they had found Stillwell in bed with Mrs. Abrams. Both were arraigned before Judge Edelman on charges of lewd behavior. Abrams was absent. His wife said he didn't want to prosecute.

"Now I'm surprised," commented the judge. He dismissed the charges. That surprised the police.

MISSING GUARD FOUND ASPHYXIATED

Edwin Meyers, 55, a rapid transit lines guard, was found dead last night in his gas filled room at 925 Webster av. He had been missing two days. A gas stove burner was open and the radio was playing. Police said Myers' death undoubtedly was accidental.

LEGION WOMEN GIVE $15,000 TO LEPROSY FUND

The American Legion auxiliary, holding its 25th convention in the Stevens hotel, allocated $15,000 yesterday to the Leonard Wood Memorial Foundation for research in leprosy. A check for that amount was presented by the national president, Mrs. Charles B. Gilbert, to Perry Burgess, author of the book, "Who Walk Alone." Burgess, invited here to speak at the convention, was en route to the Philippines to continue his war interrupted work as president of the Wood Foundation.

Among other distinguished guests presented yesterday was John L. Sullivan, assistant secretary of the navy for air, who brought greetings from Navy Secretary Forrestal.

Giving emphasis to friendship of the Americas in international relations, the delegates voted to observe Pan-American day on April 14 and advocated inclusion of Spanish in the study courses of all secondary schools in this country. An uncontested election for national officers will be held at the closing session today.

La Grange WAC Given Annulment in a Triangle

WAC Sgt. Marie Biesgen Fustin, 23, of La Grange, was granted an annulment yesterday in Denver, Colo., of her marriage to Joseph R. Fustin, 22, formerly of La Grange, who is being held in Denver on a charge of bigamy. She charged that Fustin misrepresented himself as divorced from Mrs. Alice F. Fustin, 23, of Melrose Park, when he and the WAC were married Aug. 29. Fustin's trial has been set for Dec. 4.

Bandits' Victim Stumped; Even Took Wooden Leg!

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 20 (AP)—Louis E. King, former soldier, told police today that two men waylaid him last night, robbed him of $175, and removed his artificial leg—presumably so he couldn't chase them.

NAVY RETURNING BINOCULARS TO CIVILIAN DONORS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 20—With expressions of gratitude the 8,000 binoculars borrowed for the fleet from civilians at the beginning of the war are now being returned to their owners. Approximately 4,000 have been returned since the end of hostilities. The remainder are being sent back at the rate of 100 per week after inspection at the naval observatory here.

Each package is accompanied by a letter from Vice Adm. Edward L. Cochrane of the bureau of ships, thanking the individuals who responded to the call for binoculars to fill the lack of these instruments to meet the needs of the quickly expanding navy.

Two Types Accepted

The navy accepted only 6x30 and 7x50 binoculars manufactured either by Zeiss or Bausch and Lomb. An identification tag bearing the name and address of the donor was fastened to each and after their issuance to naval vessels the commanding officers were instructed to write to the owners telling them the names of the ships to which the instruments were assigned.

Losses Were 2%

They were used chiefly by officers of armed guards on merchant ships and for lookouts maintaining constant watch aboard warships for enemy aircraft. Losses of the loaned binoculars due to sinkings were approximately 2 per cent.

Because the navy is not authorized to accept gifts or free loans, each donor received $1 from the navy for his instrument, constituting a purchase fee. For those still in use at the end of hostilities and now being returned, this sum represents payment for rental and depreciation. There is no provision for replacing lost binoculars.

SECURITY HIDES DETAILS OF IKE'S PRIVATE PLANE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 20—Gen. Eisenhower's private transport plane, which has been described as "the most luxurious of its kind," still is covered by military regulations. The war department explained the security on the grounds that Gen. Eisenhower, as commander of American occupation forces in Europe, was stationed in technically enemy territory and had to be safeguarded.

It was understood last week that the war department would relax restrictions on inspecting the big four engine C-54 and permit disclosure of its interior accommodations and equipment. An army spokesman said today, however, that the security would remain in full force and that the plane could be viewed only from the outside.

The plane has been at the Washington airport during his stay in the United States.

Mrs. Eisenhower 'Happy' After General's Promotion

Boone, Ia., Nov. 20 (AP)—Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower was "very happy" her attendants at a hospital here said late today, after she was informed President Truman had nominated her husband to succeed Gen. Marshall as army chief of staff. Her attendant said she was continuing to show improvement and that her condition was very satisfactory. She is suffering from bronchial pneumonia.

Koenig bestowed the customary kiss upon the commander, the convention launched cheery cries of "Kiss him again."

SHIPPING PARLEY DEFEATS BAN ON NEGRO SEAMEN

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Nov. 20 (AP)—A proposal from delegates of five nations that Negro sailors be excluded from the world maritime conference was rejected today by a vote of 26 to 8.

Shipping company representatives from Great Britain, Portugal, Belgium, Holland, and Norway offered the proposal. They contended that Negro sailors always had been paid less than white sailors and had fewer requirements. Chinese and Indian shipowners were supported by delegates from the United States and Canada in defeating the move.

The conference is being held under international labor organization auspices in an effort to establish world standards of wages and working conditions for seamen.

BY THOMAS MORROW

John Stelle, former governor of Illinois, is expected to be named national commander of the American Legion when new officers are elected at the closing session of the national convention in the Coliseum today.

Stelle, a Democrat, who succeeded Gov. Horner when the latter died in October, 1940, and served the unexpired term, appeared the favorite to follow National Comdr. Edward N. Scheiberling.

300,000 Jam Loop

From Legion political circles came indications that the following will be vice commanders: Dudley Swim, Idaho, and Fred La Boon, Oklahoma, both World War II. veterans; Jeremiah Twoomey, Massachusetts; Graham Huntington, New Jersey, and Sam Latimer Jr., South Carolina.

More than 300,000 Chicagoans joined with the Legion yesterday in a rousing and neighborly welcome that brought tears to the eyes of Gen. Eisenhower, who led the allied forces to victory over Germany. Eisenhower waved from his open car in a tour thru jammed loop streets. There were calls of "Hello, Ike," and "How is your wife?"

The General Grins

At Jackson blvd. and Michigan av. the general grinned good naturedly as the jam became so thick that military police had to clear a path for his car. Eighteen B-29s and eight fighters flew overhead as women, some of them in tears, tried to keep abreast the parade.

All Chicago seemed to enjoy the Eisenhower visit save one. He was a street cleaner who waved his broom and shouted curses at the spectators who showered confetti from office windows.

At the Coliseum, where there were empty seats for two days, approximately 6,500 gathered for Eisenhower's appearance. They stood and whooped a welcome as the general stepped forward to receive the Legion's highest award — the distinguished service medal.

The General Weeps

He was touched at the award and his voice broke as he expressed his pride because it came from Americans and veterans. He wept openly as he thanked Chicago and the Legion for expressing solicitude for his wife's health.

"I like to think that as one soldier to another you are using me as a medium to honor three million Americans and their gallant allies that did their best in Europe for America," Eisenhower said.

During the session the convention aimed a resolution of condemnation at Chancellor Robert M. Hutchins of the University of Chicago despite rejection of the measure by the committee on rehabilitation. An Illinois delegate asserted that the Legion should take a forthright stand in the matter and the convention concurred by vote.

Hobo Comment Stirs Ire

The Legion was aroused by the comment credited to Hutchins in a magazine story that educational institutions were likely to become educational hobo jungles and veterans educational hoboes thru the GI bill of rights. Hutchins told half truths, the resolution asserted, and showed general lack of understanding of the purposes of the bill.

President Truman, a delegate from Missouri, applied a little muscle by telegram to the Legion deliberations on universal military training.

"It has come to my attention," said his wire read by Comdr. Scheiberling, "that some doubts have arisen among certain of the delegates to the American Legion convention with respect to my views on a universal training program.

"My message to congress sets forth my views in detail and I hope that the convention will not entertain any departure therefrom. Best regards."

The Legion's national defense committee, scheduled to report tomorrow, advocated four months basic and eight months advanced training, the advanced to be taken in college, army, navy, national guard, or scientific training. The President advocated flatly one year of training.

Floor Fight Threatened

Brig. Gen. Hanford MacNider, veteran of two wars, is reported to have pronounced the defense committee recommendation "gutless" and threatened a floor fight. Mutterings in the convention hall indicates he apparently has supporters.

Unrest also was said to be developing over the resolution on unification of military command. The army, for, and navy, against—and there is said to be a committee trend toward a resolution which will fail to take a stand but recommend appointment of a commisssion to study the matter. If such a trend develops some delegates, satisfied with nothing less than a direct pronouncement, assert a floor fight will ensue.

The first CIO official to address a Legion convention, David J. McDonald, secretary treasurer of the United Steel Workers of America, established precedent when he stepped to the microphone. He bore greetings from Philip Murray, CIO president, who said he was unable to leave the labor-management conference in Washington, D. C.

"Join Both Groups"

"I expect the veterans of this war to be members both of their labor unions and the veterans' organizations, and I encourage them to join both groups," said Murray thru McDonald.

As McDonald left the speaker's stand, a Legionnaire hailed the chairman.

"There is something about the CIO that I think the veterans should know."

He was quieted without delivering his message, whatever it was, because he was not a delegate.

FOREST BOARD MEMBER HITS PURCHASE PLAN

Proposals that the county forest preserve board start negotiations for the purchase of several tracts of land aggregating 400 acres met with opposition yesterday from Commissioner Frank Bobrytzke.

"Why go ahead now when all real estate prices are inflated?" Bobrytzke asked. "We can afford to wait until prices are more near normal; say a year or so, and get the land for half the current quotations."

Other commissioners asserted it was likely the deflation might not come for six to 10 years. Sitting as a real estate committee, they authorized Charles G. Sauers, superintendent, to open the negotiations. One of the tracts under consideration is 80 acres owned by the Galt estate, lying east of Skokie highway and adjoining the Glencoe golf course preserve on the east.

STILL MAKING ATOM BOMBS, SAYS TRUMAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 20—The United States is still manufacturing atomic bombs, President Truman told his news conference today. He added that the tremendously destructive missiles are being manufactured for experimental purposes.

The Presidential disclosure came in a discussion of control of atomic energy and of strife in many parts of the post-war world. The chief executive was optimistic on prospects of securing a successful program for peace time development of the energy and on peaceful solution of world disorder.

Leading the Program

The United States, Great Britain, and Canada, who now alone know how to make the bomb, have taken the lead in launching a program for peace time development of atomic energy, he said, calling attention to the statement issued jointly last week by himself, British Prime Minister Attlee, and Canadian Prime Minister King.

He said it would take time to see that the material going into the atomic bomb is used for peace time purposes, but expressed confidence that it will be done. He added as yet nothing has been heard from Russia, China, and France on the statement, as the nations have not had time to formulate expressions on the joint statement.

Wants Full Representation

Mr. Truman said he thought the full membership of the allied nations organization as its first meeting should have a part in establishing the atomic energy commission proposed by the three leaders. He expects that when the first allied nations assembly gets under way shortly in London that the United States will ask for the formation of such a commission.

On the question of world strife, Mr. Truman said he was not pessimistic in the least about prospects for enduring peace. He said it is true that every country is preoccupied with domestic problems at the moment, as is the United States, but in time the nations will turn their attention again toward international affairs and work out the problem.

"Greatest Era" Ahead

The world is on the threshold of its greatest era, he said, reiterating a major thought of his recent foreign policy speech. The era must be approached with mutual confidence to effect permanent peace, he declared, as the alternative is—destruction.

The President was asked whether there is any prospect of an early Truman-Stalin-Attlee meeting. He said he knew of no such plans.

He expressed hope, in response to another question, that the labor-management conference will yet produce an effective formula for solution of industrial disputes.

WARNS RUSSIA MAY BE MAKING BOMB BY SPRING

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 20 [Special]—Dr. Roy K. Marshall, director of the Fels planetarium of the Franklin institute, said today that Russia may be making atomic bombs by next spring at a cost of about $500,000,000 as compared with the $2,000,000,000 it cost the United States to develop the bomb.

Speaking before the Lions club at a luncheon, Dr. Marshall said that any scientist can duplicate what the United States has done, and the only way to prevent duplication would be to stop others from obtaining uranium.

"The armament race for atomic energy is under way," he said, "and in self-defense we should do something about it. The effort of every individual and every nation should be toward peace and a free interchange of scientific knowledge. We must have at least the frame-work for an arbitrary council to control the bomb and plan for peace."

AIR, NAVY CARRY COMMAND ROW TO ROTARIANS

General and Admiral Voice Differences.

The future defense needs of the United States was billed as the topic of air force and navy speakers before the Chicago Rotary club yesterday in Hotel Sherman. When the speakers had finished the Rotarians knew how emphatically these branches of the military disagree.

Maj. Gen. Frederick L. Anderson, assistant chief of staff of the air forces, said demobilization had hit the air forces so fast that it now is threatened with becoming a submerged and minor branch of the services.

"Plans for the post-war air force can't be made until congress determines the military structure that is best for our country," he said. "A unified command and a single department of national defense, with a co-equal air arm, are fundamental in securing protection for the United States."

Rear Adm. Russell S. Berkey, navy civil liaison chief, told the Rotarians the navy was against a unified command for two reasons: [1] one secretary in the President's cabinet would control all the funds for the military services, and [2] one commander of the high command would control all military operations.

He said the services could best operate thru a continuation of the joint chiefs of staff or some other peace time organization set up along similar lines.

CANADA PROBES PRODUCTION OF ATOM BOMB ORE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 20—The drastic orders under which an investigation is being held into the Eldorado Mining and Refining company's production and distribution of atomic bomb uranium were issued because "it is necessary to know whether any of that material has gone astray," the house of commons was told today

C. D. Howe, minister of munitions and supply, said the investigation had been ordered last May, and that the resignation of one of the officers of the company, and other incidents, had raised some doubts. "The product of that mine has a tremendous war potential," he asserted.

"I hope we shall be able to trace every ounce of ore that ever came from Eldorado. We are pretty certain eventually we shall know. Today it is just as necessary to know the destination of every particle of that material as it was before the bomb was used. In fact, it is perhaps even more necessary, because the possibilities of its use may be more serious now than before the effect of the bomb was known."

Army Says 32,000 Yanks May Remain in India

NEW DELHI, India, Nov. 20 (AP)—United States army authorities said today that 32,000 American troops may remain in India until officials in Washington, D. C., decide on the disposition of large quantities of movable United States property in the India-Burma theater.

Serve in Two Wars

Three generations of a family of fighters in the last two World wars are represented at the Legion convention. They are John L. Larson, 81, retired sea captain, Evanston; his son, William E., 49, and William's son, Marine Pvt. 1st Class John C. Larson, 21, both of Denver, Colo.

The ex-sea captain and his son served in World War I., the father as an ensign in the navy transport service; the son in the army. The young marine, a member of the 2d marine division and veteran of Guadalcanal, Tarawa, and Saipan, was wounded at Saipan.

Capt. Larson, who lives in the Swedish Old People's home, Evanston, was a sailor 35 years before he retired in 1924. While at sea he was shipwrecked twice, helped perform 43 rescues, and once saved himself when he was washed overboard.

"But I wasn't hurt," the captain said. "Guess I was luckier than John."

A SAILOR WINS CIVILIAN SUIT IN FUND CONTEST

Berlin D. Nelson of Minneapolis, Minn., of the navy, will not have to worry about getting a civilian suit to fit him when he is discharged from the service. There is a complete civilian wardrobe awaiting him as the first prize in the second annual camera contest conducted by the Community and War Fund, Walter P. Paepcke, general chairman of the drive, announced yesterday.

The contest, which was open to all service men and women, as well as to veterans, was held Oct. 13 in Marshall Field & Co.'s store.

Other prize winners were Kenneth D. Snelson, a sailor, of Pendleton, Ore., who will receive a new suit for second place, and Capt. George K. Cassady of 7019 Cregier av., a $25 merchandise certificate for third prize. Two $10 merchandise certificates were awarded to Pvt. Hy Greenwald of New York City, and Frank D. Dietz of 4633 N. Winchester av. There were other $5 merchandise certificate awards.

CZECH LEADER PRAISES YANKS AS THEY DEPART

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Nov. 20 [Reuters]—Departing United States troops were told today by Jan Masaryk, Czechoslovakia foreign minister, that they had done "a swell job."

The foreign minister and the minister of war, Gen. Svoboda, bade farewell to the Americans under Maj. Gen. Harmon in the presence of a huge crowd that thronged the streets.

"You young Americans rediscovered Czechoslovakia a few months ago when you came at a moment of greatest emergency," Masaryk said. "You helped free us and stayed while we were catching our breath after seven years of hell. Soon you will pass the Statue of Liberty. Tell her from us that we, too, believe in liberty and refuse to live without liberty. Come back again and see what we have done with our new permanent lease of life you helped us to regain. God bless America and you, her sons, who fought to save the world."

FINDS BANKER'S DAUGHTER SLAIN IN BATHROOM

Santa Fe, N. M., Nov. 20 (AP)—A. B. Martinez, assistant state police chief, disclosed today the murder of Mrs. Leon G. Kennedy Jr., daughter of a Denver, Colo., banker, whose mutilated body was found in the bathroom of her home.

An examination indicated the assailant had attempted to rape the 25 year old mother of a young baby, Martinez said.

Found by Husband

Kennedy, returning home from the First National bank, where he is chief bookkeeper, late yesterday found his wife dead. She had been stabbed thru the heart and both shoulders and her jugular vein was cut.

Her month old baby was in a crib in an adjoining bedroom unharmed. Mrs. Kennedy is the daughter of C. E. Canning, vice president of the First National bank of Denver.

Martinez said several hairs were found clutched in the woman's hand, and he speculated they might have come from the head of her assailant. There was a deep bruise on her left cheek.

No Evidense of Struggle

Despite Mrs. Kennedy's multiple stab wounds, he said the apartment contained no evidence of a struggle. Eloodstains were confined to the bathroom.

Martinez said no weapon was found.

State police ordered a roundup of suspicious characters, "but it's like hunting a needle in a haystack," Martinez said. "We have almost no clews."

START $40,000 FORGERY TRIAL OF EX-CONVICT

Louis M. Marshall, 30, an ex-convict, charged with forging checks for a total of $40,000 while employed as a bookkeeper at the Blackhawk Machine works, 455 N. Artesian av., went on trial yesterday before a jury of 11 women and one man in the Criminal court of Judge Charles E. Byrne.

Marshall was paroled in 1941 to Erwin Millet, owner of the machine works, after serving four years in Joliet prison on a robbery conviction. Atty. Charles A. Bellows told the jury that Marshall's defense would be that Millet promised him a partnership in the business and that the money was owed to him. Assistant State's Atty. C. Vernon Thompson said the state would prove that Marshall appropriated the money by forgery.

Anthony [Tough Tony] Capezio, alleged gambler and former member of the old Capone gang, who was sought as a witness by the state on a report that he cashed one of the checks for Marshall, has notified the state's attorney's office that he never knew Marshall.

Appleton, 30, executive of the Appleton Electric company, which his father, Albert, heads. She charged cruelty. The decree was granted by Judge Peter M. Schwaba in Superior court.

Under an agreement announced by her attorney, Robert E. Cantwell, and Atty. Herman Waldman, representing her husband, Mrs. Appleton will receive $85,450 and the household furniture, in lieu of alimony. She received custody of the couple's two children, Thomas, 6, and Arthur I. Jr., 3. For their support she will receive $300 a month for each child until he reaches the age of 10; $400 a month from 10 to 14, and $500 a month from 14 thru college, or until they are 21 if they do not attend college.

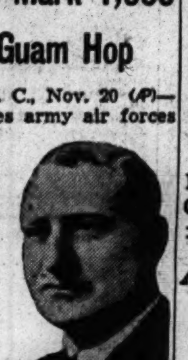
B-29 SMASHES PACIFIC RECORD; FLIES 8,198 MI.

Tops British Mark 1,000 Miles in Guam Hop

Washington, D. C., Nov. 20 (AP)—The United States army air forces took a 7 year old record from Britain today when a B-29 landed here after an 8,198 mile nonstop flight from Guam.



Col. Clarence S. Irvine

The Super Fortress, stripped of armament and some battle instruments, flew the long haul in 35 hours and 5 minutes. It passed thru seven storm areas and one of its four engines was intentionally stopped to conserve fuel on the run across the United States.

The British record of 7,158 miles had remained intact since two English planes flew from Egypt to Australia nonstop in 1938.

Two Purposes Revealed

The flight ending today, third nonstop trip by Super Fortresses from the far Pacific areas, had two purposes, said the AAF: To demonstrate the range and capabilities of American military aircraft; to "show the vulnerability of our country to enemy attack from vast distances."

The Super Fortress flew the great circle route which took it over the area of Wake and Midway Islands and across the Pacific coast near Seattle. From Seattle it flew over Bismarck, N. D., La Crosse, Wis., Grand Rapids, Mich., and Pittsburgh, Pa., en route to Washington.

Despite head winds in the hours immediately after takeoff and the seven bad weather fronts, the bomber had 300 gallons of fuel left when it landed. That would have been enough to have kept it in the air for another hour and a half with the same favoring tail winds which sped the last hours of the flight.

The crew husbanded their 11,110 gallons of gasoline. The big bomber never climbed above 50 feet for the first five hours in order to conserve the fuel required to lift the 141,000 pounds of plane and gasoline to higher altitudes.

One of Engines Cut Off

Altho the flight plan had contemplated altitudes above 15,000 feet, the B-29 never went above 12,000, even coming across the Rocky mountains.

Shortly before sighting Cape Flattery, northwest of Seattle, Wash., the flight engineers recommended that the port outborne engine be stopped. Col. Clarence Irvine, one of the two pilots, said the idea was this:

"The four engines had been running at 30 per cent power output to economize on gasoline, but as higher altitudes were reached the cold affected the operation of the engines and they developed vibrations. The fourth engine, therefore, was stopped and the power on the other three increased to warm them.

Greeted by Gen. Arnold

"The result was to keep the plane flying with the same fuel economy but without the dangerous vibration from cold engines."

Gen. Arnold, AAF commander, was at the National airport to congratulate the crewmen, and to pin on each the distinguished flying cross. From the Pacific, Lt. Gen. Barney Giles, acting commander of air forces in the Pacific, radioed commendation for "another world's record to the credit of the United States."

AAF REVEALS IT LOST 26,000 IN AIR ACCIDENTS

Offers Safety Lessons to Civil Flying

Oklahoma City, Okla., Nov. 20 (AP)—Flying accidents cost more than 26,000 lives in the army air forces during the war and destroyed 22,000 airplanes more than were destroyed by the Germans and Japs.

Col. George C. Price, chief of the office of flying safety of the A. A. F., disclosed that today in an address to the third National Aviation clinic, a conference of all elements in aeronautics.

An "Alarming" Condition

He used the story of the air force accident record—a record which showed that the accident rate was lower thruout the war than it ever had been in peace time—to plead for concerted action by the aviation industry to retard and reduce an "already alarming" rise in civilian flying crash statistics.

Price offered civil aviation interests the complete coöperation of the A. A. F., including the results of its studies during the war, for use in a program for safer flying.

"The AAF was hard pressed to stave off an overwhelming accident toll," he said. "We are convinced that an equally serious problem faces you today."

Rising Accident Rate

Price said civil flying was now involved in more accidents than the military, adding that the number of civil air crashes from V-J day to Oct 31 was 70 per cent greater than in the comparable 1944 period, and that during the first six months of this year there was a 52 per cent rise in fatalities.

Accepting estimates of 300,000 airplanes in this country in the next five years, there might be 48,000 serious crashes and more than 5,000 fatalities annually in the early 1950's, he said.

In another speech, L. Welch Pogue, chairman of the civil aeronautics board, took a firm stand today against the military having "a voice in civil air matters," as proposed by Gen. Arnold, commander of the AAF.

HOUSE GROUP AGREES ON NEW JOBS MEASURE

Washington, D. C., Nov. 20 (AP)—A house expenditures subcommittee agreed late today on a substitute version of the administration's so-called "full employment" bill.

Chairman Manasco [D., Ala.] described the new measure as "a compromise of compromises." He and other subcommittee members available declined, however, to disclose its provisions. They said they did not want to do so until after the full expenditures committee has acted on the proposal. It will be referred to that group next Tuesday.

Today's action broke a long stalemate on the legislation. The senate passed a version early in October, but it has been stalled with the house group ever since. President Truman a month ago criticized the expenditures committee for "damaging delay" in its handling of the bill.

King and Queen in Palace When Nazi Bombs Hit It

LONDON, Nov. 20 (AP)—King George and Queen Elizabeth were watching German planes from a window, far away from any air raid shelter, when five bombs fell on a wing of Buckingham palace on Sept. 13, 1940, it was revealed in the book, "Royal Family in War Time," published today.

KELLY IN LONDON TO URGE CHICAGO SITE FOR LEAGUE

BY WILLIAM FULTON

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Nov. 20—The Chicago commission which is trying to win the permanent headquarters of the united nations for its city tonight greeted Mayor Kelly upon his arrival in London and reported progress on its mission. The Chicagoans will present their case to the united nations preparatory commission when it convenes here Saturday.

Mayor Kelly said the primary purpose of his flying trip was "to show gratitude to the air industry for developing a direct line between Chicago and England." He was interested also, however, in telling people here about Chicago's great advantages as a host city to the new world organization, he said.

Pictures Tell Chicago Story

Another member of the mayor's citizen committee has just arrived in London. He is James M. Cleary, an advertising executive. Cleary carried with him 1,500 feet of film, a special picturization of the city of Chicago, to be shown to the united nations preparatory commission.

Cleary was held up for several hours by British customs officials who at first sought to impound the film when Cleary landed at Hurn airport last night. He at last managed to talk his way into the country, however, with the celluloid version of Chicago's argument under his arm.

Benjamin Cohen of Chile, who is head of the international secretariat section of the united nations preliminary setup, expressed hope there would be an early decision on the question of permanent headquarters. He pointed out that various delegations from Chicago, Philadelphia, the Black Hills of South Dakota, San Francisco, Boston and other areas which are represented here or have delegations en route could not remain here indefinitely.

[Altho the executive committee of the united nations preparatory commission recommended that the headquarters should be located in the United States, many of the delegates from the 51 member nations are known to be favoring a European site, a Reuters dispatch said. The French delegate is pleading for a European site to restart international collaboration on the continent, the dispatch said.]

Other Sites Suggested

Other offers to make their localities the permanent site of the new league came from the following:

Miami, Fla.; Monterey peninsula, California; Moraga valley, California; Waimanalo, Hawaii; the state of Indiana; Jefferson's home at Monticello, Charlottesville, Va.; New York City; Atlantic City, N. J.; Hyde Park, N. Y.; Denver; advocates of a United States-Canadian boundary site; Niagara Falls, N. Y.; Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.; Vancouver and Quebec, Canada, and Richmond, Va.

Censors Fix It So Queen Can't Hear Film 'Cussing'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Nov. 20—The British don't like to have their queens hear naughty words, so last night some fancy censoring was done when Queen Mother Mary attended the London preview of "The Wicked Lady." Extra noises were dubbed into the sound track to drown out the "cuss" words. Censorship will not be continued for the film's public showings.

DE GAULLE BOWS TO REDS; THEY'LL GET WAR OFFICE

BY JOHN THOMPSON

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, Nov. 20—Gen. de Gaulle was reported tonight to have resolved the eight day parliamentary crisis by beginning to form a new national union three party provisional government, in which the powerful Communist group will hold key ministries equal in importance to those of the Socialists and Popular Republican Movement [MRP].

A series of conferences between De Gaulle and the party leaders, which lasted until after 8 p. m. in his office, were to have been continued tonight at his Neuilly home, but were postponed until tomorrow. It was announced that fog, which has been thick in Paris for two days, became so dense that automobiles were unable to move thru the streets in Neuilly or the Bois de Boulogne.

3 Ministries for Reds

Beyond expression of the hope that the new cabinet would be announced tomorrow, official sources were silent tonight.

It was reported unofficially that De Gaulle agreed to give the Communists three ministries that would include war and a new portfolio, commerce, and industry, designed to prevent strikes during the period of reconstruction.

Also, it was stated in informed circles, Jacques Duclos, secretary of the Communist party and its most skilful tactician, would be appointed the general's deputy as vice president of the council. De Gaulle, under mandate from the national constituent assembly, is president of the council [i. e., premier].

Exacts Pledge of Support

But before agreeing to the Communists' insistence on important ministries, De Gaulle is understood to have exacted from the leaders of the three parties the pledge that the coalition would support, without qualification, the decisions of the cabinet, regardless of minority views expressed during cabinet meetings.

As the price of their participation in the tripartite government, the Communists demanded either the portfolio of war, foreign affairs, or the interior. On the basis of information available tonight, the Communists are understood to have received the war ministry, but with a string attached.

War Chief Gets Deputy

The Communist minister will have control over French army personnel. But in a position of watchfulness will be the so called deputy minister. This new post is variously described as one to be held by a technician in charge of the army's equipment, or what is more probable, a "strong" French general.

Mentioned for the war ministry is Gen. Joinville, who was chief of the underground franc-tireurs [partisans], the Communist section of the FFI [French forces of the interior]; as his probable deputy, De Gaulle is said to be ready to appoint Gen. De Lattre de Tassigny.

The new ministry of industry, it is reported, will be set up to give the Communists the responsibility for preventing strikes during the troublesome days of French reconstruction.

UNWED MOTHER SOBS; ACCUSES EX-CLERGYMAN

Kansas City, Kas., Nov. 20 (AP)—A 55 year old retired minister was pointed out in sobbing court testimony today by Miss Gladys Beard as the father of her 8 month old daughter. Miss Beard, 39, once a missionary worker, is suing the former preacher, Lawrence I. Goodrich, for support of the child.

Haltingly, she told of the courtship which she said began in March, 1941, and which, she added, brought her first kiss from a man. A mutual interest in religion was given by Miss Beard as the basis for her friendship with Goodrich. "I really loved the man and I had never loved any one before," Miss Beard sobbed. She told of her first kiss and their alleged intimacies, which she said began in September, 1943.

Goodrich has denied ever being intimate with her. He did not look at Miss Beard during her testimony, but Mrs. Goodrich watched her closely.

REDS TURN BACK IRAN ARMY SENT TO QUELL REVOLT

Force Troops' Return to Tehran

TEHRAN, Iran, Nov. 20 (AP)—Russian military authorities at Kazvin today turned back an Iranian force sent from Tehran to quell separatist uprisings in Azerbaijan province, the Iranian government announced.

The four Iranian battalions, including infantry men, motorized troops, and gendarmes, were ordered to return to Tehran from Kazvin, about 100 miles northeast of the capital and a third of the way to Tabriz, Azerbaijan's largest city.

The troops were dispatched to reenforce Iranian garrisons in Azerbaijan, where seven persons were reported killed during the week-end. They were accompanied by two Americans from Col. Norman Schwarzkopf's police advisory mission to Iran.

The official announcement that soviet authorities had stopped the troops gave no details.

Tells of Violent Battle

Schwarzkopf, former head of the New Jersey state police, reported yesterday that there was violent fighting at Mianeh, an Azerbaijan railway terminus. A later government bulletin said the situation was calm at three other cities where uprisings had been reported.

[In Moscow the newspaper Izvestia blamed the Azerbaijan disorders on "organized reactionary landowners," and described as "slanderous" reports that Russian trucks had supplied weapons to the separationists. Izvestia charged that British reports of Russian intervention were designed to divert attention from large scale disorders in Palestine, Egypt, and Indonesia.]

Asks U. S. to Protest

Washington, D. C., Nov. 20 (AP)—Ambassador Hussein Ala of Iran appealed today for the use of American influence at Moscow to put an end to what he described as Russian support of revolting elements in his country.

Ala released at a news conference an official summary of a note delivered by his government at Tehran to the Russian embassy there last Saturday asking the Russians to let Iranian army and constabulary units go into the troubled northwestern area and restore peace. The area is part of the zone of occupation of soviet forces in Iran.

[A dispatch from London last night reported the Iranian ambassador had complained about the Russian activities to Foreign Secretary Bevin, alleging the soviet had violated the Anglo-Russian treaty with Iran. The British government was said to be considering a protest to Moscow.]

6,500,000 Germans to Be Shifted Before Next July

BERLIN, Nov. 20 (AP)—Six and one half million Germans will be moved from Austria, Czechoslovakia, Hungary and Poland into Germany between December and next July in probably the greatest mass migration in history. Under a plan adopted today by the allied control council, this great movement, is destined to de-Germanize the borderlands of Germany.

CHURCHILL'S PARTY TO DEMAND CENSURE VOTE AGAINST LABOR

LONDON, Nov. 20 (AP)—Conservative party leaders headed by former Prime Minister Churchill said tonight they would seek a vote of censure in commons against the Labor government for what they called "preoccupation" with its socialization program.

Churchill and his colleagues said the motion would charge the government with neglecting its "primary duty" of troop demobilization and reconversion while preoccupied in "long term plans for the nationalization of certain industries." "In particular," their statement said, "the opposition will complain of the government's total failure to reduce expenditures and concentrate on housing and demobilization."

EDUCATORS GIVE OPPOSING VIEWS ON PEACE DRAFT

Washington, D. C., Nov. 20 (AP)—Educators presented a divided front on universal military training today at a house military committee hearing.

Dr. George F. Zook of Washington, president of the American Council on Education, flatly opposed the proposal outlined by President Truman to congress last month. Dr. George William McClelland of Philadelphia, Pa., president of the University of Pennsylvania, supported it on the ground there was "no satisfactory alternative" in keeping the nation prepared.

Dr. Zook said he expressed the views of a majority of 1,685 college, university, and junior college heads polled last February. Dr. McClelland emphasized that he spoke for himself and the trustees and administration of the University of Pennsylvania, but not the entire faculty.

AUSTRALIAN AID TO U. S. VALUED AT 835 MILLION

Washington, D. C., Nov. 20 (AP)—Australia has put an $835,004,000 valuation on reverse lend-lease it furnished the United States, the war department said today. The figures covered supplies, services, and facilities furnished United States troops thru last June 30.

American lend-lease exports to Australia for the same period were valued at $1,154,000,000, the foreign economic administration said.

GIs SEEK CIVIL JOBS TO MARRY GERMAN GIRLS

BY HENRY WALES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

BERLIN, Nov. 20—Altho only six GIs have applied thus far for permission to marry frauleins, it is estimated that several hundred have applied for civilian jobs in the military government in order to circumvent Gen. Eisenhower's order against such marriages. They would thus shed their uniform and remain here as military government employes.

The chaplains' bureau here stated today that the allied control council's decision to permit allied soldiers to wed German girls leaves approval up to the various army commanders and Eisenhower has not yet qualified his fraternization directive to permit that.

It was revealed today that documentation for the application of Gen. Eisenhower's denazification order was based on the discovery of a quarter of a million filled in questionnaires, collected by the Nazi party for Brandenburg province, by Lt. Milton Chernin, former professor of criminology at the University of California.

On Labor day, four months after the Russians captured Berlin, Chernin visited Hitler's shell and bomb shattered chancellery on the Wilhelmstrasse and found several vast rooms knee deep in "fragebogen"—questionnaires containing the records of 250,000 Nazi party members.

Chernin and his companions carried the documents out thru a side entrance in order to elude the Red army sentinel at the main Wilhelmstrasse gate, piled them in an automobile, making three trips to gather every scrap of the incriminating papers, and used this evidence for purging the Berlin district of Hitler henchmen.

Chernin studied criminology under August Vollmer, first professor of police administration at the University of Chicago, 15 years ago, and takes a dim view of the efficiency of the soviet secret police. "The NKVD couldn't find a rat in a cup of coffee," he remarked.

20 NAZIS MAKE PLEAS TODAY TO WAR TRIBUNAL

Defense Plans Challenge of Court's Authority

BY HAL FOUST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

NUERNBERG, Germany, Nov. 20—The major war crimes trial, described by its presiding officer as unique in jurisprudence of the world, will enter its second day tomorrow with the international tribunal hearing pleas from 20 nazi big shots.

The 20 are charged with capital crimes for their participation in a national policy dominated by der fuehrer. Insofar as could be learned tonight none will plead guilty. The majority will contend they merely followed orders.

The arraignment is to be followed by an opening address by Justice Robert H. Jackson, who heads the American staff assigned to prosecute the first count of the indictment charging the defendants with conspiracy to wage aggressive war.

Will Outline Evidence

Jackson's address is described by his associates who assisted in its preparation as a masterpiece of legal philosophy. It will not only outline the evidence to be presented but will support as a bulwark of future peace the juridical invention of the tribunal to exact retribution from individual war mongers.

It appeared likely that tomorrow's session also might bring the first defense attacks on the validity of the indictment and of the constitution of the four-power tribunal itself. Defense attorneys indicated they would seek more time to prepare their cases.

A German attorney disclosed that Hermann Goering's counsel, on behalf of the entire defense group, intended to offer a joint declaration challenging the jurisdiction of the court.

Today was devoted exclusively to the reading of the 24,000 word indictment. Goering acted as tho he were the center of attention. He succeeded in attracting the spectators' eyes by lolling in his corner of the prisoners' dock with a Cheshire cat grin and eyeing the crowd.

The other prisoners likewise seemed to be relieved after their six months of confinement. All took advantage of the opportunity to converse with each other, denied to them in their solitary cells.

Goering Nods His Head

The score of militarists and politicians are charged with causing approximately 20,000,000 deaths. When the indictment named individuals, identifying their personal participation in nazi organizations, all but Goering shuffled their feet or jotted notes. Goering grinned and shook his head vigorously in agreement or disagreement.

The indictment, outlining the rise of the Nazis, their preparations for war, their invasions and conquests, their concentration camps, mass murders and enslavements, read more like history than a court document. The court created by America, Russia, Great Britain, and France last summer adopted a charter to accommodate such an indictment. It is the announced aim of the prosecution not only to convict the present defendants but to establish new international law as a deterrent against similar offenses.

Every one in the courtroom had studied the indictment for weeks so the 5½ hours of reading did not receive concentrated attention. Francis Biddle, the American member, followed the recital much of the time but Henri Donnedieu de Vabre, a Paris professor, and Maj. Gen. I. T. Nikitchenko of Russia let their eyes wander.

Bows to Novelist

Goering, in the gray tunic of a luftwaffe general but without his chestful of ribbons or insignia, listened, occasionally using one ear piece of the headphones that carry a simultaneous translation. Once in a while he exchanged a few words with Rudolf Hess beside him.

Before the court convened Goering rose and bowed continental fashion to Nora Wain, an American novelist whom he had last seen in Berlin in 1939. She changed her seat in the correspondents' section so she would not have to look at him.

Hess, bony faced and skinny from four years' imprisonment after parachuting into Scotland, did not look well. His body shuddered several times. The court has not as yet passed on psychiatrists' diagnosis of his real or pretended amnesia.

Ribbentrop Lacks Flare

Joachim von Ribbentrop, slick career diplomat, retained professional dignity, altho lacking the jaunty flare of exposed cuffs and pocket handkerchief displayed by his elder counterpart, Franz von Papen.

The two career naval men, Grand Adm. Erich Raeder, and Karl Doenitz, who ruled Germany for five days in arranging its surrender, were beside each other in double breasted blues without insignia.

Field Marshal Keitel was in a uniform bare of ornaments. In the prisoners' dock, resembling a jury box, he read papers from a portfolio and whispered to bald Col. Gen. Alfred Jodl.

Alfred Rosenberg, Russian born chief of the nazi foreign office, stopped listening when the indictment, familiar to him, approached the "superman" story which he fathered. He became interested in whispering with his neighbor, Hans Frank, the governor of Poland, who was wearing brown leather gloves in the warm courtroom.

Frick Close to Streicher

Wilhelm Frick, nazi minister of the interior, got his clipped head close to the shiny dome of Julius Streicher, Jew baiting nazi editor.

Silver haired Hjalmar Schacht, and his successor as president of the reichsbank, bald Walter Funk, chatted except when the indictment recited the economic and fiscal aspects of nazi pre-war expansion and armament and the wartime exploitation of conquests.

Fritz Sauckel, labor mobilization chief in charge of enslaving millions, sat near Konstantin von Neurath, who wiped his white mustache with his hand when the indictment mentioned his diplomatic service.

Baldur von Shirach, at 38, was the youngest in the crowd. He was a nazi boy prodigy when he led German Boy Scouts into the Hitler Youth movement. Arthur Seyss-Inquart, mussed his yellow hair in hastily removing his headphones to whisper to Albert Speer, reich minister of armaments, an apparent denial of the indictment's charge that Seyss-Inquart had purposely starved the Dutch while gauleiter of the Netherlands.

Crowd of Defense Counsel

Before the prisoners' dock two tables were crowded with defense attorneys, some of the best talent in Germany. All but one were wearing the robes of a barrister or professor of law. One was in the uniform of a German navy captain.

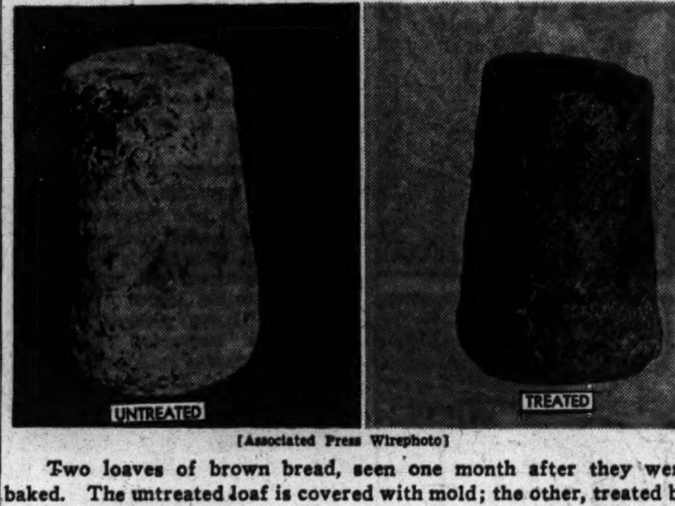
They were as dignified as Justice Jackson and his associates and their British and French counterparts in their tailed coats.

In the balcony were the attorneys for the Krupp works, admitted as observers for 75 year old and invalided Gustav Krupp von Bohlen, who was dropped from the indictment.

Also in the balcony and at the rear of the main floor 240 seats were assigned to the press and radio of a dozen countries. One seat is assigned to a different German journalist daily.

The prosecution, with tons of documentary evidence and miles of motion picture films, is expected to take six to eight weeks to present its case. The time to be given the defense is speculative. Guesses on the length of the trial average between three and four months.

New Process Stops Bread Mold

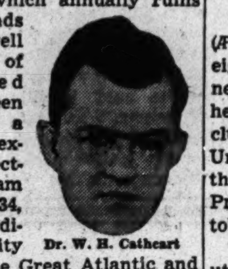


[Associated Press Wirephoto]

Two loaves of brown bread, seen one month after they were baked. The untreated loaf is covered with mold; the other, treated by electronic process, has no mold.

Treated in Oven

New York, Nov. 20 [Special]—Bread mold, which annually ruins 150,000,000 pounds of bread as well as quantities of other baked goods, has been eliminated as a result of an experiment directed by Dr. William H. Cathcart, 34, graduate of Indiana university and head of the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company's national bakery laboratories, the firm disclosed today. The mold, said Dr. Cathcart, is eliminated by electronic heat.



Dr. W. H. Cathcart

"Our tests have succeeded on a type of bread subject to mold infection because of its high moisture content," he explained. "Three days after the experiment began mold appeared on one batch of bread while another batch which had been given the electronic treatment remained completely unaffected after three weeks under normal kitchen conditions of temperature and humidity."

Dr. Cathcart said that under the new process wrapped bread is exposed to high frequency heat generated in an electronic oven, completely eradicating mold spores. Dielectric heat is diffused thru the loaves, rendering them mold-proof within five seconds.

WANTED PEACE PACT WITH U. S., SAYS MATSUOKA

TOKYO, Nov. 21 [Wednesday]—(AP)—Yosuke Matsuoka, former foreign minister, was quoted by the newspaper Asahi today as saying he had intended to attempt to conclude a neutrality pact with the United States before the war, but the project failed with downfall of Premier Konoye's cabinet in October, 1941.

"War with the United States was utterly unthinkable, but it was fate," Asahi quoted Matsuoka in a bedside interview at his village home.

Matsuoka's eldest son said yesterday he was going to see his father to notify him of Gen. MacArthur's arrest order and to determine if he was able to face arrest. The son said Matsuoka was suffering from tuberculosis.

"I concluded the tripartite [Japan-Germany-Italy] treaty with the idea it would lead Japan to peace," the former minister said. "Accordingly, after conclusion of the soviet-Japanese neutrality pact, I intended to go to the United States and conclude a peace pact with that country."

CRIMES TRIAL IS EXPLAINED IN BERLIN SCHOOLS

BERLIN, Nov. 20 (AP)—The Nuernberg war crimes trial was made the top ranking subject in all Berlin schools today as teachers sought to impress the former "Hitler's children" with Germany's war guilt and allied justice.

Daily discussion periods will be held thruout the course of the trial for all children between the ages of 12 and 18, under a plan supervised by Karl Schulte, deputy mayor and educational commissioner. All Berlin newspapers will be available in the schools and accounts of the trial will be read and questions answered.

"Teachers will make a special effort to explain to the pupils the differences in American and British legal justice as against what we had under the Nazis—especially as regards rights of accused to have their own counsel," Schulte said.

Fog at London Forces Attlee to Land in Sussex

BEGIN DEFENSE OF YAMASHITA FOR ATROCITIES

BY ROBERT CROMIE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

MANILA, P. I., Nov. 21 [Wednesday]—Defense counsel for Lt. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita, former Japanese commander in the Philippines, on trial for war crimes, opened their case this morning by attempting to demolish the credibility of two of the prosecution's star witnesses. The military court rejected a defense motion for acquittal yesterday as the prosecution ended its case after two weeks of testimony by more than 200 witnesses who told of Jap atrocities.

Using American counter-intelligence reports, Capt. Milton Sanberg of New York City brought out that Narcise Lupas, an admitted collaborator, offered to tell everything he had learned while private secretary to the late Gen. Artemio Ricarte in return for freedom, money, and a home for himself and family.

Calls Story Fantastic

Sanberg also produced counter-intelligence records to show that during the Jap occupation Lupas and another prosecution witness, Joaquin Galang, sold safe conduct passes signed with Ricarte's name and that Lupas caused the arrest of some persons so he could collect a fee for their release.

In an attempt to refute Lupas' testimony that he had been arrested by the Japanese for espionage, tortured, and only released on the promise to become secretary to Gen. Ricarte, Sanberg introduced counter-intelligence records terming the story "too fantastic to warrant belief."

Both Lupas and Galang face trial as collaborationists.

Col. Harry E. Clarke, chief defense counsel told the trial commission the defense would prove that Yamashita had no knowledge of what was going on so far as atrocities were concerned, because he reached the Philippines only nine days before the Leyte landing and was never fully in control or in touch with all his forces.

Disclaim Palawan Atrocities

Clarke said the defense would also show that Yamashita had no connection with the Palawan atrocity in which 141 American prisoners were slain, since this was done by air force personnel, and that the general had only paper control over naval forces chiefly responsible for the Manila atrocities.

Lt. Gen. Akira Muto, chief of staff to Yamashita, was the first principal defense witness.

Muto, a plump little man with glasses, said he came to the Philippines from Sumatra, where it was safe to drive anywhere and was very surprised to learn that guerrillas were active around Fort McKinley and Manila.

He said both he and Yamashita were hampered in their tasks by a lack of knowledge of conditions in the Philippines and that Yamashita did not have complete authority.

REPORT CHINESE REDS IN CAPITAL OF MANCHURIA

CHUNGKING, Nov. 20 (AP)—Chinese Communists and Nationalist forces raced today for strategic positions within Manchuria, said press reports which indicated the Reds were in the lead of the contest with entry into Changchun, capital of the huge territory.

Four thousand Chinese communist troops have entered Changchun, the China Times said. The newspaper made no mention as to whether Russian forces had evacuated the city. Unconfirmed reports earlier had said the Chinese reds had seized air fields at Changchun and other Manchurian cities.

An American marine pilot and three or four enlisted men were believed in the hands of either Chinese irregulars or Communists in the Peiping-Tientsin area after a forced landing of their plane 10 days ago, 3d marine amphibious corps headquarters at Tientsin announced.

On the grounds that rescue efforts might be hampered, headquarters declined to announce the names of the missing men or to disclose what steps have been taken to recover them.

An official government statement charged that Communists executed without trial 70 civil administrators at Hwaian, in the southern part of the Inner Mongolian province of Chahar, on Oct. 10.

SET HEARINGS ON NATURAL GAS FOR NORTH SHORE

Hearings are to be started Dec. 10 before the federal power commission in Washington, D. C., on proposals that the Natural Gas Pipeline company and a subsidiary, the Chicago District Pipeline company, be allowed to sell natural gas to the North Shore Gas company, serving communities from Winnetka to Winthrop Harbor. Villages and towns west of the lake shore suburbs also would be served. Natural Gas Pipeline, in association with Texoma Natural Gas company, also desires to extend service to Creston and Washington, both in Iowa, as well as to Rockford, Mendota, Freeport, and Pecatonica, Ill. Another proposal is that shipments of gas be increased in the Chicago area.

IGNORANCE!

AND LACK OF INTEREST

"HEAVEN TO HELL IN 24 HOURS"

Ignorance and lack of interest are the greatest causes of juvenile delinquency. Just published: "Heaven to Hell in Twenty-Four Hours."

Juvenile delinquency is every parent's trouble. Children cannot be taught the facts of life unless you read "Heaven to Hell in Twenty-Four Hours." The need to read the book was never greater, a book so powerful that it will shock you. It bares the truth.

By reading the book, it will enable you to have a heart-to-heart talk with your sons and daughters. If, in all your life you have never taken the time nor patience to read a book, then to read this book is the least you can do. All Americans over fifteen years of age are urged to read this book.

Any boy or girl who reads "Heaven to Hell in Twenty-Four Hours," and takes the wrong road to life, does it because they want to.

There is no Christmas present of any greater value, nor one from which a boy or girl will derive more benefit than from reading "Heaven to Hell in Twenty-Four Hours."

Send $2.00 and book will be mailed post-paid.

council of the UAW termed the company reply "a stall pure and simple," and voted unanimously in favor of a strike.

Their recommendation was passed on to the union's six man strike strategy committee, including Thomas and other top UAW officials. They conferred briefly in a closed session before Thomas emerged to announce the strike call.

Company officials said they had been "advised unofficially" of the UAW's action, but said they would have no comment until official notification from the union.

The company, in saying it would reply to the union demand for arbitration, did not give any indication whether the proposal had been received favorably or unfavorably.

Two Rejected by Company

The union's proposals, however, contained two stipulations previously rejected by the corporation—that a proposed board of arbitration have access to the company's books and that any wage increase that might result should not be tied in with increased prices for General Motors products.

Altho directed only against General Motors, a strike would have potentialities for an enormous effect on not alone the automobile industry, but on American commerce and business in general.

General Motors is America's largest operating corporation. Its nation-wide factory system turns out a huge flow of products in addition to automobiles, and an extended walkout doubtless would make itself felt in every city of the nation.

Biggest of Big Three

From regularly producing plants in nearly a score of states come, besides automobiles, such products as refrigerators, stoves, radios, diesel engines, and electric motors.

General Motors, biggest of the "big three" in the automobile industry, also feeds other car producing companies, and an industry authority has said that all but one producer would be out of action within a week if General Motors were shut down.

The statement came from George W. Romney, manager of the Automobile Manufacturers association. He did not name the "one" producer, but he ostensibly meant the Ford Motor company. General Motors, Ford, and Chrysler are the industry's big three.

The corporation was brief in its reply today to the union's arbitration proposal. General Motor's communication to the union read:

"We are in receipt of your letter of Nov. 19, 1945, demanding an answer to the proposals contained therein within 24 hours. Our reply to this communication will be delivered to you on or before Friday, Nov. 23."

The UAW-CIO General Motors council which drafted the arbitration proposal consists of representatives of UAW-CIO locals in the 100 G. M. plants thruout the nation.

The UAW-CIO has demanded 30 per cent wage rate increases from all the automobile manufacturers. It has carried on negotiations on the wage demands for several weeks with General Motors and Chrysler corporation, and today began similar conferences with the Ford Motor company.

10 Per Cent Offer Rejected

Each of the industry's big three has rejected the demands, altho General Motors had made three counter offers. The last proposed a 10 per cent wage increase, which Walter P. Reuther, UAW-CIO vice president, said the union could not accept because it was tied to a proposed price increase.

Thomas told the union's G. M. council earlier in the day that "the only way the union could get recognition in our early days was by shutting down the plants. The situation today is similar."

The auto industry traditionally has opposed arbitration as a means of settling labor disputes, and thruout several months of negotiations with the union General Motors has maintained that any sizeable wage increase would have to be offset by price increases.

In each of several wage increase offers to the union the corporation has reserved the right to seek higher car prices. The union has turned them down as "inflationary."

"None of Union's Business"

Thruout the negotiations with G. M., Reuther has insisted the corporation could increase wages 30 per cent and still make "high profits" without raising product prices. The corporation informed Reuther the books and prices were "none of the union's business."

The Ford Motor company negotiators and the union wage committee reached an agreement at their session this afternoon to discuss the union's demand for a 30 per cent wage increase "at a later date during the present negotiations."

The company made this announcement at the conclusion of the first session of the Ford wage conferences. The company previously had informed the union it did not consider the present time proper for the discussion of general wage increases.

The next meeting of the Ford-UAW negotiators will be held Friday afternoon.

NEW TELEPHONE STRIKE PARLEY ALSO FAILURE

Union, Company Stand Firm at Conference

Illinois' telephone strike, which has crippled service in some communities and reduced the volume of long distance traffic, swung into its third day today apparently no nearer a solution than when it began Monday.

The second conciliation conference called within two days in an effort to end the strike broke up in a deadlock at 10:30 o'clock last night in the offices of the United States conciliation service at 222 W. Adams st.

Both Sides Stand Firm

Both the strikers and the company refused to budge from their positions. The strikers, members of the Illinois Telephone Traffic union, composed of toll operators, is demanding a wage increase of $6 a week. The company has offered $4.

Robert L. Gordon, state director of labor, participated in last night's conference for the first time since the strike began. He was accompanied by Mark P. Costello of Decatur, a state department of labor conciliator.

The conference climaxed the strike's second day, which saw picketing spread to outlying telephone exchanges in Chicago. The company said it was able to handle 25 per cent of its normal volume of long distance calls, approximately the same number as Monday, but that over-all operation was smoother. Officials of the union said the strike was gaining additional support from affiliated unions.

Chicago suburbs equipped with manual telephones were still giving only emergency service, with wire recorders giving that information to subscribers who picked up their receivers.

Downstate Service Better

The company said that service in downstate towns increased from 20 per cent of normal Monday to 33 per cent yesterday. J. A. Maloney, a company official, said 85 out of 390 long lines operators were working and 127 out of 400 operators who man the switchboards where long distance calls originate were at work.

"The strike doesn't seem to be having a very profound effect on telephone service," he said. "We are receiving surprisingly few complaints."

He said that long distance operators in other towns were handling calls to and from Chicago.

Pickets appeared at exchanges at 6045 Kenwood av., 3312 Belle Plaine av., and 6317 Maryland av., and at the Newcastle exchange, 6684 Oliphant st.

At the Newcastle exchange local operators, members of a union affiliated with the striking union, passed thru the picket line, company officials said, and the pickets then disappeared. Local operators also were reported ignoring pickets at the other outlying exchanges.

Another Union Lends Aid

Meanwhile, wages lost thus far by striking telephone employes and by others who refused to cross picket lines were estimated at $130,000, of which $80,000 was estimated to have been suffered by the striking union.

C. E. Mitchell, president of the Illinois Union of Telephone Workers, consisting of construction and maintenance employes in Chicago and downstate, said a meeting of the Chicago members of his union at 172 W. Adams st. voted "moral, physical, and financial support to the strike until it is won." He said members of his union likewise would refuse to handle materials from places that are picketed. This union claims 3,000 members in Chicago.

More than 1,500 bedridden patients in the Great Lakes naval training center hospital and 800 in Vaughan General hospital were deprived of telephone service by the walkout of 10 operators at each hospital.

Plans Marriage

Maj. Charles Boxer in Los Angeles, Cal., yesterday on arrival from Hong Kong.

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 20 (AP)—British Maj. Charles Boxer, liberated prisoner of war whom Emily Hahn, American author, named in her book as the father of her daughter, today arrived aboard the transport Shirrabank from Hong Kong. Answering questions, he said:

"I intend to marry Miss Hahn just as soon as I possibly can. I've been in the hoosegow for four years and I don't know definitely whether I've been divorced by my wife, Ursula, but I think I have."

He said he had a letter from Miss Hahn stating she had heard his wife had started divorce proceedings in England. Boxer said he would leave tomorrow for New York, where Miss Hahn is living.

JOHNS-MANVILLE PLANT CLOSED IN WAGE DISPUTE

Employes and management of the Johns-Manville company plant in Waukegan appeared deadlocked yesterday after the plant was closed by a strike called by the International Chemical Workers union [AFL]. Approximately 1,300 workers were affected.

Union members said they were steadfast in continuing their demands for a 30 per cent wage increase, while company officials said they would maintain their previous stand that no wage increase would be given under present conditions.

The company said it would make no effort to operate the plant in face of the strike. When 900 employes on the day shift left their posts, enough workers remained to finish work already started and to protect machinery.

VETS GOING EAST GRANTED 70 PCT. OF PLANE SPACE

Washington, D. C., Nov. 20 (AP)—The government today ordered all airlines operating eastbound flights from the west coast to allot 70 per cent of their space to army and navy personnel returning from the Pacific. The order is effective Dec. 3.

The action was taken by the office of defense transportation, which said it is necessary because of "heavy arrivals of returning service men at west coast ports."

The agency estimated that about 800 men a day can be flown east by the airlines.

The order, the first issued by ODT affecting air travel, applies to airlines operating east from Seattle, Wash., San Francisco, Los Angeles, and San Diego, Cal.

The setup will provide transcontinental transport for returning service men "destined to the cities of Boston, Mass., New York, Baltimore, Md., Washington, D. C., Norfolk, Va., or Jacksonville, Fla.", ODT said.

lands was resumed this fall, Abraham Vanderwindt, owner of a restaurant-tavern in Elmhurst, wrote to the postmaster of Rotterdam, Holland, asking that the letter be turned over to his relatives there.

Vanderwindt's letter reached his niece by marriage, Mrs. Paul Vanderwindt. She responded immediately, saying, "Paul [her husband] has been held in a North American concentration camp for five years." Vanderwindt remembered Paul as a boatswain on the Prins Willem III. He obtained Paul's address from his wife. It is—according to a letter received last Saturday—618 Cotterger st., Halifax, the city prison.

Letter Tells Sailors' Story

The three Dutch crewmen held there, Boatswain Vanderwindt, Able Bodied Seaman A. Wagenaar, and Machinist J. Heeboor, sent Abraham Vanderwindt a letter in English Nov. 7, containing these statements:

" . . . You know that we were on the Prins Willem III. in 1940 in the harbor of Chicago. We were there for more than three months because the captain never gave us orders to sail. The only reason for that was that the captain himself didn't want to sail, and that is the reason why that same captain was taken from his ship arriving in England.

"We were asked several times if we wanted to sail. Our answer was no. That time in the summer of 1940 was very dangerous on the sea, and there was not one seaman in the world who wanted to sail, but when a seaman gets orders he sails . . . but our captain never did give orders to sail . . .

Confined Without Trial

"On Oct. 7 that year, the vessel was boarded by Canadian seamen, and the Dutch crew were prisoners on our own ship. First we were taken to Goderich, Ont., and held in prison . . . there until Nov. 2, when we were removed to Bordeaux jail in Montreal. Next we were shipped to Halifax, and we have been in prison there ever since without any sort of trial or even a charge against us.

"We are held as criminals, treated as criminals, forced to wear prison garb. Every evening we are locked in cells at 6 o'clock. Every day we are working for what little we get to eat. If we are suspects, we have a right to a fair trial. If we are merely held as aliens, we are entitled to treatment as such. There is no evidence that we are either."

Abraham Vanderwindt has received several letters from his nephew, who is 52, written in Dutch. One of these related how the Dutch sailors taken off at Goderich were "held in irons," how the Canadian "mounties" took charge of the men, and how "no formal charges ever have been filed against us."

Consul Denies Charge

Another, dated Oct. 4, told how "Consul van der Burch came aboard [at Chicago] and told us to sign English articles for English wages and no war insurance for next of kin in case of war accidents or torpedoes . . . from there on we put our foot down."

At his home in Evanston last night A. P. van der Burch, Netherlands consul, said he had never asked the men to sign English articles. He said they had signed Dutch articles in Rotterdam and the ship still was under Dutch registry when it left Chicago.

Told Men of Their Rights

Van der Burch said he had warned the men of their rights and told them that under Dutch law they were subject to the orders of their captain just as any soldier in the Netherlands army and could be punished severely for disobedience.

The Prins Willem III. was owned by the Oranje lines of Holland, and Van der Burch said it was an agent of this line in Canada who hired the Canadian crew, brought it to Chicago, and caused the ship to be sailed out.

Abraham Vanderwindt is attempting to secure the release of his nephew thru the Seafarers' union [AFL] and Victor A. Olander, secretary-treasurer of the Illinois Federation of Labor.

Burch recalled yesterday that Paul Vanderwindt before the war lived with his wife in Flaardingn, a suburb of Rotterdam. They have two children, a boy, 21, and a girl, 19.

No New from 13 Sailors

Some of the letters from the three seamen in Halifax express concern over the whereabouts of the 13 other sailors removed from the Prins Willem III. at Goderich. Paul says he presumes they are being held in other Canadian jails.

The Prins Willem III. was a new ship of special design for trans-Atlantic and Great Lakes travel. It made its maiden voyage to Chicago from Rotterdam and docked at the east end of the Michigan av. bridge on Nov. 1, 1939.

Ship Leaves on Oct. 7, 1940

On its last voyage to Chicago it left Antwerp May 9, 1940, suffering a narrow miss from a nazi bomb off Flushing, Holland, the next day. It landed at Chicago June 26, unloaded at the North Pier terminal, and was scheduled to depart for England, via Montreal, where it was to load a war cargo, on July 25.

Part of the time the ship was tied up at Navy pier and the rest of the time was spent outside the outer breakwater. Capt. Helsdingen said, in an interview July 27, 1940: "There is no strike. All the men are doing their duties as usual. But they are afraid the ship might be bombed or torpedoed on the way to England."

The delay kept the ship in the Chicago harbor until Oct. 7, 1940. A Chicago police department launch and a United States coast guard cutter accompanied the Prins Willem III. as she put out of the Chicago harbor until the local officers were convinced the imprisoned Dutch sailors would remain peaceful. Then the Prins Willem III. dropped into a void of silence—unbroken until yesterday.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

Nov. 21—The Raid of Gen. Forrest

DURING the fall of 1862 Gen. Grant was wrestling with the complicated problems of moving an army thru western Tennessee and northern Mississippi toward Vicksburg and keeping it supplied by means of a long railroad line running down from Columbus, Ky.

Great as the task was, Grant made progress, and soon Gen. John C. Pemberton, who commanded the small Confederate forces in Mississippi, was appealing for help to Gen. Braxton Bragg, who headed the main Confederate army in Tennessee. On Nov. 21 the latter wired Pemberton a promise that he would send a large cavalry force under Gen. Nathan Bedford Forrest to operate in western Tennessee in Grant's rear.

The raid that followed, altho it failed in the long run to stop Grant, was a masterly piece of soldiering which won the admiration of friend and enemy alike.

With a poorly armed force of about 2,100 Forrest boldly entered enemy territory held by many times that number of men. For 15 days he played havoc with Union troops, supplies, and communications lines. He took hundreds of prisoners, outfitted himself and his men with captured military stores, destroyed what he could not carry away, and wrecked railroad lines, bridges, and trestles.

Forrest proved himself a master of the art of bluff. Time after time he gave harried Union commanders the impression that they were beset by an overwhelming force. He would scatter his few drummers far and wide and let the enemy think that each drum beat represented a large number of marching troops. He would allow Union officers who had been captured, and who were soon to go out on parole, to see him dispatch orders to imaginary subordinates to bring up their men.

QUEEN PLEDGES NEW RULE FOR DUTCH LANDS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

THE HAGUE, Netherlands, Nov. 20—After an absence of six years, Queen Wilhelmina today opened the new Dutch parliament which has been purged of pro-Nazi members. Present were the envoys of the United States, Britain, France, Russia, and Canada.

The queen thanked the allies for their support to starved Holland and announced an early call for an imperial conference with representatives of Indonesia, Surinam, and Curacao on a future commonwealth of Dutch possessions.

DUTCH CALL OFF BATAVIA TROOPS ON ALLIED ORDER

BATAVIA, Java, Nov. 21 [Wednesday]—(AP)—On instructions from the allied command all Dutch and Dutch native troops are being withdrawn from Batavia, it was announced today.

A bulletin said, "In connection with the serious outbreaks of disorder in Batavia on Nov. 18 and Nov. 20, and on instruction of the allied command, all Dutch and native troops are being withdrawn."

British Bomb Nationalists

British Thunderbolts blasted Indonesian positions at Semarang in central Java with 500 pound bombs today. In renewed fighting in Batavia 20 persons were killed or wounded.

The planes pounded at Nationalists who drove a wedge between two British Indian forces in Semarang. British headquarters declared the bombing was successful and that advancing ground forces were meeting "little resistance."

Other British Indian troops edged forward in the 11th day of battle at Soerabaja naval base despite Indonesian artillery and mortar fire, and scored an 800 yard advance in one sector.

[In Holland Queen Wilhelmina declared her government would seek swift convocation of a kingdom-wide conference to establish a Netherlands commonwealth based on local autonomy.]

The planes over Semarang bombed roadblocks and a large concrete building which had been converted into a strongpoint after the R. A. F. dropped 10,000 leaflets giving the populace a 90 minute notice to evacuate.

During the night the British repelled a strong Indonesian force which attempted to seize British headquarters in Semarang. The Indonesians were dispersed by mortar fire after losing 50 killed, 50 wounded, and 150 captured, the British said.

The fighting in Batavia appeared the most widespread yet experienced in the capital. From Koenigsplein, central square of the city, gunfire could be heard in almost every direction. Men, women, and children dashed about seeking cover.

Clash in Other Sectors

Clashes were reported in widely scattered sectors, including the Menten road area, the Padjagalan area, the Meester Cornelius district, the dock area, the south end, and around the railroad station.

In the south end British Mahrattas shot seven Indonesians and captured 36. In the dock area all vehicles traveling on the Tandjong Prok road were fired at. In the central area of Batavia a grenade wounded an officer and five soldiers in a British truck. In the north sector of the city Seaforth Highlanders shot three looters.

Attempting to halt disorders in the capital, the unrecognized Indonesian government announced it was concentrating its peace preservation corps [TKR] in areas surrounding Batavia. It issued an appeal to the Indonesian people to place full confidence in the TKR and to refrain from taking individual action "which would only harm our cause."

Describing the fighting in Soerabaja, a British statement said Indonesian shelling and sniping was "fairly heavy."

TRUMAN HEALTH PLAN AROUSES A MIGHTY STORM

Fought by Many Groups, Including Religious

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 20—President Truman's national health program, including compulsory health insurance, aroused tremendous opposition today from members of congress, who pronounced it another step into socialism and who asserted that its colossal cost would postpone indefinitely the balancing of the national budget.

The bill to carry out the plan, introduced by Sen. Wagner [D., N. Y.], Sen. Murray [D., Mont.], and Rep. Dingell [D., Mich.], became at once one of the most controversial measures ever to come before congress.

Many Groups Opposed

Many groups, notably medical associations, Catholics who oppose the plan as socialistic, and Christian Scientists who object to being taxed for medical care to which they are opposed, are preparing to wage vigorous warfare on the measure. The principal group favoring the legislation is the CIO, which indorsed it today and urged its immediate enactment. There will be lengthy hearings on the measure.

The compulsory health insurance plan, it transpired, is chiefly the brain child of Isadore S. Falk, research director of the social security board, and Michael M. Davis, a member of the CIO Political Action committee and for many years an advocate of socialized medicine.

Quotes Labor Office

In support of his charge that the measure involves socialistic regimentation of doctors and the people generally, Rep. Plumley [R., Vt.], cited the following pronouncement of the International Labor office:

"The fact is that once the whole employed population, wives and children included, is brought within the scope of compulsory sickness insurance, the great majority of doctors, dentists, nurses, and hospitals find themselves engaged in the insurance-medical service, which squeezes out most of the private practice on the one hand, and most of the medical aid hitherto given by the public assistance authorities on the other. The next step to a single national medical service is a short one."

"Sickness insurance legislation the world over," said Plumley, "has been peculiarly susceptible to political manipulation. In many countries it has been the entering wedge for social insurance legislation and subsequent general socialization of industry, banks, communications, and so on. Certain groups and individuals have fostered this type of legislation because it attracted the labor vote and could at the same time be sold to many politicians as a clever device for raising revenues."

10 Billion Tax

"The bill will receive careful scrutiny," said Rep. Knutson [R., Minn.], ranking minority member of the ways and means committee.

The cost of medical care would be paid out of the social security fund, which would be stepped up to 10 billion dollars or more a year. At present, the social security fund is raised by a 2 per cent tax on pay rolls, 1 per cent being paid by employers and 1 per cent by employes on the first $3,000 of pay. This tax yields about 1½ billions a year, chiefly for old age benefits.

The Wagner-Murray-Dingell bill provides for an increase of the social security pay roll tax to 8 per cent—4 per cent paid by employers and 4 per cent by employes on the first $3,600 of pay. This tax, it is estimated, would raise between 7 and 8 billions a year. In addition, there would be a 5 per cent tax on the first $3,600 of the "market value of his services" received by a self-employed person. Also, state and local governments and state and local employes would pay a 2½ per cent tax each on the first $3,600 of pay. These additional taxes, it is estimated, would net more than 2 billions.

HOSPITAL COST IN COUNTY SET AT 60 MILLION

Residents of Cook county during 1944 paid more than 60 million dollars to maintain their hospitals and health agencies, Alexander Ropchan, executive secretary of the health division of the Council of Social Agencies of Chicago, disclosed yesterday.

In a statement on "Health—Big Business in Cook County," Ropchan pointed out that the 60 million dollar expenditure equaled Chicago's corporate budget for police and fire protection and other essential municipal services. Each family in Cook county shared the cost by contributing approximately $60 toward the total bill, he said.

Ropchan criticized both Chicago and Cook county for not finding tuberculosis cases early enough for the disease to be cured at little expense. Chicago, he added, has the second highest death rate from tuberculosis among whites and the highest death rate among Negroes of the country's five largest cities.

WEHLE TO FACE INDIANA INQUIRY ON ACCOMPLICES

Earl Wehle, 38, confessed slayer of his employer, Edgar Heywood, 53, south side electrical shop owner, was turned over yesterday to Lake county, Ind., authorities who indicated they would question him on the possibility that he had accomplices.

During the two hour automobile ride to Crown Point, Wehle wept and cried. He said he was "sorry" for his mother, Mrs. Carl Wehle, his daughter, Connie, 14, and his two brothers, who soon will return from overseas service with the army.

He blamed Heywood's "miserliness" and his own greed to take over Heywood's business and possessions for the crime, Sheriff Fred Stults of Lake county, who accompanied the prisoner, said.

Wehle indicated during the trip that he was alone in the crime, but he is to be questioned further today by Stults and Prosecuting Atty. John E. Rozkowski of Lake county.

New York, Nov. 20 (AP)—Chester A. Bolles, 44, multimillionaire New York industrialist and board chairman of Continental Industries Inc., is believed to have been killed when his private twin motored airplane crashed into the Hudson river here late yesterday, his office said today.

Henry Stansbury, public relations director of Continental Industries, said the following also were believed killed:

Andrew H. Blass of Pittsburgh, Pa., independent financial consultant to Continental Industries.

Crews of two police launches which had been searching the river all night reported late this morning they had been unable to locate the wreckage or the bodies of any victims.

URGE ARMY, NAVY MEDICS GET SAY ON HEALTH BILL

Dr. Robert S. Berghoff, president-elect of the Illinois State Medical society, yesterday called on President Truman and congress to delay passage of any legislation for compulsory health insurance and subsidized medical care until 45,000 members of the nation's medical profession return from military service and receive "a sporting chance" to be heard on the proposed measures.

"We, the old and physically unfit members of the medical profession of the grandest country in the world," said Dr. Berghoff, "who have 'carried the torch' these last four years since Pearl Harbor, we humbly beg of you, Mr. President, do not legislate our 45,000 'youngsters' who are still on the battlefields, out of the type of practice they left and loved."

Asks Bill Be Delayed

In joining with other local medical groups in condemning the President's five point program for a nation-wide sysetm of federally assisted health extension projects, Dr. Berghoff declared "the old American system of fair play" requires the proposed bills be shelved until the absent medical officers have had a chance to get home and learn first hand what the nation's lawmakers contemplate doing to the practice of medicine in this country.

The President's health measures, which observers say bear close resemblance to the William H. Beveridge [British Socialist] plan for governmental care of the individual "from the cradle to the grave," also were rapped by Dr. Warren W. Furey, secretary of the Chicago Medical society. Dr. Furey termed the administration bill "a further extension, pure and simple, of outright collectivism.

John M. Pratt, administrator of the National Physicians' Committee for the Extension of Medical Service, which has been fighting proposals for socialized medicine during the last six years, declared President Truman's recommendations seemed to have been timed with the hope of influencing the deliberations of the labor management conference, "now creaking to an ignominious stalemate."

Warns of Political Influence

"Any one who knows anything about attempts to provide government medicine is aware of two final results," Pratt said. "First, without exception medical service has become a powerful weapon in the hands of unscrupulous politicians. Second, it has resulted in an almost criminal deterioration in the quality of medical care. When the doctor becomes dependent on the politician the patient usually becomes the victim."

"From the standpoint of timing," Pratt added, "these proposals from Mr. Truman are on a par with the demands for full employment and unreasonable employment legislation. It almost seems that the message was delivered with the possible hope that it would become a factor in the deliberations of the labor-management conference now creaking to an ignominious stalemate in Washington."

THE MAN WHO KNEW IT ALL

Adm. James O. Richardson, commander in chief of the United States fleet until Feb. 1, 1941, had eight good reasons why the fleet should not have been based at Pearl Harbor, where it was dangerously exposed to surprise attack. There were two principal reasons in his view why it should not have been kept there.

The first was that, despite the ideas of President Roosevelt, who had ordered it there in the first place, the basing of the fleet at Pearl Harbor could have no intimidating effect upon Japan and its policy of national expansion. "Japan," said Adm. Richardson, "had a military government which knew that the fleet was undermanned, unprepared for war, and had no train of auxiliary ships without which it could not undertake active operations. Therefore, the presence of the fleet in Hawaii could not exercise a restraining influence on Japanese action."

The second reason was that the fleet could not put to sea ready for action unless it was first brought back from Hawaii to the west coast, where it could be docked, manned, stocked, and stripped, and a suitable fleet train assembled—none of which could be done at Pearl Harbor. At least five times Adm. Richardson vigorously recited these and other objections to the retention of the fleet at Oahu. Once he told Adm. Harold R. Stark, chief of naval operations: "You are the principal and only naval adviser to the boss [Mr. Roosevelt] and he should know that our fleet cannot just sail away, lick Japan, and be back home in a year or so. If you do not tell the boss what you really know and feel about the probable cost and duration of a Japanese war, NOBODY WILL." The two words were capitalized and underscored.

Finally Adm. Richardson went to Washington and presented his arguments to the President himself. He was overruled. Mr. Roosevelt said he knew better. "Despite what you believe," he told Richardson, "I know that the presence of the fleet in the Hawaiian area has had and is now having a restraining influence on the actions of Japan." The fleet stayed at Pearl Harbor. Four months later Adm. Richardson was unexpectedly removed from command. Mr. Roosevelt persisted in his doctrine that, by sticking our neck out far enough, we could intimidate the government of Japan, composed of military and naval experts perfectly capable of comprehending that the basing of our fleet at Pearl Harbor was even more meaningless militarily than it was as a political gesture.

Nine months after Adm. Richardson's removal Japan seized the opportunity tendered by the White House to attack the fleet as it was riding tied up inside Pearl Harbor and to inflict upon it the greatest disaster in American naval history. The assault could never have taken place if Mr. Roosevelt had not insisted on exposing the fleet at the one place where it could not maneuver in its own defense.

What Adm. Richardson did not know was that Mr. Roosevelt was his own naval adviser. Since his days as assistant secretary of the navy he had collected models and prints of ships. He had studied naval strategy and thought that he was unequaled in the field—just as he thought he was unmatched as a diplomatist, an economist, an expert in public finance, and in every other quality of a statesman.

The President was vain and he was headstrong. It was idle for Adm. Richardson to express hope that he would listen to Adm. Stark, whose position as chief of operations logically made him Mr. Roosevelt's "principal and only adviser" on naval affairs. Stark might make suggestions, but the President gave the orders. Until May, 1940, when Richardson was ordered to keep the fleet at Hawaii following maneuvers, American policy had always been to base it securely on the west coast and send it into blue water only during a period of tension. It was against the reversal of this doctrine that Adm. Richardson protested repeatedly.

It was an empty hope for the admiral to have believed he could change the President's mind. It did not matter that Richardson himself had made a lifelong study of the problem of a war with Japan and was the navy's acknowledged expert in that field. The President considered himself a far greater strategist. He was already far gone on the "commander in chief" complex which led him later into so many boasts of his capacity in that role. He didn't need advice. He knew all the answers.

Pearl Harbor was the pay-off on one of the mistaken concepts of this willful man. The collapse there was utter and it has been fully revealed. As a strategist Mr. Roosevelt was a complete flop. Even if his idea that the fleet was safe at Pearl Harbor and from there could scare Japan into good behavior had proved out in actual test—as it did not—he still knew that a provocative course before the nation was prepared for war meant the sacrifice of our undermanned and ill-equipped garrisons in the Philippines and on Wake and Guam. Yet he persisted in going his own way.

Pearl Harbor is not the last of the catastrophes that Mr. Roosevelt has stored up for this country. It signalized the errors in his career as a one man general staff, who, like Hitler, worked thru intuition. As has been remarked, the President also thought himself a genius in improvising social and economic programs, and in working out a new international order. All the chickens of the New Deal's domestic policy have not yet come home to roost, altho a great many have winged their way back to the henhouse, and the anarchy of the present day world is only premonitory of what may be expected of Mr. Roosevelt's policies.

At home the country is afflicted with an enormous debt, the explosive pressures of inflation upon prices, with unprecedented labor strife arising from the insistence upon "rights" in excess of the nation's capacity to satisfy them, with a reckless policy of public spending, and with ever-increasing interference by government with the lives and liberties of citizens. In the world America looks about her to see hate and envy directed against her from every side, with scarcely any differentiation in degree as among former allies and former enemies. She sees American troops used to enforce a rule of exposure to cold and starvation upon millions of persons, and American arms—thanks to the coinage of Mr. Roosevelt's lend-lease—employed that tyranny may prevail against the same aspirations this country had in 1776.

This is the remainder of the legacy—the Pearl Harbors to come. The ruin and collapse will not be heralded by the crash of great guns or the explosion of torpedoes. The target is something that once was more solid and impervious than the warships of steel that foundered at Pearl Harbor. It is the structure and form and enduring life of the Republic. The salvage job will tax the energies of all patriots.

TRIAL AT NUERNBERG

The trial of the nazi ringleaders at Nuernberg has begun. When it was first projected we said that it was a mistake, and we still think so. This is as good a time as any to rehearse the arguments.

There is no doubt, of course, that these Nazis are guilty of murder and should hang for their crimes. They murdered those Germans who stood in the way of the Nazi rise to power. Because many of the wars against Germany's neighbors were undeclared, every man killed in the fighting was the victim of a conspiracy to murder. In addition, hundreds of thousands of Poles, Czechs, and others, including most of the Jews of Europe, were slaughtered in the murder camps. These crimes could have been proved without difficulty in established national courts existing for the purpose of punishing offenses against long-established criminal codes. It is in these courts that the Nazis should have been tried, and there is no doubt that they would have been found guilty.

Instead, a kangaroo court has been improvised, which is no less a kangaroo court for the august personages who sit on the bench. This court, for which there is no warrant in law, makes up its rules and its law as it goes along. It has no past from which to draw precedents of fairness, and no future. In a few brief months it will disappear.

Objection might be made, in the interest of impartial justice, to trying the Nazis in Polish or Czech courts, because the judges of those nations have abundant reason to hate Germans, but this court is no better in that respect. It is likewise composed of Germany's enemies. To get an unbiased court, the judges would have to be found in Sweden, Switzerland, and other neutral countries.

Probably no such expedient was ever seriously considered, because, if it had been, the court might have brought others to trial who are far from guiltless, but who happen to find themselves on the winning side in the war.

Do not the Englishmen and Frenchmen who shook hands with Hitler over the rape of Czechoslovakia share responsibility for what ensued? Or, to take a more recent example, what defense can the British offer for their conduct in Java and Indo-China which is not equally a defense for the Nazis in levying undeclared war on defenseless peoples who were doing them no harm?

And what crimes did Hitler commit that Stalin didn't commit with him or before him? Stalin rose to power by murdering his rivals and maintained himself in power by the same means. Hitler persecuted Jews and others; Stalin persecuted all religions and, in addition, whole social classes. Hitler is charged with aiming to dominate the world by force; the bolsheviks set up the Third International for the same purpose, and their scriptures are at least as specific in outlining the program of conquest as is "Mein Kampf." The two tyrants, the German and the Russian, made their bargain in 1939 for the division of middle Europe between them. That started the war. Almost at the same moment they marched into Poland from opposite sides to squeeze the life out of it. Stalin used his influence thruout the world on Hitler's behalf for almost two years more. It was in that period that he ordered the American Communists to do all in their power to prevent the flow of supplies from America to Hitler's enemies in Britain. It was in that period, likewise, that the French Communists, led by M. Thorez, were doing all they could to weaken their own country.

The court at Nuernberg is not only improvising its law as it goes along, but is improvising it for the punishment of a single set of criminals, tho precisely the same crimes can be proved against numerous other defendants. It is as if the Criminal courts of Cook county were to rule that murderers living north of the Chicago river must be brought to trial, but those living on the south side are above the law. That would be regarded as a fantastic discrimination, but it is no more fantastic than the one presently on display.

The Nuernberg trial, with all its apparatus of movie cameras, telephonic headsets, and what not, is defended as the means of dramatizing the determination of the world to punish those who break the peace. We doubt that in future generations it will be so regarded. The trial is much more likely to be remembered as a supreme example of self-righteous hypocrisy. It will not escape attention that our government was a party to it at precisely the moment that the devious record of our own entrance into the war was being revealed in the Pearl Harbor inquiry at Washington.

POETRY'S BAD BOY

The column confesses to an almost total ignorance of the works of Ezra Pound, the poet and critic now on trial for treason because of his war time broadcasts from Italy. His case may become a literary cause célèbre, and yet we fear that our ignorance will persist because we have always found him unreadable. Whenever we have encountered a patch of his verse or prose, we have found it obfuscated with cryptic utterance and recondite allusions.

* * *

He is famous among a cult as an early prophet of modern poetry, but our attitude toward his literary reputation is philistine. We have fallen into the habit of calling such characters "Jack Joneses," after the late founder of the Dill Pickle club, a vanished roost of intellectual slummers that stood close to Bug House square. In the case of Pound, our definition would be: "A Jack Jones, badly scarred by the higher education."

* * *

Shortly before the start of World War II., Pound was asked by the editors of "Twentieth Century Authors," a biographical dictionary that perches on every literary editor's desk, to supply a brief survey of his life and works. He answered with a curious document which was faithfully printed. It included a so-called "Introductory Textbook," reflecting his ideas on the nature of "coin, credit, and circulation," which are derived from the writings of an economist named C. H. Bradley ["Economic Democracy"].

* * *

Pound figured in the history of Poetry, the Chicago magazine which has been endowed to foster that art, as a European correspondent and talent scout. In the issue of April, 1942, Poetry cast him adrift in an editorial which stated:

"The time has come to put a formal end to the countenancing of Ezra Pound. . . . So far as we and the rest of the English-speaking world of letters are concerned, he has effectively written 'finis' to his long career as inspired enfant terrible."

IN NEW THANKSGIVING

The guns still stacked hard by the outer door
Tell of a savage world but held at bay:
The sea behind, dark forests on before,
And winter perils with them night and day.
Yet in the pews rough-hewn and bare we see
The pilgrims bow, the young, the silver-haired;
And hear their lusty hymns rise full and free
In gratitude for blessings known and shared.
So in this time of truce hard-won we stand
In humble thankfulness for blessings past,
Nor doubt the clouds that still beset our land
Shall soon reveal the peace so long forecast.
The providence that brought us to this shore
Shall guard our lives and fortunes evermore!

Ghost Theater of Calumet

One of the finest theaters in the middle west was once located in the Calumet district of Chicago. It was built by George M. Pullman and was part of the famous Arcade, which is still standing, a mere ghost of its former glory.

The auditorium seated a thousand persons on chairs of red velvet and leather. Boxes were of carved mahogany, hung with blue and maroon curtains of raw silk and olive green curtains of velvet embroidered in gold thread. The woodwork was of dark mahogany outlined with gilt, and the walls were shaded from rich purple to delicate rose and dove gray. The ceiling was lavender and silver with a stained glass skylight, from the center of which hung a bronze chandelier.

The theater was opened on Jan. 9, 1883, with the Madison Square Theater company presenting "Esmeralda." The guest list included such notables as Marshall Field, Philip H. Sheridan, John Crerar, N. K. Fairbank, and the Kimballs, Potters, Keeps, Stones, Blairs, Dunhams, Hibbards, and Ishams.

A dedicatory address was made by the Hon. Stewart L. Woodford of New York, during which he said: "Here we have such beauty and luxury as Cleopatra never knew as she floated in her perfumed barge with silken sails down the mystic Nile."

NOVEMBER NIGHTFALL

What matters it that all the world is gray,
That moaning winds o'er dying meadows sweep?
Behold the west, where flaming colors play
On sunset banners, tho the dusk is deep.

Gray branches point cold fingers to the skies;
Gray shadows steal the daylight all too soon—
But see! Now Earth in frosted silver lies,
Beneath the glory of November's moon!

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks will answer questions of service men, veterans, and their dependents by mail if stamped envelope is sent to 435 N. Michigan av. The Tribune's veterans' bureau, 1 S. Dearborn st., Superior 0200, gives personal interviews.]

L. V. asks: "Has the navy announced a further cut in points for discharge or does it still require 41 as of Nov. 1? Will the critical score be less beginning Dec. 1?"

The navy's critical point score for discharge of enlisted men will remain at 41 thru November. The requirement for male officers is 46. The point score for enlisted men beginning Dec. 1 will be 39 and on Jan. 1 it will be reduced to 38. Enlisted specialists such as disbursing storekeepers and shore patrolmen who have been frozen in their jobs will become eligible for discharge under the point system Jan. 1. According to present navy regulations men who have become eligible for discharge under the point system still may be held up to 120 days. This saving clause is added to cover those men for whom a replacement is required. Enlisted men who had three children under 18 as of Sept. 25 also are eligible for discharge as are those to whom either the medal of honor, navy cross, distinguished service medal, legion of merit, silver star, or distinguished flying cross has been awarded.

G. T. asks: "If an officer is retired without pay, but not discharged, can he apply for disability compensation?"

Yes. Officers retired without pay and who have service-connected or service-aggravated disabilities may apply to the veterans administration for compensation the same as those who have been discharged. Officers retired with pay may elect to take the retired pay or disability compensation, whichever is greater.

A VIRUS INFECTION WHICH LEADS TO PNEUMONIA

DURING the 1917-'18 conflict we witnessed a violent influenza epidemic. In many patients a complicating pneumonia was observed which was unlike the regular types. In World War II., medical officers were confronted with similar cases and, after enough patients had been studied, it was concluded that this atypical variety was caused by a virus.

The whole subject of virus pneumonia is little understood. The causative strain is difficult to isolate and identify. On occasion, organisms resembling the rickettsial group are guilty. These agents are the culprits in such diseases as Rocky mountain spotted and Q fevers as well as typhus. Those responsible for influenza and psittacosis [parrot-fever] also have been implicated.

At any rate, the disorder under discussion usually starts as a simple cold and the victim becomes pepless and exhibits a dry cough. Soon he complains of headache, muscular soreness, fever, and chilliness. "Hacking" increases, the temperature rises, and there is pain in the chest area. The respiration rate quickens but the pulse may be unchanged. At this time, the physician begins to hear evidence of disease in the involved lungs, which ultimately can be demonstrated by X-rays.

A blood count taken during the course of the illness is unlike ordinary pneumonia, for the white cells are not elevated. Occasionally the malady is more serious and may extend from one side to the other. Marked prostration and perspiration may be observed.

After three or four days the thermometer readings start to drop and the sufferer improves. Cough, however, often persists and even in this stage only small amounts of sputum can be raised. But the course may be variable and fever may continue or recur for two or three weeks.

The great majority recover completely, particularly if infection does not spread to other parts of the breathing apparatus. The sulfonamides and penicillin have little effect unless other organisms invade and complicate the picture. Most patients should be put to bed altho some are hardly ill enough to warrant this procedure. Sometimes the manifestations are so mild that the victim is unaware of his condition. In the more severe forms, oxygen is indicated and transfusions are administered in the hope that resistance will be increased.

As old diseases are conquered, new ones appear. Modern chemical therapy is combating successfully numerous species of bacteria and molds but many of the virus infections still elude us. Considerable research is being conducted and undoubtedly our conception of these agents will be clarified as time goes by.

In the meantime, the common cold should not be neglected, especially if fever and cough remain. A few days of bed rest is preferable to weeks of invalidism.

EXTRA RIB

R. T. writes: What is the cause of a cervical rib?

REPLY

Occasionally the transverse process of the vertebra immediately above the first rib is longer than usual and crowds the structures in the neck. Pressure upon the blood vessels or nerves going to the arm follows. Consequently, the symptoms are usually referred to this region. The growth is called "a cervical rib."

The Last Word Is Never Man's

The naval officer was discussing the long wait before the Normandy invasion, how it was scheduled and postponed, scheduled and postponed, until for a time the men at the head of it wondered if it would take place at all, if it could take place at all. "It's a strange thing," he mused, "but modern war with all its extraordinary refinements—if you may call them that—inventions and new instruments, still hinges on what war has always hinged on." "Men?" we asked. "No," he said, "the weather."

It was when the high British and American naval officers in London in advance of the Normandy invasion were in deepest quandary, he said, that comfort came from a forgotten source. Some one found in a sidewalk bookstall a rare volume of letters written by English mariners to Elizabeth's admirals at the time of the Spanish armada. The naval officers read them and sighed in relief. "These things, too, will pass," they said in substance, for it was the weather which brought about the destruction of the great [called invincible] Spanish armada, and the problems of 1588 were still the problems of 1944.

Just as the weather cost Philip II. his dreams of England, so it cost Kublai Khan the islands of Japan and Napoleon an empire. It was on Aug. 14, 1281, that the forces of the Mongol conqueror, 70,000 ships, according to Japanese versions, set forth. Victory might have been as cheap as they reckoned it had not a terrible typhoon, the Great Wind of Japanese history, come out of the north, scattered the mighty fleet like pieces of driftwood, and smashed them on the rocks.

Napoleon's was a different story. It was rain. Victor Hugo in "Les Miserables" says it was rain that defeated Napoleon at Waterloo, and, altho historians consider rain only a minor factor in his downfall, they concede that it may possibly have been the deciding one. For two days of that historic June of 1815 it rained steadily. On the third the French were to have advanced. But the roads and cornfields were muddy bogs, and Napoleon called a halt. His men were sitting pigeons for the entrenched forces of Wellington.

Freak vagaries of the weather affected men with as motley goals as Washington, Caesar, and Columbus, and caused one of history's most dramatic reversals of all the rules of war when a handful of cavalry captured a fleet of ships. The latter bit of derring-do took place in the winter of 1794-'95 when the Dutch fleet was frozen in at Texel in the Frisian Islands. That they could be frozen in seemed impossible, but a cold mass of air draining out of the great pool of cold air in interior Russia and Siberia had sailed across at a time when Europe's prevailing westerlies were absent. As a result a small detachment of hussars rode out over the ice, clop-clop-clop, and browbeat the crews of the well armed ships into surrender.

The weather helped Washington when, on Christmas night, 1776, the ice parted on the Delaware nine miles above Trenton. He crossed, cornered the Hessians, and made history. To Caesar and Columbus it brought threatened mutinies, Caesar's when a freak heavy cloud followed by hail caused flames to dart from the tips of the spears and pikes of his 5th legion, Columbus' when his sailors saw the mass of seaweed in the Sargasso sea and thought the little ships were about to go on the rocks [altho the Atlantic actually is four miles deep there]. Probably the first to simulate bad weather, however, was Gustavus Adolphus, who created an artificial fog by burning wet straw.

One great storm brought good. This was the Crimean storm of Nov. 14, 1854, which caused the loss of many ships lying at Balaklava. One was a French warship. This induced the astronomer LeVerrier to make a study of the storm, tracing its course from west to east across Europe. He submitted his findings to Napoleon III. and urged an international system of telegraphic reports for issuing storm warnings. This was established in 1855 and served as a model for all weather forecasting services to come. For all, that is, except radar, which, mighty as it is, cannot stop the storm it predicts.

DICTATOR BOWLES

Spartanburg, S. C., Nov. 15—Since the adoption of the Bill of Rights and the Constitution the right of the people to petition their government has been recognized. Price Administrator Chester Bowles seems to think this right is now void as he charges the auto dealers with conducting a high pressure lobby campaign when they petitioned the house small business committee for redress from Bowles' OPA price policy. He called it "government by pressure" and said such actions are "alarming."

He went on to say that "telegrams from dealers delayed the receipt of many important communications." In other words Administrator Bowles does not consider a petition from the people important!

We fought a bloody and costly war to get rid of dictators in other countries only to find their counter-parts here at home. If Mr. Bowles does not believe in democratic free government he should resign. S. Craig Little

UNFAIR TO BENEDICT ARNOLD

Berrien Center, Mich., Nov. 15—Congratulations to Mr. Orr on his cartoon of Nov. 12, showing Benedict Arnold offering to share his place with the Pearl Harbor guilty. But is it fair to Arnold?

True, some of the guilty did wear a uniform in time of war instead of holding down comfortable office jobs, but did any of them ever suffer as did Arnold on his march to Quebec, or were they ever reprimanded after brilliant campaigning and hard fighting to help out a worthless brass hat, as was Arnold at Saratoga?

Believe it or not, there seem to be those worse than Benedict Arnold whom even he would shun. Josiah B. bcock

NAVY BEDBUGS

Chicago, Nov. 1 — A letter received from our son today who is stationed at Shoemaker, Cal., tells of a condition we never would expect the navy to tolerate. We have DDT, why don't the services use it? He says:

NOTRE DAME IS GRATEFUL FOR THOSE TEETH

Chicago, Nov. 16—Maude Healy's reference to football as a "brutal sport" is one of the most amusing definitions of football I have ever heard. I will not mention the name of the Notre Dame man who had his teeth kicked out, but every loyal N. D. rooter knows who he is and is grateful for all he did to try and help win that game.

This fellow if he thought football was such a "brutal sport" could have taken it easy on the bench for the rest of the season, but he did not, he knew that accidents can happen and took it as such. A young man who plays football does it voluntarily, not under orders. If you got hit crossing the street, would you sue the city for endangering your life by building the street? Notre Dame Fan

"SUCKER"

Oak Park, Ill., Nov. 11—Having just spent a few hours listening to platitudes and soft music dedicated to Nov. 11, 1918, Aug. 17, 1945, and what future date, I am tempted to review my experiences as a civilian for 23 days, after 34 months overseas. My wife, child, and myself must depend upon relatives for a place to live. The wages I make will certainly not allow the rental of a decent place to live, even if landlords had no violent allergy to children.

Meanwhile, Washington is trying to give Britain a small loan of six billion at 3 per cent interest. I can't get a loan thru the GI bill at any rate below 5 per cent, and probably not at all.

Who's a sucker? That's right! W. J. Thompson

HELPING STALIN'S EXECUTIONERS

New York, Nov. 14—Yesterday, immigration authorities announced their decision to deport within two weeks Paul Lougbine, Russian prisoner of war, a stowaway from Cherbourg. On Aug. 14 this unfortunate youth attempted suicide by drowning. The forcible deportation ordered means death by firing squad at the hands of brutal soviet totalitarianism.

STRIKERS AND THE DRAFT

Do these occur because the personal safety of the worker is no longer threatened by immediate induction into the army if he is AWOL from his "critical" job? If the draft is no longer in effect, what am I doing out here? Sgt. William Bresemann

ADMINISTRATRIX' CHARGE

Chicago, Nov. 13—What percentage of an estate is the administratrix entitled to when there was no will?

N. V.

There is no fixed percentage under present Illinois law. The allowance depends on the extent and amount of services. A rough average would be 4 per cent.

STUDY OF 27,000 GI SENTENCES BEGUN BY ARMY

Peace Time Standards to Govern Action

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 20—The war department has begun reviewing the court martial sentences of approximately 27,000 ex-soldiers now confined in army prisons for violations of military law, it was learned today. Col. Marion Rushton, head of the department's correction division, said in an interview the necessarily severe sentences handed out in war time are to be adjusted to conform to peace time standards of punishment for similar offenses.

The bulk of the offenders were convicted by general courts martial for desertion and absence without leave, the records show. However, a complete listing of their crimes covers nearly all types of violations.

They include those civil in nature such as robbery and murder to those of purely military nature such as disobedience of orders or asleep on duty.

35,000 Now Confined

There are at the present time nearly 35,000 military prisoners confined in military institutions, of which more than 23,000 are in the United States. These figures include 2,712 who have been sentenced to federal prisons. The others are divided as follows:

Disciplinary barracks	13,873
Rehabilitation centers	5,873
Guardhouses	808
Overseas	11,500

Those overseas are roughly divided between 10,000 in the European theater and 1,500 in the Pacific theater.

The number of men who are being restored to duty periodically thru the rehabilitation centers, thus clearing their records, and others whose sentences will expire before review of their cases, is expected to account for the difference between the total now in confinement and the number of sentences which will be reviewed.

Last to Be Released

Adjustment of the sentences will not enable any violators to obtain release from the army and return to civilian life ahead of men who have served honorably at home or on the fighting front, Col. Rushton said. Men overseas, who have been convicted and imprisoned will, he said, "ride the last boat back." Those serving sentences in this country cannot expect to gain their release until next year, after the army's separation program has been completed.

"A military prison is safer than the battlefield," he said, "but it has not been made into a soft berth, and certainly no soldier who commits a serious offense should be sent back to civilian life ahead of the steady soldier who does his duty. We owe it to the fighting men who maintain clear records to deal effectively with those few who commit offenses."

Problem Now Different

He added, however, that the problem of meting out justice now is vastly different from that faced while the war was still in progress. The prime concern during the conflict was the army; protection of its morale and the handing out of sentences sufficiently heavy to act as a deterrent to the comrades of the convicted prisoners.

"With the return of peace," Col. Rushton continued, "it has become a problem of fitting the sentence to the individual offender. The cases are to be reëxamined in the light of the crimes committed and according to each man's record. The wholesale release of military prisoners is undesirable, but nonetheless reductions in an appreciable number of sentences will be warranted."

Many AWOL Cases

This work is being done under the direct supervision of War Secretary Patterson, acting thru former Supreme Court Justice Roberts who has been named head of the departmental clemency boards. Records of each case are submitted to one of the board by the correction division for a final determination.

Each man's file includes his trial record, a report from the federal bureau of investigation, plus reports from army officers and officials of the institutions in which he is confined. There are also results of intelligence tests and results of a psychological examination. All are prepared by an expert analyst and studied first by the correction division for a preliminary recommendation.

Approximately 82 per cent of all offenses committed by soldiers are purely military in character, according to department records and of these 47 per cent are AWOL cases.

MOTHER OF SIX GETS 6 MONTHS IN PETTY THEFTS

Mrs. Ella M. Wayton, 39, of 221 Eugenie st., divorced mother of six children, was sentenced to six months in the county jail yesterday by Judge Irwin B. Clorfene in Felony court on a conviction of petty larceny. The court told Mrs. Wayton that juvenile authorities had reported she had taught the children to steal. She denied the charge.

Mrs. Wayton and Joseph Yehle, with whom she had been living, were arrested after Mrs. Wayton went to a police station to absolve two of her children, Lorraine, 17, and Robert, 15, of the theft of $50, a camera, and silverware from the apartment of George Ruff, 528 N. Albany av.

The mother implicated herself and Yehle in the theft. Her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Austin Wayton, 22, of 528 N. Albany av., also charged Mrs. Wayton with stealing a ring, an oil burner, and a dog from her home. Mrs. Wayton and Yehle pleaded guilty. His motion for probation was continued to Nov. 30.

KNIFE KILLER, 17, GETS 6 MOS.; PAL WINS PROBATION

Edward Kunza, 17, of 704 E. 155th st., Harvey, and James F. O'Haire, 15, of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., who were charged with murder in the fatal stabbing Oct. 12 of Joseph Maciejewski, 34, of 8351 Buffalo av., father of six children, pleaded guilty before Chief Justice Harold G. Ward in Criminal court yesterday to a charge of manslaughter. Kunza, who did the stabbing, was sentenced to county jail for six months and placed on probation for three years. O'Haire was placed on probation for three years. Maciejewski was killed outside a tavern at 3306 E. 85th st., apparently after an intoxicated quarrel.

1½ MILLION GIs ATTEND ARMY'S SCHOOLS ABROAD

Soldier Students Bring Boom to Biarritz

BY DAVID DARRAH

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

BIARRITZ, France, Nov. 20—Army authorities at the Biarritz American university today estimated over 1½ million men and women in uniform will have attended some kind of post-hostilities school before they return to the United States.

The Biarritz university, just starting its second eight weeks' session as part of the army's educational program for soldiers awaiting transportation home, has enrolled 4,195 students this term, according to the university newspaper BAU [for Biarritz American university].

The students are of all ranks. The second session ends Dec. 21. The university, set up here last August, is a counterpart of one founded at Shrivenham, near Oxford, England. It has become popular with the French and has put new life into this famed resort town on the Bay of Biscay.

Classes in Swank Hotels

Biarritz has again become an animated place. Soldiers walk in the streets with books under their arms and scurry to classes in the town's luxurious hotels, which serve as university centers.

Col. John Jimerson, head of the counseling service for students at BAU, said the overseas university is a distinct success. He attributed this to the fact that the military control accepted the advice of educational experts in setting up the university. For instance, Prof. John Dale Russell of the University of Chicago, was brought to Biarritz as academic adviser and dean.

"The returning soldier will find himself at a distinct advantage in competition with students who have not been soldiers," said Jimerson.

3,873 Enlisted Men Attend

This session's student body at Biarritz includes 298 male officers, 46 female officers, 3,873 enlisted men, and 40 WACs. Brig. Gen. Samuel L. McCroskey is military commander and working under him is a centralized administrative and instruction staff of civilians and military.

The faculty totals about 250, partly instructors from the army, and partly imported home talent from various university faculties. Dean Russell is one of several score outstanding civilian educators now serving at Biarritz.

Among the institutions that loaned instructors to help establish BAU are Columbia, Yale, Princeton, Brown, Dartmouth, Colgate, Carnegie Tech., Duke, Chicago, Ohio State, Michigan, Illinois, Indiana, Minnesota, and Stanford.

Students Are Volunteers

Enrollment is on a voluntary basis. Soldiers apply thru their outfit's information and education officers, and are sent here for the term, afterward returning to their stations. Any one who has the equivalent of a high school education may qualify for Biarritz.

More than 250 courses in 38 departments are offered during the second eight weeks' term. The major divisions are agriculture, commerce, education, engineering, fine arts, journalism, liberal arts, and science. Practical subjects are stressed. The largest course listed is in liberal arts, however. On completion of the courses the students are given certificates for credit when they resume their studies at home.

Among the more important structures that the Americans occupy are the Miramar, Carlton, and Palais hotels, and the Bellevue and municipal casinos. The army has set up a regular post establishment here, with stores and commissaries.

NEW ZEALAND HINTS U. S. LOSES RATING AS SO. PACIFIC SAVIOR

BY QUENTIN POPE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

WELLINGTON, N. Z., Nov. 20—The period when the United States was the savior of the south Pacific has definitely ended, events of the last week indicate.

The New Zealand government was revealed still to be freezing United States investments of American women married to New Zealand husbands and demanding that they obtain permission from the reserve bank before paying their American income tax.

Americans thus face the possible compulsory sale of their dollar assets to the government at any time in exchange for depreciated New Zealand pounds.

A United States war department mission that has just completed an official check on lend-lease records in Australia and New Zealand for the army was bundled from a leading hotel here without apology because its rooms were needed. It had to hunt around in the crowded capital for fresh accommodations.

Bojanic, pastor of Holy Trinity church and school at 1850 S. Throop st.

SUSPECT IN TWO CASES SEIZED WITH GIRL, 4

Allen Thatcher

Allen Thatcher, 19, of 4446 Dover st., was arrested yesterday by Detectives Otto Kruezer and John Magner of Summerdale station in the men's washroom of the Ridge theater, Devon av. and Clark st., where he had taken a 4 year old girl.

Playmates of the child had seen her go away with Thatcher, whose description tallied with that of a man who Nov. 6 took a 4 year old girl to another north side theater, left her with the manager, and explained he had to hurry to work.

AUTOIST SEIZED WITH 100 GALS. ALCOHOL IN CAR

Carmen M. Mash, 28, of 2430 Arthington st., was arrested yesterday on a charge of illegal possession of 100 gallons of untaxed alcohol by federal agents who said the spirits were intended for the Thanksgiving trade in Negro districts. Mash was driving a car in which seats had been replaced by 20 five gallon containers. He pleaded not guilty, and United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker set the hearing for Nov. 26. Agents under E. C. Yellowley, district supervisor of the alcohol tax unit, made the arrest.

SENATE VOTES RETURN OF USES TO STATES SOON

Refuses Barkley's Plea for Delay to June

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 20—Defying President Truman's leadership, the senate today voted to return the personnel and facilities of the United States employment service to the states within 120 days after enactment of the 51 billion dollar appropriation cut-back bill.

The senate also heard a stern warning from Sen. Taft [R., O.] that no further reduction in taxes can be expected if congress approves the President's proposal of federally subsidized medical care, which Taft said would cost the treasury three or four billion dollars a year in addition to the pay roll taxes envisioned by Mr. Truman in his message to congress yesterday.

The appropriation cut-back or recision bill which the senate passed today trims $51,244,680,213 from 1946 government appropriations voted before the war ended. The house had previously approved a cut of $52,653,713,879, and provided that the employment service be returned to the states within 30 days after the President signed the bill.

Now Goes to Conference

The measure now goes to a senate-house conference for adjustment of the financial differences and a probable compromise on the length of time the federal government can retain the employment service, which the late President Roosevelt "borrowed" from the states in 1942.

Mr. Truman indicated to congressional leaders after the house imposed the 30 day limitation he might veto the bill unless more time were accorded. Majority Leader Barkley [D., Ky.] was accordingly hurried in from the Pearl Harbor committee investigations, which he heads, to plead for more time today.

Barkley demanded that the federal government be empowered to retain the employment service until June 30 of next year, insisting that transfer to the states would require lengthy planning.

But Sen. Reed [R., Kas.] recalled that the United States took the service from the states as a war time measure in exactly 11 days.

Democrats Aid in Defeat

Despite Barkley's firm stand, his proposal for the government to retain the service until June 30 was beaten 35 to 31, with a number of Democrats joining the Republicans in the vote.

The vast reduction in federal spending was made possible by the sudden end of the war and the consequent lack of need for war outlays.

"If the President's recommendations for health insurance are enacted," Taft retorted, "there will be no further reductions in taxes because it will cost an additional three or four billion dollars a year in addition to the pay roll taxes."

Chairman McKellar [D., Tenn.] of the senate appropriations committee led an unsuccessful fight to ban the payment of 50 per cent extra salaries to officers of the rank of lieutenant colonel or lieutenant commander and higher ranks for flying service. McKellar argued that the extra pay can be obtained by four hours of flying a month, and that it is unjustified in peace time.

ARABS TO UNIFY FACTIONS FOR PALESTINE FIGHT

JERUSALEM, Nov. 20 [Reuters]—After weeks of continuous negotiation, Jamil Mardam Bey, chairman of the Arab league council's present session, seems to be nearing success in achieving Palestine Arab unity. The council has agreed to set up a higher Arab committee of 12 members, to be selected by Mardam Bey from Arab party nominees.

When finally formed, the committee will give the Arab league a statement outlining the Palestine Arabs' views on Foreign Secretary Bevin's statement last week on British policy for Palestine.

[Bevin advocated a joint Anglo-American committee to study the Palestine problem.]

Mardam Bey said that the Arab league was not committed to acquiescing in continued Jewish immigration at the rate of 1,500 a month as provided in the 1939 British white paper.

YANK'S REFUGEE CHUM HAS GALA DAY IN CHICAGO

Robert Sokowski, 10, the Ukrainian orphan who traveled from England alone to be with his benefactor, Sgt. Edward Klonowski, 24, of 4621 Grace st., spent his first day here yesterday with wonder in his eyes. He saw Santa Claus for the first time, and received a real cowboy suit!

"That long beard you call Santa said he would bring me an electric train and a tricycle for Christmas," he told his buddy, who found him in a foxhole in Austria. "He doesn't tell lies, does he?"

Robert was quickly assured that miracles happen in America. He was given an authentic cowboy suit by a department store. At first he looked at it quizzically, fingering its leather trimming. "Why didn't they make shoes out of it?" he questioned. Soon, however, the little boy in him overcame the war hardened veteran, and he tilted the cowboy hat jauntily, cocked his toy pistol, and declared, "Now I'm a real American. I look like Gary Cooper. I haven't seen much of America yet, but everything is good what I see."

Death on Hayrack Party Is Termed an Accident

A coroner's jury yesterday returned a verdict of accident at an inquest into the death of Robert Anderson, 17, of 6921 Normal blvd., who was killed Oct. 12 when a truck struck a hayrack party in route 83 near LaGrange rd., Palos Hills. Eighteen other persons on the rack were injured. The verdict asserted that while A. E. Snyder, 42, of 1340 Emerald av., Chicago Heights, the truck driver, "did not use due care and caution, the carelessness was not criminal."

Mrs. Ed. F., Chicago—If you are closing your house for a short time in cold weather, play safe by draining the plumbing system and pouring light oil or kerosene into the drain traps. Inbetween Age Children Need Understanding

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1945: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

While it isn't possible to jump on a magic carpet with your 4 year old and fly over 5 or 6 years, we can do that very thing in going from one day's article to another. But it just might be that you have a 10 year old as well as a 4 year old and would welcome some thoughts about him.

This might be especially true if yesterday your little girl of 10 drove you distracted with her forgetfulness, or your boy of 11 irritated you beyond measure with bats, balls, frogs, skates, dogs, and constant objections to cleanliness and all personal niceties.

If this is the continual state you are in these days you are losing much that is important and enjoyable in these years of your child's life. To illustrate the point I would like to quote parts of a letter.

"My dear Mrs. Bevans: From the vantage point of the chance to reflect which only comes to busy people with an illness not too serious to hamper all mental effort, I wish I could tell you how much I have thoroly enjoyed your articles.

"We have two boys, 9 and 11, who seem to fit your descriptions quite adequately. The elder one has passed thru many of the phases you describe, but the younger one still is a day-dreaming dawdler, quite unmindful of sundry details of getting dressed or keeping anything in order.

"However, I merely would like to observe that, in spite of the little trials, this age seems to me to be a heaven of peace compared to the anxieties of babyhood and the coming problems of the teens."

You see? There are trials at this age, constant but only superficial ones, such as dawdling, day-dreaming, dislike of small duties, often dislike of school, indifference to clothes, cleanliness, order, and the amenities in general. But there is so much more than this that it is a pity not to see it.

Ganz Is Able Guide to Child Concertgoers

BY ALBERT GOLDBERG

Rudolph Ganz is one of the most versatile of men and musicians, and the youngsters who attend the young people's concerts of the Chicago Symphony orchestra are lucky to have this genial guide and mentor to initiate them into the mysteries and pleasures of music.

Yesterday afternoon Mr. Ganz presided over the repetition of the first program of the young people's series, as he will over the majority of this season's concerts, and not only the juniors who were there, but their mas and pas and even the staid musicians of the orchestra seemed to enjoy the conductor's painless and witty elucidation of the know-how of a symphony orchestra.

Instead of holding up this and that instrument and giving it a name, and thinking thus to make Junior musical, Mr. Ganz wrote for the occasion a set of Four Symphonic Demonstration Pieces, which permits each section of the orchestra to show off its peculiarities, the while performing music attractive to young ears. The separate titles describe the contents with typical Ganzian wit—"Brassy Prelude," "Strings in Variation," "Woody Scherzo," "Percussional Melee"—and tho the good professor had his tongue in cheek, he could not conceal a gift for composition that outdistances many composers who take themselves with far more solemn seriousness.

The youngsters liked it, as well as they might, and they also unbent to applaud a 12 year old playmate, Mayne Miller, for his thoroly businesslike performance of the first movement of Haydn's D major concerto.

Lyell Barbour, once a resident pianist, returned to his former haunts to give a recital in Kimball hall last night after an absence estimated by his manager at 18 years. It would be idle to compare Mr. Barbour's past with his present, for his present can stand on its own artistic feet. He is a thoughtful rather than a brilliant pianist; his fingers have a flair for clarity, tho occasionally in the stress of a climax they run astray. His musical taste is discreet and sometimes marked with individuality. He played Bach, Mozart, and Chopin well, altho it was the moderns—Poulenc, Fauré, and Debussy—that excited him to a display of real tonal warmth and variety, and Liszt's Hungarian Rhapsody No. 11, no child's piece, that brought his technic up to a pitch of brilliance.

British Shut Door on U. S. Production of 'Carmen Jones'

While British diplomats are busy in Washington, D. C., trying to beg or borrow billions of American dollars, Britons at home are doing their best to keep American business out of England, Billy Rose, Broadway entrepreneur and producer of "Carmen Jones" disclosed last night.

Rose recently flew to London to arrange for the appearance of "Carmen Jones" there at the close of its American tour. Last night he cabled the company, now at the Erlanger theater:

"British minister of labour refuses to permit Carmen Jones to come to London tho theater available plus agreement on my part to freeze money here. This seems strange reaction on part of government soliciting billions of our help."

Before his departure for London, Rose had indicated his willingness to convert profits from the play's British run into British products. Refusal of the labor ministry to permit the British showing will confine the company's operations to continental North America, officials here said. After Chicago, the show will play Milwaukee, Detroit, St. Louis, Indianapolis, Cincinnati, Columbus, Buffalo, Toronto, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, and Boston.

Inquiring Camera Girl

By Maryon Zylstra

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Meryl Fisher, 2254 Adams.]

THE QUESTION

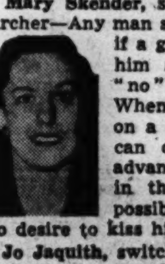
How do you discourage men who insist upon kissing you against your wishes?

WHERE ASKED

County building.

THE ANSWERS

Evelyn Haczek, secretary, 2833 N. Marmora—That depends upon the circumstances. For instance, if we are driving home, as soon as he parks the car in front of my house I step out and start walking toward the door. At the door I say, "Good night," and walk in without stopping.

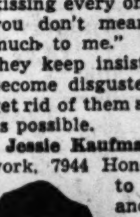


Mary Skender, secretary, 3320 S. Archer—Any man should know that if a girl wants to kiss him she won't say "no" too definitely. When a fellow insists on a kiss, all the girl can do is resist his advances and tell him in the quickest way possible that she has no desire to kiss him.

Jo Jaquith, switchboard operator, 2838 Burling st.—The only way I have ever discouraged them is to say, "I don't want to kiss you and I'd appreciate it if you'd just forget about it for the time being." If he's any kind of a gentleman, he won't insist. And if he isn't a gentleman, I don't care to see him again.

Estelle Shapiro, secretary, 4521 N. Central Park—I don't have much trouble with insistent men. You can't blame the men, because the girls have confused them for so long. Many girls say "no" when they mean "yes" and vice versa. When I say "no" and a fellow doesn't know what I mean, I walk away.

Lois Wiese, typist, 9418 Racine—Usually I tell them, "I might sound old-maidish, but I just don't believe in kissing every one, and you don't mean that much to me." When they keep insisting, I become disgusted and get rid of them as soon as possible.



Jessie Kaufman, general office work, 7944 Honore—Don't play up to a man too much and he won't expect to kiss you. Once in awhile some man thinks he's irresistible so I deflate his ego by telling him that I don't care for his attention. Some of them won't take "no" for an answer and there's not much to do about it.

Refrigerators Offer Special Freezing Unit

BY EDITH WEIGLE

A parade of new electric refrigerators was shown in Chicago this week to a thousand dealers and salesmen. All the products displayed are post-war and all will be available soon in quantity.

The most spectacular feature of the refrigerators is a sharp freeze unit which extends across the front just below the top. It is closed off by glass doors. In it garden produce and fruits can be frozen simply by turning a little indicator to a point marked "Sharp Freeze." After the freezing the temperature of this section can be raised, and it then will become a storage place for frozen foods and ice cubes.

The center space of the refrigerator is kept at the ordinary cold point for storing perishables, and has several fold-away shelves that can be taken out in sections to admit large items such as watermelons, roasts, and extra large bottles. There is a meat storage drawer and a full width, sliding "crisper" drawer. In one model this drawer has a glass top. In another a "cold shelf" of thin metal is immediately above it.

All models have a large vegetable storage bin at the bottom. Some are equipped with an inner door divided off into narrow shelves to hold small bottles such as those containing catsup, mayonnaise, relishes, jellies, and beverages. Thus, when the outer door is opened these can be quickly and easily removed without getting into the refrigerator proper and without heightening its temperature.

The 7 cubic foot size of this post-war refrigerator has four ice trays that hold 56 cubes. It stands 58¾ inches high and is 27 5/16 inches deep and 30 inches wide.

The 9 cubic foot size provides 84 ice cubes in six trays, and is 63⅞ inches high, 27⅝ inches deep, and 33 inches wide.

In addition to the combination refrigerator-freezer, the same company also is making a horizontal type of home freezer, the lift-up lid of which is so designed that it can never fall down quickly and smash your fingers. It also has a lock and key.

This chest is divided inside into three metal compartments. The center one does the quick freezing job, while the other two act as storage spaces for frozen foods. This model is 5 cubic feet.

A smaller one, 2½ cubic feet in size, also is being made. Ideal for the small home or apartment, it will maintain 15 to 25 degrees below zero cold. Larger home freezers of the upright type soon will appear but were not seen at this display. They will have the outward appearance of a refrigerator but will be divided into three horizontal sections inside and will be built in 7½ cubic foot and the 10 cubic foot size.

The appearance of all the refrigerators is very handsome, streamlined, and simple. Tops are slightly rounded and the door handles are as easy to operate as they are good looking.

All Chicago to Join Tomorrow in Joyful Day of Thanksgiving

Festive Gatherings

BY RITA FITZPATRICK

Tomorrow Chicago will have a real Thanksgiving day, in the most literal and finest sense of the word. There will be no mincing of words in its thanks for victory. Chicago knows how to talk turkey.

In homes thruout the city, families will be united around the festive board for the first time in years. In veterans' hospitals and in the city's service men's centers, soldiers, sailors, and marines, an important part of Chicago's family, will be fed heartily as her favorite sons. Even the tiny, abandoned waifs in St. Vincent's orphanage and the inmates of county jail will not be forgotten.

A marathon turkey dinner, which will be served continuously for 13 hours from 11 a. m. to midnight to an anticipated 30,000 service men and women in the city's three service men's centers, has been planned by Mrs. Edward J. Kelly, wife of the mayor. None will be overlooked, and homeward bound veterans will be sent to the centers from railroad stations.

Eighteen hundred pounds of turkey with "the trimmin's" will be consumed by approximately 700 patients in Gardiner General hospital. Relatives and other guests have been invited to attend the feast, bringing the number of diners to 1,800. Ambulatory patients will be at home on furloughs.

The boys in Vaughan General hospital won't be cheated out of their traditional Thanksgiving dinner. Bed fast patients will receive the same bounteous portions of turkey as the 2,000 veterans who are expected to take advantage of a four day pass. An open house will be held in the Red Cross auditorium and a program of games, music, and entertainment has been arranged.

A professional variety show will be the highlight at Hines hospital where 1,200 patients will be served a regular feast in bed, and another 1,950 will "come and get it." Thirty-five Hines patients will be guests of the Veterans of Foreign Wars at a hockey game in the evening.

The Edgewater Beach hotel, which discontinued its practice of providing a Thanksgiving dinner for the 220 children at St. Vincent's orphanage two years ago, will renew this heart warming gesture this year.

For many of the 250 youngsters in the juvenile home who have been neglected and dependent, this will be their first real Thanksgiving dinner. They are expected to consume 350 pounds of turkey. In the afternoon, they will have games, a movie, and, yes, more food—ice cream, cakes, and cookies.

Chicken will be main item on the bill of fare in County jail and the House of Correction. Fruit and tobacco also will be distributed to the inmates of the House of Correction.

It will be a festive Thanksgiving also in County hospital, where every tray will have special decorations as well as being heaped with turkey, Gen. Manus McCloskey, warden, said. Visiting hours will be allowed from 2 to 4 p. m.

All patients in the Chicago State hospital, even those who are bedfast, will be shown movies during the afternoon. Baked ham will be served on the holiday dinner there. Approximately half of the 1,200 patients in the Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium are expected to go home for the day. There will be a special menu for those who remain in the sanitarium.

For those Chicagoans who do not prefer to stay home around their hearths after their hearty meal, the majority of the city's museums and both Brookfield and Lincoln park zoos will remain open. The public may visit the Art institute, the Museum of Science and Industry, the Shedd Aquarium, the Chicago Natural History [Field] museum, and the Chicago Academy of Sciences. The Adler Planetarium and the Chicago Historical society will be closed.

Church Services

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS

The first Thanksgiving day in America was set up by Bible reading colonists; therefore, the American Bible society, jointly with the venerable Chicago Bible society, has chosen tomorrow to launch a nation-wide Bible reading series with appointed favorite passages to be read daily thru Christmas. Last year a fortnight of these readings met with such response that the period was extended.

The selections were chosen by members of the military services thruout the world in order of the tabulated vote except for the Thanksgiving and Christmas readings. Tomorrow, Bible readers thruout the world will be reading of Joshua's succession to Moses and the preparation of Israel for entering the promised land; also, the hills' Psalm, the 121st. Friday Gen. Marshall's favorite passage, Psalm 23, will be read. Friday also calls for St. John 10:1-18.

Special Thanksgiving services have been scheduled for church and synagog thruout the city, with many union and joint services planned in central edifices. Temple Sholom, 3480 Lake Shore dr., will be host to member congregations of the Lakeview council on religious action. Ministers and members of churches and synagogs in the council will take part.

Rabbi G. George Fox will be the preacher in the South Shore Ministers' association's 24th annual service, to be held this year in St. John's Methodist church, 74th st. and Jeffery av. "A Faith for Our Times" will be Dr. Fox's subject.

Bishop J. Ralph Magee of the Methodist area of Chicago will be the preacher tomorrow morning in Fourth Presbyterian church, where the congregations of St. James and St. Chrysostom's Episcopal churches will join in the observance. Members of the congregation of Evangelical Lutheran Church of St. Luke, Belmont and Greenview avs., will have a canned food shower for the benefit of child welfare agencies.

St. Luke's Episcopal church, Evanston, will have the bishop of Derby, England, the Rt. Rev. Dr. E. J. Rawlinson, one of the greater scholars of the Church of England, as preacher at 11 a. m. tomorrow, and at Rockefeller Memorial chapel, University of Chicago, the council of Hyde Park and Kenwood churches announces the Rev. F. Robert Steiger, new minister of First Baptist church, as preacher.

The Catholic Casino chorus will sing the Thanksgiving high mass at 10 a. m. in Holy Name cathedral. The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Patrick J. Hayes, rector of the cathedral, will be celebrant, assisted by the Rev. Fathers Emmet Reagen and James Brett, deacon and subdeacon.

Junior League Ball Leads List of Gay Parties

BY JUDITH CASS

HAIRDRESSERS, caterers, dressmakers, and florists have been working overtime preparing for three large dancing parties tonight, and the lack of telephone communications between the city and suburbs has not made last minute matters easier for dinner hostesses and those in charge of the parties. The prospects are bright for the kind of a gay Thanksgiving eve that Chicago has not seen since the war put an end to the Bachelors and Benedicts dances, traditionally held then.

The Chicago Junior league's Chicago and Southern Ball tonight in the Oval ballroom of the Continental hotel will be the first formal post-war ball complete with receiving line and sit-down supper. Long white gloves will appear on the ladies of the receiving line and the ball committee, going the Bachelors and Benedicts one better, is supplying a corsage for each woman receiving which will harmonize with her gown. The Bs and Bs presented handsome corsages to the women in its receiving line, of course, but nevertheless they were all of a kind. The party chairman, Mrs. Hugo Vogel; her co-chairman, Mrs. Paul W. Oliver, and the reservations chairman, Mrs. Daniel Leonard, also will receive corsages.

The receiving line, which will form at 10 p. m., will be headed by Mrs. Paul Holinger, president, with seven past presidents standing next to her: Mrs. Howard Linn, first president and founder of the league; Mrs. Edward A. Cudahy, Mrs. Gordon Lang, Mrs. Earl Kribben, Mrs. Herbert C. De Young, Mrs. Cyrus H. Adams III., and Mrs. Richard M. Lamport.

Other Junior League Notes

The league party in a way is substituting for the Bs and Bs ball, as the guest list includes many young people who customarily danced at the latter. The first fifty feminine guests to arrive at the league's ball will receive plastic cigaret cases.

Dinner parties in the Casino, where Mrs. Linn, Mrs. Cudahy, and the league's first vice president, Mrs. William McCormick Blair, and their husbands will dine, and in the Racquet, the Tavern, and the Key clubs, as well as in many homes, will precede the ball. Only two supper tables in the ballroom were available yesterday, so the room's capacity of 1,050 should be completely sold. The proceeds will be used to finance a new league project, as yet undecided upon.

Among those entertaining at home are Mrs. John L. Irving and her sister, Miss Kay Kelly, whose special guests will be recently discharged Lt. Buddy Ebsen of the navy and his bride of a few months, the former Nancy Wolcott McKeown. Lt. Justin A. Stanley, who has returned from the Pacific to be stationed with the navy in Chicago, and his wife will be among Dr. and Mrs. Holinger's dinner guests. The others who have returned to Chicago, Henry Sincere and Seymour Offutt, and their wives, will be in a pre-ball group at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Davis.

Other Parties Tonight

A goodly slice of the Bachelors and Benedicts' guest list will be found dining and dancing in the Onwentsia club tonight on the occasion of the club's 50th anniversary. The party is limited to members only, and three generations of them will be out in force for the gathering. The clubhouse will be decorated in a gay '90s mood, and a number of the older members will be able to recall the club's growth from a crude golf course on the farm of the late Charles Farwell to the present well manicured 18 holes and handsome clubhouse.

Predicts 24 Million Pairs of Nylons in Time for Christmas

Washington, D. C., Nov. 20 (AP)—Approximately 24 million pairs of nylon hose will be ready for American women for the Christmas trade, Thomas W. Montgomery, sales manager of the Granite Hosiery Mills, Souderton, Pa., estimated today in testifying before members of a house interstate commerce committee.

Montgomery voiced concern to the committee that the recent office of price administration order reducing the price on high cost nylons would discourage expansion of the hosiery industry and that a large part of the American production might be driven into the export trade, where prices are higher.

The committee called the session on nylons to see whether the OPA in its price order is within a legislative restriction against standardization and interference with brand names.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
2 spades	Pass	3 hearts	Pass
3 spades	Pass	3 no trump	Pass
4 clubs	Pass	4 diamonds	Pass
6 spades	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead, king of diamonds.

The slam contract on today's hand was reached very smoothly and logically. In response to the opening bid West made his natural response of three hearts. East rebid the spades in order to establish that suit definitely as trump and to elicit further information from partner. It will be noted that thus far West's response has done East no good at all, inasmuch as he still has three losing diamonds. West bid three no trump, a conventional sign-off to indicate that his three heart response had been made on minimum values. East then bid four clubs to coax one more bid from his partner, after which West dutifully showed the ace of diamonds. East then contracted for the slam.

He was tempted for a moment to go the whole way, but realized that even a six bid involved a certain amount of risk because with a diamond opening it is likely that dummy's entry to the hearts will be knocked out too soon. Furthermore it was by no means certain that partner had both the king and queen of hearts. In fact, the chances were that he did not, since with two honor tricks he would not have signed off so early after his partner's opening two bid.

The king of diamonds was opened and had declarer played impulsively to the first trick the hand would have been lost. The natural impulse is to take the ace in a slam contract, but if this is done at trick one there will be no way to fulfill the contract against even semi-intelligent defense. Assuming that the second lead is to the ace of hearts followed by a diamond, South will win and surely lead a trump. [South, of course, must be careful to lead the 10 of spades and not a small one, else the nine will hold up as an entry.] Now declarer can neither ruff a diamond nor reach dummy to obtain a discard on the king of hearts.

If declarer ducks the first trick, South is rendered helpless. If he proceeds to drive out dummy's entry he cannot prevent the diamond ruff. If he leads trump to prevent the ruff, he cannot drive out dummy's entry, so that the king of hearts will furnish a discard for the losing diamond. In other words, after the duck of the opening lead South can defeat the contract only by the simultaneous lead of a trump and a diamond, which even the current streamlined code does not tolerate.

"THE RYAN GIRL"

Yesterday afternoon the telephone rang and it was a Mr. Ryan calling. He had been to the Blackstone the night before to see "The Ryan Girl" and he was considering calling all the Ryans in the telephone book to picket the theater. He won't, tho. In the first place there are nine columns of Ryans, I counted, and in the second, I shifted his Irish sympathies by telling him what I have suffered all these years from Hopalong Cassidy.

But after seeing "The Ryan Girl" for myself, perhaps I should have let the Ryan clan take its course. For while his moribund melodrama cooked and served by Hollywood's Edmund Goulding might rate as nothing worse than a Class B movie, in the theater where we have no double features and slightly higher prices, it is the kind of turkey that is no cause for theatrical thanksgiving.

Why this should be, I could not even hazard a guess. In Hollywood, Mr. Goulding has directed some charming pictures, with imagination, wit, and tenderness. Yet he approaches the stage so crudely it is hard to keep even a polite face straight when confronted by the sententious balderdash delivered by a cast either carved out of theatrical wood or mummified by what it is asked to do.

Perhaps Mr. Goulding was house cleaning and found the script thrust back on a dusty shelf. It concerns a murderer who comes out of hiding, hoping to use his soldier hero son to beat the rap, as we say at the Blackstone. Naturally, the boy doesn't know about his sordid background, or even that the frail girl once of the "Follies" [they say Ziegfield, which probably would have given Ziegfeld a turn] is the mother who once was glad to get rid of him and now makes the supreme, to her, sacrifice to save him from sorrow.

Actors have a hard enough time in such stuff as this without adding to their worries. Frankly, I don't see how any one could survive such dialog and direction. June Havoc comes off best because she is as attractive as Gypsy Rose Lee's sister should be, and she knows enough to stand still and look wistful. Scarcely a spark of Edmund Lowe's screen self emerges, and Una O'Connor is doused by dullness. Charles Colby has a touch of James Stewart as the son, and if I lived in that apartment, I would complain to the management about the noisy elevator. Sound effects, Mr. Goulding?

Need of Both Public and Private Housing Projects Called Vital

Both public and private housing projects are necessary if today's housing problems are to be solved, Arthur J. Kruggel, realtor and former president of the Chicago Real Estate board, said yesterday, in speaking at the second housing forum in a series being presented in the Chicago Young Women's Christian association loop center.

Private housing, he said, is able economically to care for only those in upper income brackets, comprising from 15 to 25 per cent of a city's families, and unless private enterprise finds a way to provide standard housing for all, it must stand by and let housing become at least in part a public enterprise. He compared protests from realtor groups and other private concerns against public housing with objections to establishment of free public schools in the country around a century ago. It was argued then, he stated, that free schools without taint of charity merely took care of the indigent at the expense of the taxpayer.

War, with its curtailment of home construction and increasing city populations, and prosperity, with its demand for better housing, are immediate causes for the current housing shortage, Mr. Kruggel said.

"One of the difficulties in providing housing is that it is not profitable to build rental housing for low income groups," he said.

Trifles of Fur Fashionable as Accessories

BY REA SEEGER

Accessory trifles that add immeasurably to a costume are both costly and small in size. But the dash of contrast they provide represents the difference between a dull ensemble and one of great distinction. Consider fur, if you would add such distinction to your winter dresses and suits and coats. The smallest items are those of buttons, and fur covered hat pins to stick into small or large hats. Leopard, civet cat, all shades of caracul, white ermine, ermine tails, persian lamb of gray, brown, and black; beaver, and nutria, are smartest, tho the fluffy furs of silver fox, blue or cross fox make more sensational sized buttons or pins.

Fur belts are especially high fashion this season. You'll find narrow bands, fancy affairs with very wide designs in front of the fur, with the back half of ribbon leather or velvet; also very wide corselet belts that lace in front. Some have fur coin purses attached or larger chateleine bags swinging at the side, the bags of the same fur as the belts to which they are attached. All kinds of fur belts are obtainable and left over pieces of fur that you may have around the house can be made into smart belts to suit your orders.

Fur bags, from neat little pouch bags with draw string cord or ribbon, to huge under-arm styles that sometimes double for capacious muff and bag come in all the sturdy furs and those of fluffy pelts. Ink black persian is by far the smartest fur used for bags that must serve as all-purpose models. Fur ascots to match the bags complete a perfect suit ensemble. Fur flowers to attach to lapels or wear in the hair are amazingly realistic in size and shape and come in a grand variety of colors for contrast or harmony with fur trim suit or coat.

Looking at Hollywood

—By Hedda Hopper—

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Nov. 20—Here in Hollywood everybody thinks that Peggy Cummins has already got "Forever Amber" in her lily white hands, but from London comes a clipping that beautiful Annette Simmonds has been tested over there to the tune of $20,000 for the role. . . . Irving Asher, who's been with Adm. Louis Mountbatten in India, got his release from Metro and joins up with Leo McCarey's Rainbow Productions. They have quite a list in that independent set-up now with George Seaton, David Butler, Buddy De Sylva, Bing Crosby, and Bob Hope. No wonder the major producers are becoming a little fearful.

More Dough for Kimbrough

Nobody in this town ever moved faster than Emily Kimbrough. She finished a script at Universal for Deanna Durbin Friday, and on Monday moved her typewriter across town to Metro and started adapting a Molnar play for Joe Pasternak. Somewhere during the short journey, she got a big up in salary. That's doing it the easy way. . . . Bill Hendrix, who's praised so many singers, got a chance to air his own voice and will sing on the Ginny Simms show, and also with Opie Cates and his orchestra in the civic auditorium in Pasadena. . . . Johnny Mercer's "Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe" has brought him dozens of requests from big railroads all over the country to write songs for them, and they'll pay real dough. I wonder what they think he's been getting out of that song.

"The Secret" Won't Be That for Long

Joan Crawford's next is still called "The Secret," which will be changed, no doubt. Jerry Wald will produce and Kurt Bernhardt direct it. . . . Alfred Hitchcock wasted no time in signing Antonio Moreno for "Notorious" when he learned he'd returned from Mexico. . . . Robert Alda gets the top spot in "The Beast with Five Fingers." I don't know whether he'll play the beast, the fingers, or all six. . . . Effie Shannon has been added to "Pygmalion," which Gertie Lawrence will do. . . . Ian Hunter, out of the British army, will go into "Bedelia." . . . After one girl was tested four times Evelyn Keyes got the Ruby Keeler role in "The Life of Al Jolson."

More of That Mad Whirl

The Hollywood merry-go-round went round at the Mocambo, when Buffy Cobb dined with Bob Walker. At a table on one side were Lana Turner and Bob Hutton. On the other were Vic Mature and Cleatus Caldwell. Martha Kemp Mature and Joe Brown danced by and made faces at them. And all the time this was going on, Greg Bautzer was trying to get Buffy Cobb [whom he married] on the telephone. But she wouldn't talk to him. . . . I wonder if the next year won't see many love stories on the screen such as "Seventh Heaven," "Smilin' Thru," "To Mary with Love," and "Forever." I don't see how they can go much further with mystery yarns. Maybe they'd better kill off the writers, who've murdered about everybody else. . . . Orson Welles will fly to Mexico City to confer with Norman Foster on that long planned bullfight picture, "Bonito." And speaking of bulls, Jack Haley is entering his in the Great Western Livestock show in an attempt to win a bovine Oscar. If he does, maybe Orson will star him—the bull, not Jack.

He Turned the Tables

The Marx Brothers, who delight in driving directors crazy, ran into one they couldn't handle. During the jail sequences in "Adventure in Casablanca," they kept wandering in and out of their cells until Archie Mayo sent for a locksmith and jugged them for real until he'd finished the scene. That's a sight I'd like to have seen. . . . Those of you who love Elsie Janis—and who doesn't—will have a chance to hear her on a Thanksgiving broadcast. She'll be in mighty good company, too—what with Fibber McGee and Molly, Lauritz Melchior, the Charioteers, and many others. . . . Ezra Stone is doing another book, "Hospital Habitues." After he took up his old spot with the Aldrich Family, the show's Hooper rating shot up 2½ points. . . . Arthur Lubin is leaving Universal after 10 years. His last picture there was "A Night in Paradise," starring Merle Oberon. . . . When a friend of Warners saw "Confidential Agent," he commented about the million dollar deal Howard Hawks got for the little lady [Lauren Bacall]. Said he, "You've just got to watch him like a Hawks."

INSTALMENT XV.
IN THE WINE CELLAR

Avis rushed down the stairs. Lights as well as the radio were on, and she caught a glimpse of Oscar Moravian entering his room. The dim illumination issued from the study, where Robin hung over Maud's wide open desk.

"See this, will you?" Seethingly Robin motioned to a mass of strewn papers littering the lowered flap. Avis padded to his side.

"You can't mean," she asked puzzled, "she forgot to turn the key?"

"Evidently, but that's not what I mean. I came down to cut off the wireless—and who'd you think I found doing a thoro paw thru this desk? Moravian pretending to fill his fountain pen!"

You really had to hand it to Moravian he muttered. The one time on record—and did he jump to it? I've half a mind to lock these two doors."

A click. The study went black. "O, can you find your way out?" The hand guiding her felt fever-hot. And then, suddenly, his fingers bit into her arm.

"Who's this?"

The lower door burst wide to show Private Bandy's window.

"I cawn't find my Albert," she screamed. "She's got 'im! I'm telling you straight, my Albert he's gorn!"

"What are you driveling about?" Robin menaced.

"Wot I'm syeing, it's Gawd's trewth, you come see!"

"But this is simply ridiculous," Avis expostulated. "Robin, the baby must be here...Surely he was in his bed?"

The gorge—so easy to fall into! She grew sick with formless fear. Albert had been slumbering in the improvised cot against the wall. He must have crawled over his sister and wriggled off—but where? Mrs. Bandy had searched every unlocked nook and cranny.

The little girl kept tugging at her purple coat. "Oh, 'Eather, do leave go!" Mrs. Bandy snarled.

"But I 'ear him, Mum! There, that's Albert. Can't yer 'ear 'im crying?"

Faint, piteous, Avis made out the low whine. Muffled, deep-buried... The wine cellar? Robin viciously assaulted the middle passage door.

"Locked. It would be. Well"—grimly—"I'll have to get the keys."

He took the flight at breakneck speed. "The baby's behind this door, Mrs. Bandy," Avis said, "I can't think how he got in."

"No, cawn't you? Then I can, see? Two's bin at that there door tonight. Don't ask me to name names."

Two! Maud and who else? The whimpering had ceased, and the stillness was broken only by the chattering rivulet so close to where they stood. Hours seemed to drag before Robin came down. The door swung wide, but only on swept slabs and empty corners beneath stone shelves, bottle lined.

"Then where is he? This third cupboard's only latched, nothing in it but mops and brooms. That door? It opens on a solid brick wall."

"O, do hurry," Avis implored, Mrs. Bandy was wailing that her baby was lying smothered, dead.

The first door rasped inward, but not on a brick wall. Avis pressed hard on Robin's heels, straining terror-sharp eyes down broken treads, past seepage pools mired with ancient rubble, into thick evil gloom. Low down something stirred. It looked like tow curls.

"Right," Robin's voice echoed hollowly. "He's here, I'll just scoop him up."

Mrs. Bandy charged forward, grabbed the moist bundle, and administered a resounding smack. Albert howled lustily. The door opposite slammed, and Avis rejoined Robin on the up-mounting stair. Only a nose-bleed, she whispered, but if he'd managed to crawl just 10 inches more? Deep water, she shuddered, he'd stumbled just in time.

"Of course, this must be the private lead-in to the children's tunnel," she ventured.

The question of Albert's getting trapped, more than possibly to his doom, hung heavily between them. Easy enough, Avis thought, for a small creeping form to wiggle past unperceived; but why had Maud opened this particular door? "The kid's okay, the whole gang's clearing out by the nine-ten." Robin lingered, rattling Maud's bunch of keys in his hand. With quick insight she said: "Want me to return those?"

"Would you? O, thanks."

She understood his recoil from this duty when she stole into Maud's bedroom, for the mistress of Turrets, completely dressed, sprawled snoring in an armchair!

The bedside lamp was on, shedding chill semi-radiance thru a scarf-dimmed shade. Peeping from the hem of the prune satin house-gown was a bottle, corked and with a small remnant of liquor showing lengthwise inside. Maud's handbag lay on the carpet, carelessly dumped down. Its clasp yawned, a few coins shone here and there 'round the long satin-shod feet. Softly Avis slipped the keys inside the bag.

Brrr...the soft whirr had gone off punctually at seven. Drowsily Avis silenced the prone clock, rewound it, deposited it again on its face.

At eight precisely, balancing a tea-tray, she was tapping with slight perturbation on Maud's door. She paused, and just then beheld an apparition, Maud's forbidding tweed-clad person was bearing down on her from the rear passage.

"O!" Gulping in stupefaction. "I never dreamed you'd be up," she stammered. "You weren't well last night, I felt you'd—"

"Stop in bed, Miss Marriott? I, as it happens, have been up and out for the past hour. When there is a duty to perform...You had something to say?"

"Just this, Miss Bolles. Mrs. Bandy has a hot fever again, in fact I phoned the doctor to see if he can't put his foot down on her making that long train journey today. He'll be here any minute, but I'm most awfully afraid she'll just slide out before——"

"Stupid woman! I must talk sense into her. Since you have made tea, I may as well drink it." Still standing, she poured a cup, swallowed it unsweetened, and set her course for the gloomy dungeon below, calling metallically, "Mrs. Bandy! Are you there?"

"Garn," announced the cook with relish. "Keb waiting, off she nipped, her and the children."

"Well, we'll call it good riddance. No, Miss Marriott, it is useless to run after them, they will be well started by now, but—stop! You might try to catch Dr. Bruce and prevent his making a visit for which I will be expected to pay."

are Mr. and Mrs. Calvin S. Durand, Mrs. Ambrose Cramer, Mrs. Hermon B. Butler, the Samuel T. Chases, Mrs. Ernest A. Hamill, Mrs. Hugh J. McBirney, Mrs. Louis E. Laflin, the Arthur Meekers, Russell Tyson, and Mrs. Robert G. McGann. T. Philip Swift is president of the club's board of governors. Calvin Fentress Jr. and Henry Rowley are in charge of music and entertainment. Guests have been urged to wear costumes of 50 years ago.

An annual Thanksgiving eve event is the gala cocktail party and dinner-dance which the Highland Park auxiliary of the Cradle will give at 6 o'clock this evening in the Electric club. This gathering will be smallest of today's parties due to the fact that only 350 guests can be accommodated in the tiny club atop the Civic Opera building. Mrs. George Reeves is chairman of the party, which will benefit the Cradle in Evanston

Engagement News

Mrs. Elzy A. Garard of Winnetka announces the engagement of her daughter, Virginia, to Edward Taylor Ives Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Ives of Detroit, Mich. Miss Garard was graduated from Miss Faulkner's School for Girls and attended the University of Chicago. She is a member of the Junior League of Chicago. Mr. Ives, a graduate of the University of Michigan, served in the naval reserve as a lieutenant. The wedding is planned for January.

Miss Garard's brother, Lt. Comdr. James L. Garard, now is on terminal leave from the navy. He and his wife and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Faithorn Elmes just have returned from a month's vacation at Sea Island, Ga.

Here and There

Dr. and Mrs. Frank A. Brawley have sold their Lake Shore dr. apartment and have moved to the Pearson hotel, which is to be their Chicago address.

The presence of their new grandson, Randolph Peters Bax, will make this Thanksgiving especially gay for Mr. and Mrs. Garret M. Bax of Lake Forest. The baby was born Oct. 16 in Purcell, Okla., and since then his parents, Lt. and Mrs. Edward Bax [Jean White], have returned to Chicago as Lt. Bax has been released from the navy. Young Mrs. Bax's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sanford B. White, will not be in on the holiday reunion tomorrow because they will be in the east until next week.

Following a visit of a few days here, Gen. Joseph Pierre Koenig, French army hero of the battle of Bir Hacheim in Africa in 1942, will leave today for Washington, D. C., to proceed tomorrow to Paris. Yesterday afternoon Mrs. Walter S. Brewster entertained at cocktails for Gen. Koenig, who served as military governor of Paris until he was put in charge of the French zone in Germany.

The Chicago Council on Foreign Relations will meet for luncheon at 12:15 p. m. today in the Gold room of the Congress hotel to hear Arnold Wolfers, master of Pierson college at Yale university, speak on "The Fall of Europe." Mr. Wolfers, who was born and educated in Switzerland, was one of the group which planned and conducted the Charlottesville school for military government during World War II.

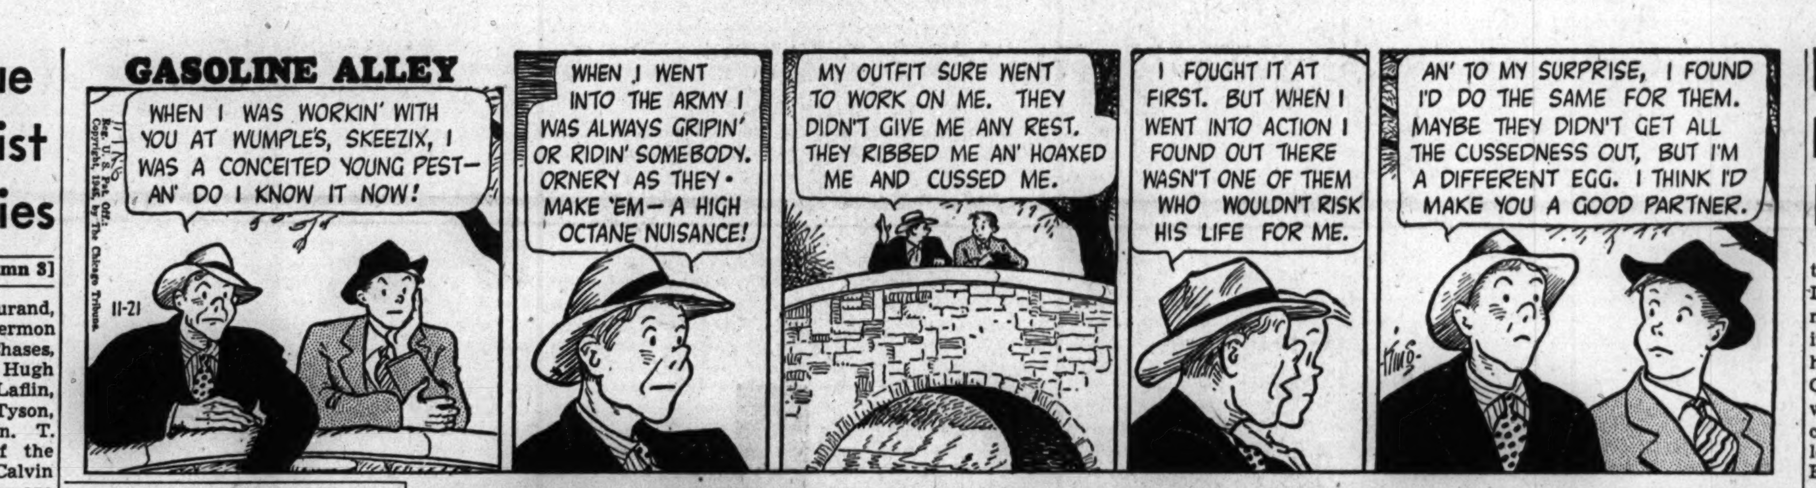
GASOLINE ALLEY



WINNIE WINKLE

Thru the Looking Glass

Lots of long-missed items are reappearing on the cosmetic counters, among them a popular little gadget to curl eyelashes. We know it has been sought by many women who depended on it for eye glamor, and here it is back again in an improved version.

The lash curler is all in its prewar dress of chrome finished steel with a rubber cushion, and it has the same efficient scissor handles tipped in bright, boudoir colors. The improvement over the pre-war model is in the opening for the lashes, which is wider and makes for greater ease of use.

If you aren't acquainted with the lash curler we can assure you it's a fine contrivance for glamorizing lashes. It gives naturally long lashes a beautifying, upward sweep and short lashes the illusion of length. But long or short, the upswept lashes provide a becoming frame for the eyes and make them appear larger.

There's no trick to using the eyelash curler and no heat or cosmetics is required with it, altho many women like to dress the lashes with cream or oil first. Simply slip the lashes between the rubber cushioned opening, close the handles, and hold the curler in position while you count to 25, longer if lashes are especially thick and straight. Release, and there you are with lashes that curl upward fetchingly.

Girls who wear glasses find the eyelash curler handy. It makes the lashes more noticeable and adds importance to the eyes themselves. And if lashes are so long they strike against the lens of the glasses, the curler helps keep them up and out of the way.

Recent political developments facing the Zionist movement, particularly as pertains to opening Palestine to Jewish refugees, will be studied by the assembly.

Miss Florence Donnersberger Is Bride Today

For her marriage at noon today to Corp. William Bowman Bangs III. of the army, Miss Florence Donnersberger will wear the handsome ivory satin Victorian gown in which her sister, Georgia, was married to Charles J. Cretors. The ceremony will take place in St. Patrick's church in West Lake Forest, followed by a wedding breakfast in the Exmoor Country club.

Miss Madeleine Hoffman will be the maid of honor. The bridesmaids will be Miss Joan Condon, Miss Jean Aiston, Miss Patricia Alger, and the bride's niece, Anita Donnersberger. The bridegroom's father, Mr. Bangs Jr., will serve as best man, and among the ushers will be Mr. Cretors. The bride is the youngest of the six daughters of Mr. and Mrs. George Donnersberger of Highland Park. Corp. Bangs, whose parents also live in Highland Park, will take his bride to Portland, Ore., where he will report for orders.

From Fredericksburg, Va., comes the announcement made by Mrs. James David Gourley of the marriage Nov. 6 of her daughter, Harriet Eliza, to John Ransart Ronan, son of Maj. and Mrs. Frank Joseph Ronan of Highland Park. The wedding took place in the First Methodist church in Fredericksburg. The bride attended the Mary Washington college of the University of Virginia. Mr. Ronan, who has been released from the marine corps, studied at Northwestern university. He and his bride will live in Highland Park.

The marriage of Miss Ann Conolly, daughter of Rear Adm. and Mrs. Richard Lansing Conolly of Washington, D. C., and La Jolla, Cal., to Ensign George Haring Hughey Jr. of the navy took place Oct. 27 in St. Alban's church in Washington. Ensign Hughey, son of Mrs. George H. Hughey of San Marino, Cal., and the late Capt. Hughey, has taken his bride on a Bermuda wedding trip before he reports to Bremerton, Wash., where they will live. The bride is a granddaughter of Mrs. Robert B. Conolly of Waukegan.

WHITE SOX SEND DICKSHOT TO HOLLYWOOD

BY ARCH WARD

MORE than 2,000 former Louisiana State university athletes were in military uniform between 1941 and 1944. . . . The town of Joel, Tex., was named for Joel Hunt, former football star at Texas A. & M. and later an assistant coach at L. S. U. . . . Paul [Pooch] Harrell, Indiana's chief football scout and head baseball coach will get his first glimpse of the 1945 Hoosiers in action, against Purdue in the final game of the campaign. . . . Harrell has been on scouting duty every Saturday this fall. . . . Altho Marquette university and St. Louis university have met on the gridiron 14 times since 1906, their Thanksgiving day duel in St. Louis will be their first since 1936, when they played a charity game in Chicago's Soldiers' field. . . . Maj. Arthur [Pete] Smith Jr., who was an athletic officer with the 3d army in Germany, has rejoined the Marquette staff as end coach. . . . Catalina Island is not going to be caught by surprise when the Cubs arrive next Feb. 21 after a three year absence. . . . Says the Catalina Islander, weekly newspaper: "Work has begun on the diamond, which for three years has been used as a parade ground for the United States maritime trainees. . . . All the maritime equipment, such as ship masts, halyards, lifeboat davits and gun turrets, have been removed from the east end of the field." . . . There is a rumor, unconfirmed but creditable, that Tony Cuccinello will move up into Muddy Ruel's place as coach of the White Sox. . . . A Greek, a German, an Englishman, and an Irishman made up Marquette's starting back field against Kansas.

E. C. [Ernie] Quigley, athletic director at Kansas university, could be called the All-American official. . . . He was a member of the National Baseball league umpiring staff from 1913 to 1937 and later served seven years as public relations director for the circuit. . . . He worked three Rose bowl games and five Harvard-Yale contests besides officiating in both football and basketball in the Big Six and Missouri Valley conferences. . . . Ben Raimondi, Indiana's forward passing sophomore quarter back, played at Brooklyn's Erasmus High school with Gene Rossides, current star of Lou Little's Columbia university eleven. . . . Dominic Di Maggio, in the South Pacific, has only 39 points toward a navy discharge. . . . Tom Leong and Harding Wong, members of the San Francisco Chinese Tennis club, won the army doubles title recently at Fort Shafter in Hawaii. . . . Tommy O'Boyle, star guard on Tulane's 1939 team, is out of the navy and back at his alma mater helping coach the line. . . . Only one member of the strong 1942 University of Wisconsin varsity and freshman football teams has been released from military service. . . . The reason is that almost 90 per cent of the boys entered marine officers training and still are with their units. . . . The Badgers, who expect practically all of them back next year, should be a factor in the 1946 Western conference race.

Gold Star

"I will return!" he said with laughing lips,
Then walked away—and suddenly was gone.
My being ached from toes to finger-tips
"I will return!" I hear that merry voice—
I see those sm'ling eyes, so bright and clear—
And thrill again to his kiss, sweet and choice,
And know that no one else was half so dear.
A million nights have gone since last we met,
A million nights—O how can I forget
When every one brings him once more to me?
Now in despair my heart will strain and yearn
In vain for one who said: "I will return!"

A TOUCHDOWN PAYS 7 POINTS FOR THE BEARS

Gudauskas' Toe Spells Difference

BY EDWARD PRELL

Pete [The Toe] Gudauskas, the Bears' guard from Georgetown, Ill., who has facial characteristics of the late Will Rogers and the homespun humor to further carry out the startling resemblance, is aiming for a perfect season in kicking points after touchdowns.

The big fellow may get a chance to slap more than a few over the cross-bar Sunday in Wrigley field when the Bears meet the Pittsburgh Steelers in their final home game of the season. If Pete's toe plays him no mean tricks he then will have only one more hurdle—the Dec. 2 game in Comiskey park against the Cardinals.

Joins Manders and Snyder

In putting his one point stamp on all the 19 Bear touchdowns this year, Gudauskas has joined Jack Manders and Bob Snyder to give the team an all-time unerring trio. Gudauskas hasn't approached the records set by Automatic Jack and the tobacco chewing Snyder, but only because the Bears of the last three seasons suffered in touchdown production.

Gudauskas first displayed his goal kicking ability as a Bear rookie in the 1943 College All-Star game when he broke a 21 to 21 tie late in the fourth quarter with a field goal. This year Pete has made one field goal in two attempts.

Sid Luckman has been making some spectacular statistical strides in the last three games. In this period he has completed 43 of 81 passes for 635 yards and eight touchdowns. Only one interception has marred his performance, whereas enemy players plucked six of his pitches in the preceding five games.

Sid Passes Sammy Baugh

Luckman's spurt has carried him ahead of the Redskin's Sammy Baugh as the all-around passing leader in the league. His 1945 record shows 96 bullseyes in 181 throws for 1,361 yards and 10 touchdowns. Baugh has completed the same number in only 137 tries, but the Texan throws a lot of short ones. Only two of Sammy's pegs have been intercepted.

Bob Margarita is another Bear who is making a fine record despite the team's worst won-and-lost record in its history. The boy from Brown is third among the ball carriers with 455 yards in 95 rushes.

Capt. George Wilson, despite a slow start due to a knee injury, is the leading Bear pass receiver and fourth in the league. He has caught 25 for 235 yards. Hutson is tops with 42 for 779 yards and nine touchdowns.

Expect Three Veterans Back

George McAfee and Joe Stydahar, pre-war Bear stars who are in the process of being discharged by the navy, are expected to report for today's practice in Wrigley field. McAfee, a lieutenant [j. g.], arrived in Chicago late yesterday from Washington in company with George Halas, the team's owner-coach. Bulldog Turner, the army private who is playing for the 2d air force eleven, also will be available Sunday against the Steelers, tho it is reported he is suffering from a knee injury.

Sunday's game has been moved up to 1:30 p. m.

'45 ACHIEVEMENT AWARD WILL GO TO BOO FERRISS

Wichita, Kas., Nov. 20 (AP)—Pitcher David [Boo] Ferriss of the Boston Red Sox was designated today to be awarded the national baseball congress' annual plaque for "achievement in 1945."

Ferriss, who got his start in baseball in the congress program, won eight consecutive games for Boston at the start of last season and finished with a record of 21 victories and 10 defeats.

Joe Di Maggio Plans Early Drill Routine

New York, Nov. 20 (AP)—Altho he has played only about one month of service baseball in the last two years and is approaching his 31st birthday, Joe Di Maggio expressed confidence today that he would be able to get back into top playing form next spring.

Joe Di Maggio

"It might take me a little longer than it used to," admitted the New York Yankee star. "I've been in the army since February, 1943, and that is a long time to be away from big league pitching. However, I'm going to get an early start down south this winter and I think I'll be ready for the opening game."

Salary Same or Higher

The tall outfielder was present at a press conference in the Yankees' offices, at which President Larry MacPhail said that both Di Maggio and Pitcher Spud Chandler had signed their 1946 contracts. Joe's salary was not disclosed, but it is believed to be either the same $42,000 he received before he entered the service or a slight increase.

He'll Go South Early

Di Maggio looked thin but fit and said he has recovered from stomach trouble which bothered him early in his army career. After a trip to San Francisco to check on business at his waterfront restaurant, Joe said he will go to St. Petersburg to begin his training program, probably early in January. That will give him a month's start on the rest of the Yankees, who will reach Florida on Feb. 10.

Notre Dame, Ind., Nov. 20 [Special]—Coach Hugh Devore today sent the Notre Dame eleven thru long offensive and defensive drills in preparation for Saturday's Tulane game in New Orleans.

The Irish coach said that Dick Cronin has been shifted from right to left end in an effort to fill the spot left vacant with the departure of Bob Skoglund for active duty with the navy. Cronin has been sharing right end with Bill Leonard, who Devore said will start at that position.

IVY LEAGUE NOW MADE OFFICIAL

Eight Eastern Schools in Football Group

New York, Nov. 20—(AP)—Athletic leaders of the eight eastern colleges, long known informally as the Ivy league, today saw little change resulting from a formal agreement among the college presidents governing football.

They were quick to point out that the agreement bringing Brown, Columbia, Cornell, Dartmouth, Harvard, Princeton, Pennsylvania and Yale on closer terms, should not be regarded as forming a new league.

"It merely formalizes the close association which has been in existence for a number of years," said William H. McCarter, Dartmouth athletic director. Ralph Furey of Columbia, Ogden Miller of Yale, Robert J. Kane of Cornell and Dr. E. Leroy Mercer, dean of the department of physical education at Pennsylvania, made similar comments.

Effective This Year

The agreement, announced today thru George A. Brakeley, vice president of Princeton university, is "for the purpose of continuing college football in such a way as to retain the value of the game when keeping it in fitting proportion to the fundamental purposes of academic life." It becomes effective at the end of the current football season.

To attain these objectives, the agreement calls for the formation of committees on eligibility and administration. It was indicated that faculty members probably will be chosen to rule on eligibility while the administrative problems will be placed in the hands of athletic directors.

No Athletic Scholarships

The agreement specifies that the one-year residence rule and the three year eligibility rule, generally suspended during the war will be reinstated; athletic scholarships are not permitted; athletes must remain in good academic standing according to the standards of their own institutions; football schedules shall not be arranged more than two years in advance, and teams shall not engage in post-season games or any contests designed to settle sectional or other championships.

Jenks Resigns as De Paul Academy Football Coach

PASSING HOLDS KEY TO INDIANA, PURDUE VICTOR

Bob De Moss Hurls Against 2 Rivals

BY WILFRID SMITH

The result of the Indiana-Purdue championship football game Saturday in Bloomington may hinge on the effectiveness of the two players who lead the Western conference in forward passing. Bob De Moss of Purdue leads all conference passers, who have made at least 50 attempts, and Ben Raimondi of Indiana is second.

De Moss' record for five games, the same number in which Raimondi has participated, is 37 completions in 65 attempts. These passes have gained 489 yards. Seven of De Moss' throws have been intercepted, however, while there are only two such debits on Raimondi's record. The Hoosier field general has completed 25 of his 51 forward passes and these have gained 391 yards.

Until Indiana met Iowa and Minnesota, which were overwhelmed, all the Hoosier touchdowns in conference play were scored by passes. Indiana defeated Michigan, 13 to 7, tied Northwestern in the fourth period, 7 to 7, and then defeated Illinois, 6 to 0. Here's complete evidence of the value of Indiana's passing. To Raimondi's performance, should be added the seven completions in 11 attempts by George Taliaferro.

Raimondi Throws from T

Raimondi throws from the T formation, which Indiana used for the first time against Michigan this year, while Taliaferro's tosses have been made from the tail back position of the single wing formation. Ted Kluszewski, Hoosier right end, has completed two passes in four attempts on end around plays while Bob Miller, half back, has one completion in two tries.

Indiana and Purdue practically are tied in number of pass receptions as far as the leaders in the conference are concerned but the Hoosiers have an advantage in that three men have been targets while Bill Canfield, Purdue's speedy left half back, has taken 18 forward passes for a total gain of 245 yards.

Indiana's leading receivers are Mel Groomes, right half back, seven passes, 134 yards; Dick Deranek, right half back, five passes, 162 yards, and Kluszewski, right end, five passes, 53 yards.

Cody Paces Boilermakers

Altho Pete Pihos of Indiana rates with the best as a defensive full back, he does not rank with Purdue's Ed Cody on attack. Cody leads the Boilermakers with 493 yards gained by 98 rushes in five conference games. He is supported by Canfield with a net gain of 325 yards for his 69 scrimmage plays.

Taliaferro is Indiana's best ball carrier and his record is a net gain of 437 yards for 79 rushes. Thus, Indiana's defensive problem involves Cody on line thrusts and Canfield on quick opening and wide plays. Purdue naturally will concentrate on Taliaferro.

Past Records Mean Little

Purdue thus has an overall advantage on attack over Indiana which is protected by a superior punting average. Canfield is the third most effective kicker in the conference with an average of 38.9 yards for 12 punts.

After perusal of statistics, however, the best system for any Indiana-Purdue game is to throw the records out of the window These rivals customarily prefer victory in this contest over any other and Purdue's ambition now is centered on preventing Indiana from winning its first conference title.

PETE GRAY, SENT TO TOLEDO, MAY NOT PLAY IN '46

Nanticoke, Pa., Nov. 20 (AP)—Pete Gray, who played with the St. Louis Browns last summer despite the handicap of having only one arm, expressed doubt tonight that he will return to baseball in 1946.

His release, announced today by the Browns, to Toledo of the American association was "kind of expected," Pete said last night.

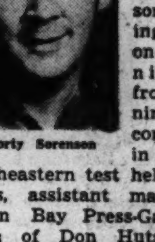
"The major league pitching sure is tough," aded Pete, who hit only .233 with the browns and never was able to win a regular playing berth altho he had been a star the previous year with Memphis of the Southern association.

As to going back to the minors, Pete said, "I have my mind set on what salary I want, and I doubt if Toledo will accept."

Ex-Champ of Wisconsin in Tenpin Meet

BY CHARLES BARTLETT

Green Bay, the home of football's Packers, will have an able representative in the fifth annual All-Star bowling tournament next month in the person of Clarence [Shorty] Sorenson. Shorty, making a great finish on the final night, ran off from the best in nine other Wisconsin counties in the inaugural northeastern test held by John Torinus, assistant manager of the Green Bay Press-Gazette, on the lanes of Don Hutson's Packers' establishment.



Shorty Sorensen

Sorensen is the first Wisconsin preliminary qualifier to make the grade in the big show which will be held the first nine days of December in the Auditorium Service Men's center under the sponsorship of Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., and the Bowling Proprietors' Association of America. Joining him later will be such Badger stars as Connie and Mel Schwoegler of Madison, Billy Sixty of Milwaukee, and three others to be determined in the forthcoming Milwaukee Journal trials.

Shorty's Been Around

The 35 year old Shorty is no new hand in the tenpin sport, having captured the state all-events championship in 1941. That was the same year he came to Green Bay from Sturgeon Bay to become manager of the then new plant which Hutson, the Packers' end, opened. It didn't take long for Sorenson to establish himself as one of Green Bay's leading major league scorers, and he's maintained the same pace ever since. Last season, he carried a 205 average in the North Side Major.

Shorty has an effortless style, particularly well adapted to heavy bowling. Torinus reports that he uses a short approach, throws a medium sharp-breaking hook, and finds the No. 10 pin his only worrisome spare target. His greatest fans are his wife and two daughters, Sonja, 7½, and Carol, 6. Mrs. Sorenson followed him thru every game of the Press-Gazette tournament.

Gets Better at Finish

Sorenson piled up 59.10 points on the Petersen system to defeat the other three finalists in the Green Bay meet. Following him were Rommy Frieder of Manitowoc, with 56.42 points, Walter Robilee of Appleton with 56.28 points, and Otto Wernecke of Manitowoc with 42.16. Shorty tumbled a fine aggregate of 887 pins in the last four games to insure his victory.

Army Doubts Athletes Get Special Favor

Washington, D. C., Nov. 20 (AP)—The war department said today it doubted if preferential treatment is being accorded big name athletes for demobilization in the Pacific, but it added that the matter will be investigated.

The army newspaper Stars and Stripes yesterday said editorially that demobilization of baseball, football, and other athletic stars with low point scores is undermining morale of service men.

"These men unquestionably are qualified for getting out under the proper procedure and no exceptions are being made, I feel sure," an officer in the personnel section said.

Athletes Can Have Reasons, Too

"Even athletes can have good reasons for getting out and it is unfortunate that persons of prominence are seized upon as receiving preferential treatment.

"We have tried very hard to avoid preferential handling of cases and such criticism as arises usually is based on incomplete information.

"The principal trouble is that so few persons understand the various ways that a man can qualify for discharge."

Mention 54 Players

The Stars and Stripes said that since the close of the football season in Honolulu, "instead of taking their place in the demobilization parade in routine fashion according to point totals, 54 players are scheduled to fly home to the states, some for reassignment and some for discharge." The AAF Hawaiian flyers won the championship.

The majority of these were not eligible for return home under current regulations, the paper said. It also asserted that early in November 37 army air force baseball players were flown home after playing exhibitions in the central Pacific.

SOUTH SIDERS RELEASE NAGEL TO MILWAUKEE

No Air Travel for A. L. in 1946

BY IRVING VAUGHAN

Johnny Dickshot, one of the major league's many fillers-in during the war when ivory was scarce, was officially restored to a peace time basis yesterday by the White Sox. The Waukegan lad who was brought up from the Hollywood club to help out while the boys were away, was returned whence he came, taking with him, however, a pleasing big league memento—a .303 batting average he fashioned while operating under the James Dykes banner last season.

Along with Dickshot, according to announcement by Vice President Harry Grabiner, who is walking out on his job Dec. 15, went Infielder Bill Nagel, but in a different direction. Nagel, who from the start didn't seem to strike the fancy of Mr. Dykes, was returned to Milwaukee's Brewers for whom he handled the third base job during 1944. Most of Nagel's work with the Sox the past season was as a first baseman whenever the opposition offered left handed pitching.

Grabiner Hints at Trade

Grabiner also admitted he thought the club might be able to make a trade during the meetings next month, the optimism probably springing from the fact that Lou Boudreau, the Cleveland manager, has already spoken in favor of dealing with Dykes. The Indians hope to get rid of Fly-Chaser Jeff Heath and Dykes always has favored the athlete because of his hitting power. Dykes will arrive from California Nov. 29 and go east for a few days before turning up at the minor league carnival in Columbus, O., Dec. 5, 6, and 7.

John Dickshot Bill Nagel

The major league baseball teams, literally speaking, are going to keep their feet on the ground during the 1946 season and possibly longer. In reply to reports that a majority of the clubs already had signed up for air travel next season, Will Harridge, American league president, yesterday revealed that a canvass of his circuit showed none of the eight members was planning to send their athletes aloft.

Harridge Makes It Official

And it is not fear that some valuable ivory might be cracked, but a feeling that it would be nothing short of treason to desert the railroads after the assistance rendered during the war. Without the railroads' coöperation the big leagues would have been forced to give up.

The National league, while it has not made any formal statement, is said to be equally appreciative of the way in which its teams were moved from here to there and back without missing a date.

"American league clubs definitely will not use airplanes to meet their 1946 schedule," said Harridge. "Several clubs have arranged with airline companies for issuance of credit cards, as have numerous other business organizations, but these cards in every instance are for emergency causes of individual travel, not for teams as a whole.

Praises Railways' Help

"The American league appreciates very much the services and considerations shown by the railroads, not only thru the four wartime seasons but for the almost half century of the league's existence. In fairness to the railroads the clubs in the American league have assured me they will continue to use the railroads for the transportation of their personnel."

It is a long way to April but the Cubs are already accepting mail orders for their Wrigley field opener. It will be with the St. Louis Cardinals April 20.

STRIKE!

BARNUM PLANS CAMPAIGN FOR WELTER TITLE

Joey Has Outgrown 135 Pound Class

BY FRANK MASTRO

Joey Barnum, one of the country's outstanding boxers at his weight, has withdrawn his challenge for a lightweight championship bout with Ike Williams it was disclosed yesterday as he engaged in his semi-final boxing drill in C. Y. O. center gymnasium for a 10 round return bout with Willie Joyce in Chicago Stadium Friday night.

Promoters Irving Schoenwald and Jack Begun had promised the winner of the match a chance at Williams' National Boxing association title, in a proposed contest in the Stadium in January, but Tony zolo, Barnum's manager, said Joey is not interested in such a match because he no longer can make the required weight.

He'll Weigh 139 for Joyce

Instead Barnum, whose home is in Los Angeles, will be aiming for a match with Beau Jack, former New York recognized lightweight title holder, who is preparing for a comeback as a welterweight after his release from the army.

Barnum weighed 139½ pounds when he fought Joyce to a draw in a previous meeting in the west side arena last month. He carried 140 yesterday when he sparred three rounds with Butch Maxwell, Gary junior lightweight, and his weight for Friday's bout will be 139, his manager said.

Joyce Works Out

However, Joyce remains a legitimate lightweight and will demand the chance at Williams if he beats Barnum.

Joyce also sparred in C. Y. O. center yesterday, going two rounds with Stanley Berg.

One hundred forty-six boxers have been ordered to report in C. Y. O. center this evening for physical examinations. Those who are passed by the doctors will qualify for the 15th Catholic Youth organization tournament, which opens in C. Y. O. center next Monday. It will be the second medical test conducted by the C. Y. O. staff of physicians, 143 passing the first examination last week.

Michigan to Snub Turkey for Football

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 20 [Special]—Michigan's gridiron team will concentrate on football rather than turkey Thanksgiving day as Coach Fritz Crisler takes advantage of the holiday for an extra long workout prior to Saturday's Ohio State game here.

Crisler has called only one practice for Thursday but will profit by being able to call his charges together as early as 2:30 p. m.

Full Back Jack Weisenburger's chances of playing Saturday became doubtful today when X-ray pictures disclosed a possible fracture of the breast bone. Weisenburger was hurt in last week's Purdue game. George Chiames and Jim Foltz shared his position in practice today.

The Wolverines will concentrate on defensive plans aimed at stopping a Buckeye back field which Crisler describes as "15 to 20 per cent better than the one that beat us, 18 to 14, in the championship game last year."

BUCKEYES PUSH OFFENSE

Stan Stasica May Play in Wildcat Game

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 20 [Special]—The Illini today were declared ready for Northwestern Saturday with the hope of salvaging some glory out of this season with a victory over the rival Wildcats. Coach Ray Eliot today barred the gates of Memorial field as he sent the team thru a long, hard, secret offensive drill.

Dr. Erwin Beach, team physician, announced that Tackle Lou Agase was lost for Saturday's game, but there was a possibility Half Back Stan Stasica, whose injured shoulder is responding to treatments, might play.

WALDORF STRESSES DEFENSE

Coach Lynn Waldorf yesterday warned the Northwestern football team that any tendency to underestimate Illinois' ability may prove disastrous Saturday in the season's final game in Dyche stadium. Northwestern scouts regard Illinois as much stronger that its record indicates. A defensive drill yesterday lent further credence to the fact that the Purple coaching staff has the utmost respect for the potential strength of the Orange and Blue.

While a number of players are still bruised from last week's Notre Dame game, the Wildcats expect to be at full strength with the exception of two reserve backs, John Barron, quarter back, and Bill Hunt, half back. The former sustained a broken bone in his right leg Saturday while Hunt suffered a foot injury in last Friday's workout.

APPOINT PLATH HILLTOPPERS' GAME CAPTAIN

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 20 [Special]—Karl Plath, forward passing quarter back, in his second season on the Marquette university squad, today was named by Coach Tom E. Stidham as the Hilltoppers' game captain in their Thanksgiving day final game with St. Louis university in St. Louis.

The Marquette squad today completed its preparations for the St. Louis battle, working lightly on defense and going thru an offensive review. It is scheduled to leave for St. Louis tomorrow morning.

Esser to Lead Badger Eleven in Final Game

Madison, Wis., Nov. 20 [Special]—Clarence Esser, brilliant University of Wisconsin right tackle, has been selected by Coach Harry Stuhldreher to act as captain of the Badgers when they close their 1945 season against the University of Minnesota in Minneapolis Saturday. Esser has been acting captain of the Badgers twice before this season.

The Badgers also had the help of a former star in the preparations for the Gopher game in Eddie Jankowski, former full back here and for the Green Bay Packers and the Iowa Pre-flight team. Jankowski played under the Minnesota coach, Bernie Bierman, while at the Pre-flight school, and he is helping the Wisconsin eleven prepare for the final contest.

Hanley Replaces Thompson

The Badgers went thru another spirited drill despite the cold and appeared in good shape. Only one change has appeared thus far in the lineup with Bob Hanley replacing Jim Thompson at left end, where the former appears the starter against the Gophers.

RALLY ROUND GOPHERS

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 20 [Special]—As the Minnesota football team nears the end of one of the worst seasons in history, with a defeat by Wisconsin likely Saturday, an open letter by 11 Minneapolis high school coaches was sent to the university athletic department today pledging support to the Gophers.

In that letter the coaches said they appreciated the present lack of the type of material that Bernie Bierman and his assistants have had to work with in the past. They said they will coöperate in encouraging Minneapolis High school football players to enroll at Minnesota.

TROJANOWSKI'S 132 POINTS GIVE HIM SCORING TOP

New York, Nov. 20 (AP)—Walter Trojanowski, the University of Connecticut's star half back, today had the nation's individual football scoring championship virtually clinched with a total of 132 points.

Only Army's touchdown twins, Glenn Davis and Felix [Doc] Blanchard, had a remote chance of overhauling the 28 year old former GI. Davis and Blanchard have racked up 96 points apiece and have only the Navy contest Dec. 1 in which to make up the 36 points difference. Davis was the nation's top scorer last year with 120 points.

HAWKS SEEKING THIRD STRAIGHT OVER NEW YORK

BY EDWARD BURNS

The New York Rangers, who lost to the Blackhawks in the Chicago season opener, 5 to 1, and looked much better in losing by only 5 to 4, in the New York opener, in which the Hawks also participated, will be the guests of Johnny Gottselig's boys in Chicago Stadium tomorrow night. Thus, the Rangers will be the second team to pay its second visit to Chicago before the Montreal Canadiens or the Boston Bruins have shown up once. The Toronto Maple Leafs have been here twice, losing on both occasions.

Before the season started, the Rangers had expected to be a high scoring team. They clung to this thought even after the Hawks had whipped them in three exhibition games in Winnipeg and in the season opener in the Stadium, but subsequent happenings caused them to change from their wide open style of play.

May Mean Trouble for Hawks

The Hawks, in their last two games, were smothered by defensive hockey after the Detroit Red Wings had come from behind to take and keep leads in their two games with the Chicagoans. So they have had some training in what to expect tomorrow night.

The drill yesterday was designed to circumvent the Rangers' changed plan, with schemes to break loose Max Bentley and other high scorers among the Hawks.

Mac Colville Returnig

The famous line of the Colville brothers and Alex Shibicky soon is to be restored, Mac Colville having just been released from the Canadian army.

At their practice yesterday the Blackhawks had a spectator whom they consider a very fine young man, but whose presence gave them pangs of consternation. Frankie Brimsek, one of the finest goalies in National league history, showed up on his way to join the Boston team.

This great Kentucky Bourbon is STRAIGHT in every sense of the word

"Straight" well describes Old Poindexter. It's straight in identity, character and quality—from selection of materials (40% small grains) to the last full day of mellowing.

Old Poindexter is distilled by a straight process—no short cuts, no deviations, no omissions. Old Poindexter is all whisky.

There's never been much Old Poindexter in the market. The production is small. But men who know and appreciate this great Kentucky Straight Bourbon Whisky will find a little in a few of the best places.

ST. GEORGE HIGH PLANS DEC. 18-22 BASKET TOURNEY

U. of C. Meet Is Set for Christmas Week

BY DAVID CONDON

The St. George High school pre-season invitational basketball tournament for Catholic high school senior teams will open in Evanston Dec. 18, and will continue thru Dec. 22, it was announced last night by Max Burnell, Dragons' athletic director. Burnell said invitations would be extended to more than 16 teams. St. Patrick's is the defending champion.

The Evanston tournament precedes two other holiday basket meets, one for public school senior quintets and the other for Catholic high school junior teams.

Fenwick Plans Tourney

Starting either Dec. 24 or Dec. 26, pending the number of entries, City league senior teams will present a preview of the 1946 title race when they compete in the annual University of Chicago tournament in the Maroon fieldhouse. This tournament, originally started by Amos A. Stagg, was resumed last year after being abandoned due to war time conditions. Senn won last year's meet.

Weber High school will be defending its junior title when Catholic schools compete in Fenwick High school's annual invitational meet in Oak Park, Dec. 26-30. Athletic Director Tony Lawless said Fenwick will play host to 15 other schools.

The Thornton of Harvey football team, which finished the season without a victory, has named 18 lettermen. . . . Winning their "T" for the second time are Elvin Brown, Bill Dennis, Gerald Jacobs, Dave Koss, and Ed Ring. . . . Other lettermen are Bob Anderson, Barry Boyers, George Burdette, John Dryja, Joe Furmanek, Curt Hanes, Marvin Heater, Vernon Hentsch, Chuck Ireland, Vic Krygowski, Don Rasmussen, Jerry Wujastyk, and Chuck Ziebell.

Senn students have been commended for their behavior at games during the football season. . . . That's good news at a time when many students have been accused of misconduct and aroused criticism from public officials. . . . The Bulldogs expect great things next season from Mitch Kietzman, a junior who has a fine record as a runner, signal caller, and blocker. . . . For the first time in several years, girl swimmers at Senn will have a chance to win a monogram, provided they compile the 500 points required.

Bob Weidlin, who assisted with football drills at St. George, was a Nazi prisoner captured in the battle of the bulge. . . . The Harvard, Ill., football team has three football players it thinks should win all-state mention, Gene Ritter, half back, Frosty Thys, tackle, and Gene Burton, center. . . . Dan Horne is coach. . . . Pete Pantazopolous, voted the most valuable player on the Amundsen baseball team last season, still is receiving offers from major league teams. . . . He wants to finish school first. . . . Floyd E. [Joe] Wrobke, Proviso's baseball coach, played in the Three Eye league and Southern association.

CANFIELD, CLINE TIED FOR BIG 9 SCORING CROWN

Western conference leadership in departments of individual play will be settled Saturday as Big Nine football teams close their 1945 seasons.

The closest race has developed in scoring, with Bill Canfield of Purdue and Ollie Cline of Ohio State currently tied with 36 points each. Purdue's Ed Cody and George Taliaferro of Indiana each have 30 points and Dick Conners of Northwestern follows with 24. Tommy Cates of Minnesota holds a slight margin in rushing among ball carriers with 50 or more tries, with an average gain of 5.5 yards. He is threatened by Connors, who has a current average of 5.1; Cody, with 5.0, and Taliaferro, with 4.9.

Jerry Niles of Iowa ended his conference season last week with a total passing gain in six games of 528 yards. Bob DeMoss of Purdue may top that mark, holding a current total of 489 yards, and Indiana's Ben Raimondi can do the same, his present yardage being 391. DeMoss stands alone in the completion average with a mark of .569.

Errie Ball Is Named New Oak Park Pro

Errie Ball last night was appointed pro at the Oak Park Country club. Ball, a native of England, who has been stationed at the Glen View Naval Air station, succeeds Eddie Bush, who recently resigned.

Errie Ball

Ball comes to the Oak Park assignment with one of the oldest family backgrounds in golf. His grandfather, John Ball, was the 1890 British Open championship. His father, W. H. Ball, is a veteran professional and his uncle, Frank, served as professional at Atlanta's famous Eastlake course. After coming to this country from Lancaster, England, in 1930 Ball went to Eastlake as assistant, where he attracted the attention of one of the members, Robert T. Jones Jr.

Won P. G. A. Title Twice

Errie then went on to become professional at the Mobile, Ala., Country club. He then spent seven years as pro at the Farmington club in Charlottesville, Va., before entering the navy.

Ball made his first competitive mark in this country in 1932 when he won the southeastern P. G. A. title from a strong field, repeating in 1936. He won the Atlanta open in 1932.

Directorate Holds First Meeting

Last night's appointment was announced in the first formal meeting of the season for Oak Park's new directorate. This includes Helmer A. Melum, president; G. Herbert Shorney, vice president; Thomas G. Johnson, treasurer, and Moore M. Peregrine, secretary. Members of the board of governors are Fred D. Pellett, Thomas B. Conlon, and Walter R. Leininger.

LEAHY RETURNS TO NOTRE DAME; PRAISES DEVORE

Notre Dame, Ind., Nov. 20 [Special]—Frank W. Leahy, head football coach and athletic director of the University of Notre Dame, returned to the campus today after receiving a discharge from the navy and declared he will not resume his coaching duties until the end of the football season.

Leahy praised the 1945 Notre Dame football team as a product of the excellent coaching of Hugh Devore and his assistants.

"It is their ball club," said Leahy, "and I feel there is nothing I can contribute that has not already been done by the present coaching staff. If, however, Hughie feels there is anything I can do to assist, I will be very happy to do so."

71,000 JOBS OPEN AS 99,000 DRAW UNEMPLOYED AID

BY ORVILLE DWYER

Almost 99,000 men and women are drawing unemployment compensation in Illinois while 71,000 jobs go begging, Samuel C. Bernstein, state commissioner of placement and unemployment compensation, announced yesterday.

He said approximately 68 per cent, or 48,200, of the jobs listed are for men, the remaining 22,800 for women. Of the 98,767 workers drawing unemployment benefits, 38 per cent, or 37,300, are men while the remaining 62 per cent, or 61,467, are women.

Bernstein said the average unemployment payment is $18.50 a week, and the total weekly payment is approximately $1,800,000. Each individual may stay on the rolls for 26 weeks if lacking a job that long.

Refuse Lower Pay Jobs

In fairness to the workers taking benefits while jobs are available, Bernstein and his statistician, Abraham Ardenoff, said many of the workers don't fit the jobs. They also added, however, that many of the workers won't take the available jobs because of lower pay rates than the high war time wages such men and women were used to. Ardenoff represented Charles P. Casey, state director of the United States emploment service, at the joint press conference.

One of the most startling contrasts between job openings and applicants for unemployment compensation was ir the Waukegan area. Here, it was pointed out, 3,593 jobs are listed at the USES office, yet there are 477 men and women demanding unemployment pay. The open jobs are almost equally divided between men's and women's, 56 per cent being for men.

More Benefits Than Job Listings

In the Chicago area 64,701 are drawing unemployment benefits while 41,891 unfilled jobs are listed, 63 per cent of them for men. Of the claimants in this area, 90 per cent formerly were employed in manufacturing industries, with 32 per cent of them in aircraft, 21 per cent in electrical work, and 10 per cent in ordnance.

But of the unfilled jobs listed in the Chicago area, only 53 per cent are for the manufacturing industries, with food, iron and steel, textiles, printing and publishing, and nonelectrical machinery presenting the biggest demands. Trade and service activities, including wholesale and retail establishments, hotels, restaurants, beauty shops, and bowling alleys, are demanding help. Trade activities account for 19 per cent of the local demand; the service industries, 13 per cent.

Factory Job Openings Reduced

An example of the gap between the jobs open and those on unemployment relief was seen in the fact that 87 per cent of those getting compensation formerly were in manufacturing industries while these industries now present only 55 per cent of the open jobs.

Bernstein said unemployment compensation claims reached a peak the week of Oct. 6. Of 284,720 who filed claims between V-J day, Aug. 14, and Nov. 2, 144,367 since have dropped them, leaving 140,353 claimants, of whom 98,767 actually are drawing compensation.

U. S. GRANTS CITY 500 DWELLINGS FOR VETERANS

The city's application for 500 portable houses has been approved by the national housing authority, a telegram from Washington, D. C., informed Ald. Lindell [9th], chairman of the council committee on housing, yesterday. The message added that the dwelling units will come from the Seneca shipyard district.

The regional office of the NHA in Chicago will issue the units shortly. Authorities of the agency in Washington are considering applications from the city for more dwellings and trailer units, the telegram said. Quick action was pledged.

The city council Monday voted to transfer 1 million dollars from unused city funds for acquisition of temporary dwelling units to relieve a critical housing shortage among returning veterans. Lindell emphasized that only veterans who formerly were residents of Chicago will be eligible to rent the trailers and sectional houses.

On the west coast, 17 vessels, mostly navy destroyers, with about 1,500 service personnel are due at San Diego, Cal.; two with more than 6,300 at Seattle, Wash., and one with 1,322 at Tacoma, Wash.

REPORT MURDER CHARGE VOTED FOR WEISBERG

Julius [Dollie] Weisberg, 49, former Rush st. speakeasy operator, was reported named by the grand jury yesterday in a true bill charging him with murder in the fatal shooting Oct. 23 of Joseph W. McKnight, 46, Evanston automobile salesman, in the Regent room tavern at 1 N. La Salle st.

STOCK AVERAGE AT 14 YEAR TOP ON LATE RALLY

Volume Increases, Trade Is Broad

MARKET HOLIDAY
All markets and banks will be closed tomorrow for the Thanksgiving day holiday.

New York, Nov. 20 (AP)—Strength of specialties today spread to other parts of the stock market in the final hour and prices closed higher. Gains of fractions to more than 2 points for rails, steels, coppers, sugars, amusements, and assorted industrials helped put the general average at a 14 year peak.

Irregularity prevailed from the opening until the last hour with motors still struggling against threats of an imminent strike in the automotive field. This section, however, rallied with the remainder of the list altho Chrysler was off ⅛ at the finish. General Motors rose ⅛. Top marks were trimmed in the last few minutes and scattered losses appeared.

Again it was a case of idle cash seeking employment in the face of inflation potentialities. Good dividends and earnings aided individual favorites.

Many Traders Stand Aside

Despite the late buying increase many customers held aloof to await outcome of labor disputes and a technical correction which some analysts believed was overdue.

Dealings, slow at intervals, speeded up on the recovery. Of the 2,180,000 share volume, 850,000 were traded in the last hour. Sales yesterday totaled 2,020,000.

The Associated Press 60 stock average was up 0.5 point at 75.8, the top level since April 14, 1931. The rails touched a high since March 17, 1937, and the industrials a peak since Aug. 16, 1937. Of 999 issues traded, 543 advanced and 275 declined.

RAIL BONDS RISE

New York, Nov. 20 (AP)—Railroad bonds pulled up with several gains of 1 to 2 points in an otherwise quiet market today. Trading expanded in the final hour, putting sales at $11,090,000, the largest total since last August. It compared with $7,360,000 yesterday. The Associated Press average of 20 rail bonds set a new high at 102.5, up 0.3 point. United States government issues were quiet but steady. Chilean bonds rallied 1 to 2 points, but other foreign dollar loans were uneven.

CHICAGO LIST GAINS

Prices closed higher in reduced turnover of 48,000 shares yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange. Volume leaders included Katz Drug, up 1½ to set a 1945 peak of 16, and Asbestos Manufacturing, Chicago corporation, and Admiral, each up ⅛.

ICC LIMITS RAIL FRATE CAR RATES FOR NEW AUTOS

Washington, D. C., Nov. 20 (AP)—The interstate commerce commission today limited railroad rates on carload shipments of new automobiles to a maximum of 85 per cent of corresponding first class rates, effective Jan. 24, 1946.

Present rates average from 30 to 100 per cent of the first class category, and below 85 per cent from Detroit to 19 states. Carriers charging above 85 per cent will have to reduce their rates.

The commission last February set the maximum rate at 75 per cent of first class rates, but later postponed the effective date of the order. The railroads have contended that the February order would result in revenue reductions of more than $1,300,000 annually in the west and more than $500,000 in the south.

Standard Gas Wins SEC Approval of Proxy Plan

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 20 (AP)—The securities and exchange commission today approved a proposal of Standard Gas and Electric company to solicit proxies from holders of notes, debentures, and preferred stock for the election of directors. The SEC denied a security holder's request for oral argument on the solicitation.

Strikes Keep 5,274 Idle in 17 Companies

In addition to the estimated 15,000 employes of the Illinois Bell Telephone company who were on strike thruout Illinois, 5,274 employes of 17 Chicago employers also were kept away from work by strikes which continued yesterday.

Strikes which started Monday and continued yesterday were: Illinois Gear and Machine company, 2108 N. Natchez av.; the D. O. James Manufacturing company, 1140 Monroe st.; three plants of Foote Bros. Gear and Machine corporation at 5301 S. Western av., 4545 S. Western av., and at 36th st. and Racine av.; W. A. Cemetery Workers Still Out

Miles E. Barry, secretary-treasurer of local 106, of the cemetery workers union of the Building Service Employes International union [AFL], said 16 members remained on strike at St. Casimir's Lithuanian cemetery, 11100 Pulaski rd.

The union called the strike there Nov. 9 to obtain a union contract, increased wages for the cemetery workers, and seniority, Barry said.

The 20th body was put into the vault at the cemetery because the strike has prevented burials, Barry said.

An unofficial spokesman for the cemetery said the vault was now filled to capacity and that other arrangements must be made if other funerals are scheduled to the cemetery before the strike ends.

Each Picket to Get Turkey, $25

Barry announced he would give a 12 pound turkey this afternoon and $25 as strike benefits to each striker who has walked the picket line at the cemetery gates since Nov. 16. None of the 16 strikers has paid any dues to the union, Barry said. They will not be required to pay until the cemetery signs a union contract, he said.

Employes of the Johnson Motors division of the Outboard Marine and Manufacturing company in Waukegan voted a strike yesterday in a national labor relations board supervised election. The employes, members of the independent Marine and Machinists' union, are seeking a 15 per cent wage increase. The company has offered 10 per cent.

The Chicago Paper and Box Workers' union [AFL], local 415, won a national labor relations board election yesterday at the Ajax Box company, 2210 Union av. The AFL union defeated local 208 of the CIO International Longshoremen's union by a vote of 23 to 18.

GIVES BONUSES RANGING UP TO 4 MONTHS' PAY

Thomson & McKinnon, securities and commodities firm, yesterday gave employes cash bonuses ranging from four months' pay for 15 or more years of service to one-twelfth of a month's pay for each month of service for employes with less than a year's work.

BOND TO PAY $750,000

Rochester, N. Y., Nov. 20 (AP) — Bond Stores, Inc., today announced a year end wage bonus totaling $750,000 for 6,500 manufacturing and retail store employes. Barney S. Ruben, president, said individual bonuses would equal 2 to 4 per cent of annual pay.

Consumption of Iron Ore Smaller During October

Cleveland, O., Nov. 20 (AP)—October consumption of Lake Superior iron ore dropped to 4,491,246 gross tons from 7,319,948 tons a year ago. the Lake Superior Iron Ore association reported today.

B. & O. DEFERRED DEBT MATURITY PLAN WINS APPROVAL OF COURT

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 20 (AP)—The Baltimore and Ohio railroad's 500 million dollar debt adjustment plan, said by railroad officials to be the largest refinancing operation of its type in railroad history, was approved today by a special three judge federal court.

The plan affects eight classes of security holders. Its principal purpose is to postpone the debt maturities 20 to 50 years. Altho the interest rates were not changed, about one-third of the total annual fixed charges of 27 million dollars was made contingent on the sufficiency of current annual net income. Deferred payments, however, would be cumulative.

The court's opinion, reached after two months of deliberation, was written by District Judge W. Calvin Chesnut and concurred in by Judges Armistead M. Dobie and Morris A. Soper of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals. Two minor modifications were made by the court.

View Outlook for Building as Improved

BY AL CHASE

Chicago home builders were advised last night that the present handicaps of labor and material scarcities gradually are being overcome and that beginning next spring and continuing thru 1946 construction will be accelerated steadily.

Lumber dealers, brick manufacturers, plumbing concerns, steel men, gypsum makers, and heating and ventilating experts outlined their 1946 production prospects at a dinner meeting of the Chicago Metropolitan Home Builders association in the Stevens hotel.

Expect More Materials

All admitted that present building problems were difficult but all predicted that materials would increase steadily and said building labor conditions were improving.

Arthur Fossier, president of the Home Builders association, who presided, reported that in a survey just completed by his organization 75 per cent of the contractors said that under present conditions work is so slow that 6 months are required to complete a building unit that normally would be finished in 60 to 120 days. Thirty per cent said the delay was caused by lack of adequate labor supply; 29 per cent said it was lack of materials, and 41 per cent said it was a combination of the two.

Views of Producers

John Goodridge, president of the Illinois Brick company, told the builders that by next spring Chicago plants would be producing enough brick to care for the demand as it now exists, but not for two or three times the present volume of building.

Lumber will continue to be scarce for 60 to 90 days said P. J. Willis of the Berwyn Lumber company. James F. Mahoney of the Hines Lumber company predicted that by February or March the fir industry would get back into peak production.

The gypsum industry will meet all requirements of builders in 1946 if certain materials and labor are available, said Henry J. Schweim, secretary of the Gypsum Industry association. Bath tubs and plumbing of all kinds are coming into production in increasing quantities, Hal H. Bergdahl, manager of dealer sales for the Crane company, reported. The situation in interior finish will improve in the late spring or early summer, said Garrett Yonker of the Illinois Interior Finish company.

Renegotiation Act Is Tested in Suit by Mill

Shelby, N. C., Nov. 20 [Special]—A suit to test the validity of the war profits renegotiation act has been started in United States District court in a dispute over 1941 government contracts for military uniforms. The government is the plaintiff in the action, said to be the first of its kind. Spindale Mills, Inc., Spindale, N. C., is the defendant.

The government complaint alleges that in the fiscal year ended Sept. 26, 1942, Spindale realized excess profits of $20,000 on contracts and subcontracts subject to renegotiation. Allowing for a tax credit of $12,705, the government claim is for the balance of $7,295.

Specific Data Requested

The company replied with a motion for a bill of particulars to compel the government to provide the specific bases of the complaint. It asserted that repeated verbal and written requests for information from the army price adjustment board and government officials were either "ignored or denied" while the excess profits were being computed.

Spindale also insisted that none of its representatives, including its Washington counsel, knew what contracts or subcontracts actually were considered in the renegotiation proceedings, nor what amounts of profit, if any, were allocated to each contract.

The government was asked to provide this information and state what rate of profit was determined to be reasonable, and what items of costs of production were allowed against gross income from sales under the contracts.

Considered Test Case

"This suit is the first of this character which has been instituted by the plaintiff and it very probably will develop into a test case," said the company's answer. "The defendant [Spindale] is perfectly willing that it may become such.

The dispute, now awaiting a ruling on the request for a bill of particulars, at various times has drawn the attention of Sen. McKellar [D., Tenn.] Secretary of War Patterson, and other government officials.

In 1943 McKellar pointed out that Spindale Mills was asked by the army for a refund of profits, but Cherokee Spinning company, reporting the same profit on navy work, was not asked for a refund.

Both companies are under the same management. A. G. Heinsohn Jr., president of Cherokee and manager of Spindale, said both companies wove twills for army, navy, and marine corps uniforms and in each case the profit amounted to 8.36 per cent of sales before taxes.

FANSTEEL PLANS STOCK BOOST TO BUY PREFERRED

Stockholders of Fansteel Metallurgical corporation, North Chicago, will vote at a special meeting in New York Dec. 6 on a proposal to increase the common stock from 260,000 to 750,000 shares, the company disclosed yesterday in a proxy statement.

If approved, the company will offer 52,000 shares to present stockholders on the basis of one for each five held. The price will be determined by the directors.

Estimated proceeds of more than 2 million dollars will be used to replenish general funds and redeem the 6,292 outstanding shares of $5 no par preferred stock at an aggregate cost of $648,076.

End Curb on Coal Traffic to Lower Lakes Region

Washington, D. C., Nov. 20 (AP)—The solid fuels administration today authorized the resumption of shipments of bituminous coal produced in southern Appalachian district No. 8 to the lower Great Lakes. Such shipments were halted Oct 24 to rush as much coal as possible to the upper Great Lakes region.

DECEMBER RYE REACTS AFTER 4¾ CENT GAIN

Oats Weak; Wheat Futures Strong

December rye rose 4¾ cents a bushel early yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade, but reacted to close ⅝ lower. Coming on top of Saturday's and Monday's 5 cent advances, the contract reached $1.96¾, a new 25 year high and 94¾ cents above its seasonal low.

Other rye futures closed unchanged to ⅝ cent lower, weakening with oats which fell ⅞ to 1¾ following reports that 500,000 bushels of northwestern cash oats had been bought for shipment to Chicago at equal to 4 cents a bushel over December for No. 2 extra heavy white grain. Including elevator charges, this would equal their premium delivery price on future contracts. Wheat was strong with December and May at the ceiling price of $1.80½. The distant wheat futures rose ⅝ to 1⅛, barley was ½ higher to ½ lower, and all corn futures closed unchanged at the ceiling.

Winnipeg Rye Rises 5 Cents

Trading in rye futures was not large, brokers said, and rapid price changes resulted on relatively small orders. Cash rye prices continued upward with sales late Monday at $1.97 to $2 a bushel, or 5 to 8 cents above December. Altho the price is the fourth highest in the 100 year history of the Board of Trade, it is far below the record of $2.95 paid in March, 1918.

Winnipeg rye futures advanced 5 cents, the daily limit, regarded as in part a readjustment of the price difference between that market and Chicago. Fluctuations had been limited to 1 cent a day for a week, during which the Chicago price rose more than 12 cents.

Little Trading in Corn

Little trading was done in corn futures. Offerings were restricted by talk of a possible advance in the ceiling price coincident with announcement of the government loan on the 1945 crop. Purchases of 100,000 bushels of cash corn were made for deferred shipment from the country.

Cash interests bought May wheat, putting that delivery up ¼ cent to the ceiling price of $1.80½. There was some buying of May against sales of the deferred futures, presumably to change over hedges.

SUPPLY OF HOGS MOUNTS TO PEAK SINCE JANUARY

Hog receipts were the largest since Jan. 9 at the Chicago stock yards yesterday, but no indication was given that the tightness in pork and hog supplies had been eased in the least by the heavier movement from farms. Buyers continued to bid for numbers instead of quality, paying ceiling prices.

The supply of 27,000 hogs, including shipments direct to packers, was 7 per cent larger than a week earlier. The Tuesday run six weeks ago was only 7,048. The decline from a year ago was narrowed to 13 per cent. In contrast to hogs, the cattle supply shrank again to 6,500 head, the smallest Tuesday total in 14 weeks. Most prices were firm. The lamb market rose 15 to 25 cents to the highest level this month.

New Method Improves Tires; War Oils Aid Car Operations

Rayon Cord Is Used

Use of a new principle in synthetic passenger tire construction that will result in stronger and safer tires was disclosed yesterday by the United States Tire and Rubber company. The announcement was made in Chicago in conjunction with the automobile golden jubilee celebration at the Museum of Science and Industry.

Dr. S. M. Cadwell, chief tire scientist for the company, explained that the new tire uses rayon cord and is produced under a new scientific method of construction.

Stronger than Before War

"Up to now, synthetic passenger tires have been rated as being about 90 per cent as efficient as prewar natural rubber tires," Cadwell said. "However, thru the use of rayon cord and the employment of scientific methods of construction that take full advantage of rayon's superior qualities, the new tire has a stronger, safer carcass than prewar tires."

Dr. Cadwell reviewed the development of the automobile tire in the 50 years since the first race in the United States was held in Chicago on Thanksgiving day, 1895.

"The first set of pneumatic tires ever used on an American-made automobile was made in 1895 at the Hartford Rubber Works, which later became a part of the United States Rubber company," Dr. Cadwell said. "These tires were used on the Duryea motor car which won the Chicago race."

Tread Mileage Increased

Dr. Cadwell recalled some of the high spots in tire development. The introduction of cord tires in 1915 in which cloth or fabric was replaced produced a better carcass which in turn made possible a stronger tire less susceptible to failure. In 1918 tread mileage was raised from 6,000 to a 10,000 mile average thru use of carbon black which improved abrasion resistance.

The balloon tire introduced in 1924 increased driving comfort. Air pressure was reduced to about 30 pounds from the 75 pounds previously used in the high pressure type. The war brought the synthetic tire and with the many new materials available continued progress may be expected, he said.

Resist Heat and Cold

Beaumont, Tex., Nov. 20 [Special]—New, longer lasting motor oils developed by war time research will enable automobile engines to run smoothly even in extreme heat or cold, Dr. P. V. Keyser Jr., research director of the Socony-Vacuum Oil company laboratories at Paulsboro, N. J., tonight told the Texas-Louisiana section of the American Chemical society.

Small amounts of chemical agents are added to give the oils the desired new properties, Dr. Keyser said.

All purpose heavy duty oils developed during the war, suitable for use in either automotive or diesel engines, will be the new premium oils offered for automotive service by most companies, he said.

Chemical compounds added to these new oils keep an engine clean, lengthen the time an oil can be used before bearings corrode or excessive sludge forms, keep the oil fluid at low temperatures, and permit gears and bearings to operate under heavy loads or at high temperatures.

Propose Fact Finding Board in All Disputes

Washington, D. C., Nov. 20 (AP)—A suggestion that impartial fact-finding boards be named to help reach solutions in labor disputes was placed before the labor-management conference today.

The Rev. R. A. McGowan, director of the social action department of the National Catholic Welfare conference, outlined the plan to the public hearings committee of the conference. He said the boards should be composed of disinterested citizens. They would determine all facts connected with a major industrial dispute.

May File Separate Reports

"At present there isn't any method set up, either publicly or privately, for finding out the facts underlying such disputes," McGowan told the committee. He said this often prevents a speedy solution.

Management spokesmen, complaining of what they termed "unrealistic" work being done in committees, hinted they might file separate reports for conference consideration.

Of the six committees, only one has filed a progress report, altho all reports were called for on Friday.

Calls Off Week's Meetings

Still another committee, the one seeking remedies for jurisdictional disputes, called off all meetings for the rest of this week, hoping in the meantime to find some grounds on which its labor and industry members could get together.

A spokesman for the National Association of Manufacturers reported that industry delegates want changes providing for penalties in a proposed report of the committee on settlement of disputes arising under existing labor contracts. As written, the report recommends voluntary arbitration as the final step in achieving peaceable settlement.

IGOE HOLDS UP RAILS' ACTIONS TO REORGANIZE

Outcome of House Probe Awaited

Federal Judge Igoe yesterday postponed indefinitely all railroad reorganization proceedings awaiting his action. He said the move was made at the request of Rep. Reed [R., Ill.], who is asking all federal courts to suspend such proceedings pending the outcome of an "exhaustive investigation of the voting trust provisions in railroad organizations" by the house judiciary committee.

A resolution for such an investigation will be presented by Reed and his associates on the committee today. He charged last June that vast speculative profits were being made in railroad reorganizations.

The immediate effect of Judge Igoe's decision will be the cancellation of two proceedings in connection with the reorganization of the Milwaukee railroad.

Cancels Interview with Candidates

The first was an interview by Igoe of five persons nominated for the trusteeship of the road and the other was a hearing on a request of the present trustees for entry by the court of a final order on the reorganization plan. Other roads affected by Igoe's decision include the Rock Island and the Monon.

Besides congressional action, the departments of justice and commerce have become interested in the reorganizations and have undertaken investigations.

As a result of these moves it is expected that legislation that would nullify all pending railroad reorganizations will be offered in congress. This legislation would be designed to eliminate "monopolistic control" of reorganized roads, which was said to be inevitable under the provisions for voting trusts in plans pending in courts.

Charge Control By a Few

These plans provide for placing all voting stocks in trusteeships for several years, which would put the railroads' management under the control of a few persons, it was charged.

Last week Senators Wheeler [D., Mont.] and Reed [R., Kas.] submitted a resolution which provides for a comprehensive investigation of all railroad reorganizations by the committee on interstate commerce, headed by Wheeler.

PATMAN URGES HOUSING 'CZAR' TO RULE PRICES

Washington, D. C., Nov. 20 (AP)—A bill to create a national housing "czar," who would have authority to fix price ceilings on houses, was introduced today by Chairman Patman [D., Tex.] of the house small business committee.

The measure would authorize establishment of an office of housing stabilization, headed by a director. It specifies that the director would work "to prevent speculation and excessive profits in the sale of housing and to insure the availability of real estate for housing purposes at fair and reasonable prices."

His authority would include power to set maximum sales prices for housing, control priorities on housing materials, and specify order of occupancy for available housing facilities.

KELLOGG SWITCHBOARD

Please review Kellogg Switchboard and Supply company—N. E.

The plants of this manufacturer of manual and dial operated telephones, switchboards, and accessory equipment including wires and cables, have been reconverted to peace time operations. Since 1941 the facilities had been almost entirely devoted to producing communications equipment for the government or other essential war uses, and, until the recent removal of priority restrictions, service to civilian customers was necessarily curtailed.

Kellogg's regular customers are chiefly independent telephone operating companies and other businesses operating private telephone systems. Cordage, Inc., a subsidiary organized in 1944, manufactures rubber jacketed and retractable electric cords.

Altho Kellogg's 1944 sales totaled $13,008,000, compared with $5,573,000 in 1941, $3,320,000 in 1940 and $2,483,000 in 1939, last year's profit of 30 cents a share on the 267,835 common shares was below average, principally because of increased costs. For earlier years the share earnings were: 1943, 95 cents; 1942, 78 cents; 1941, $1.95; 1940, 96 cents; 1939, 62 cents; 1938, 73 cents; 1937, $1.51. Common dividends were: 40 cents in 1945, 30 cents in 1944, 55 cents in 1943, and at varying rates earlier. Payments were omitted after 1928 until 1936. Outstanding are 8,020 shares of $5 preferred. Net working capital last Dec. 31 was $3,384,000. There is no long term debt.

ANCIENT CARS TO RUN ROUTE OF 1895 RACE

Winner 50 Years Ago to Drive Again

BY PHILIP HAMPSON

Automobile history will be turned back 50 years tomorrow morning when 31 ancient and near-ancient cars will travel over the course of America's first official auto race—over Chicago's boulevards from Jackson park to Evanston and return. The run, to be made as a part of the golden jubilee of the automobile, being celebrated at the Museum of Science and Industry, will start at 9 a. m. and finish about 4:30 p. m.

The procession will be in three sections. The first will consist of six old cars symbolical of the six entries that got away from the starting line on Thanksgiving day, 1895. In the second will be 25 vintage cars recalling the early days of motoring. The third section will include sleek 1946 models in sharp contrast to the old cars. A weasel—an amphibious craft—will provide an example of what the automobile industry did for the war.

Parade North and Back

Thru Jackson park to the Midway, thence thru Washington park to Garfield blvd., west to Michigan av., north to the Drake hotel, north on Lake Shore dr., following Stockton dr. thru Lincoln park, north on Sheridan rd. to Main st., Evanston, west to Forest, north to Davis, west to Fountain square, with arrival at 11:30 a. m.

Returning the parade will leave Evanston at 1 p. m., as follows: South from Fountain square on Chicago av. to Clark st.; south to Ashland av.; south to Roscoe st.; west to Western av.; south to Belmont av.; west to Kedzie av.; south to Palmer square; east thru Palmer square and south on Sacramento to California blvd.; south to 31st st.; east to Western av.; south to 55th st.; east thru Washington park to the museum in Jackson park.

Riding in the old cars will be two men who took part in the original race, J. Frank Duryea and Charles B. King. Both are well past 70 years old.

Duryea to Drive

Duryea, 1896, Duryea.
Roberts electric, 1896, John Braejcha.
Sears, 1910, Barbara Lohr.
Schacht, 1907, Reuben Delaunty.
Holsman-Stanhope, 1909, Karl G. Gerzan.
Mier, 1905, Arthur Betan.

Among the old cars in the second section will be: Oldsmobile, 1903; Cadillac, 1907 and 1912, the latter equipped with the first electric self-starter; Ford, 1908; Packard, 1912; Gleason, 1909; Brush, 1906; Hupmobile, 1909; Stoddard-Dayton, 1911; Empire, 1913, and Moon, 1923.

The 1946 model group will include Buick, Cadillac, Chevrolet, and Oldsmobile cars. The weasel, to be manned by marines, was built by Studebaker.

Winner's Time: 7:53.

A heavy snow storm was a handicap to the 1895 race. Eleven cars struggled to the starting line, but only six got away. Two finished the race, the Duryea car, first, driven by J. Frank Duryea, and a Mueller-Benz, second, with Charles B. King at the wheel. The course was about 54½ miles and the winner's time was 7 hours 53 minutes, an average speed of a little more than 7 miles an hour.
